NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 4 .- Corbett party reached the city this morning over the Louisville & Nashville road. They came from Montgomery, where they gave a show last night. The train was an hour or two late and in consequence there were but few people on hand when the train came in. In the party were William Brady, Steve O'Donnell, Duncan O'Donnell, John McVey, Billy Delaney, Young Donaldson and Jim Daly. Mrs. Corbett was also along and she stuck close to her husband and heard every question that was propounded to him by newspaper men as well as his answers. "I see Fitzsimmons has been doing some more talking in his trip through the south,"

said the champion after his party had arranged their traps.

"Do you know what I think of Fitzsimmons? He is a fakir of the worst kind. He is trying his mightiest to get out of this fight, but I will fight him if I have to chase him to a corner so that there could be no escape. I wish the fight was tonight. I am anxious to get at him, for he has been making some statements that are absolutely false. "I am ready to fight within an hour," said Corbett. "I wish that the battle was to take place today in the Orympic club. Nothing would please me better. In my fight with Sullivan there was none of the worry that I have encountered in this match and which also arose with my fight with Mitchell. When the profession lost New Orleans they lost the best city in America for a championship. "Now don't you think a man in Fitz-simmons' position should be a little more circumspect in his talk? Every dollar, with the exception of $2,000 of Fitzsimmons' stake, has been seized. Now, supposing I do win the fight, I may get the short end of it after all. Fitzsimmons had better be making arall. Fitzsimmons had better be making ar-rargements to carry out his end of the con-tract instead of roasting me. Now, if Fitz-simmons would only put up his stake with-out any strings attached to it and agree upon a referee there is no governor on earth they will play during the winter, and they will play during the University club who could stop the fight. We could go into some deep forest where men very seldom are seen and settle our differences. I would be "Flizsimmons is a sly one," continued the "Flizsimmons is a sly one," continued the puglist, who by this time was worked up, "He worked things very smooth after that little affair in Green's hotel in Philadelphia.

Why, do you know, Fitz was beastly drunk that day. He had been making the crack that he was going to pull my nose the very first time that I saw him. I saw him in the hotel that day and noticed that he was jagged. I went up to and asked him if he had made such a statement, and his reply was that if he did he was willing to stand up to it. I simply caught his nose and gave it a tweak. Immediately after he jumped into a cab and drove around to all of the newspaper offices and gave them the highly colored ale that was published." "Where would you prefer to fight; in Mexto or the Indian Territory?" Corbett was

"If I have any choice in the matter, I would much prefer to fight in the Indian Ter-ritory. I would then be in my own country, and not run any chance of getting the worst

"Do you think the fight will take place?" "Well, you can bet all of your money that it will," replied Bill Brady. "Anything that Dan Stuart has anything to do with is bound to be a success. course very early tomorrow morning. Cap-tains Horan and Sheldon are both somewhat dubious as to the outcome of Saturday's games. Both of them say the question of supremacy lies in the hurdles. World's records are not likely to be broken, but in-tercollegiate may be. When seen this afternoon by a reporter of the Arsociated press, Captain Sheldon said that the 100-yard dash, as well as the shot, hammer and broad jump contests, were as good as won by Yale. He said the events of which he was doubtful were the 200-yard run and the hurdles. Captain Horan was sure that his men would win the 300-yard, quarter, half and one mile runs, but would not say how the hurdles might result. Both captains seemed nervous over the hurdles, and these events may turn the tide of affairs and give the Yan-kees or the Britons a victory. Harris was evidently in poor talked only on one subject and that was on condition, as he went to the floor twice in he many strings that were attached on the the opening round through his exertions, and was badly used up with a right hand jab, which laid him out so badly that the bell only saved him from going out. In the second Harris was knocked down three times with straight blows. In the furious fighting which followed Harris got all the worst of it. West dealt a fearful blow with his left on Harris' neck when they came together in the sixth round, and Harris was knocked silly in the seventh round with a straight right hand upper cut, and the referee awarded the fight to West. The next bout was a fifteen round go be-tween Frank Erne of Buffalo and Jack Skelly of Brooklyn.
