DEMOCRATIC JUDICIAL CONVENTION Candidates of the Nonpartisan Move-ment Are Endorsed.

The business of the democratic judicial convention, which met at the Board of Trade rooms yesterday afternoon, was soon transacted.

There was no opposition to the endorsemen of the nonpartisan citizens' judicial ticket and the proceedings were brief and harmonious. W. S. Shoemaker called the convention to order and the organization was perfected by the election of Ed B. Smith chairman and George Bertrand secretary.

As there were no contests the services of a committee on credentials were dispensed with and the convention proceeded to take an informal ballot. This resulted in casting the counties for M. R. Hopewell, W. W. Keysor, W. A. Redick, Eleazer Wakeley, A. N. Fer-guson, E. R. Duffie and George A. Magney. The ten Sarpy county votes were cast for Hon. Anthony E. Langdon of Papillion. In casting this vote Chairman Edgar Howard of the Sarpy delegation stated that the members were not opposed to reform in Omaha, but they desired to give a complimentary vote to Judge Langdon on account of his sterling democracy and undoubted qualifica-tions for the bench. After the informal ballot the name of Judge Langdon was withdrawn and the nomination of the candi-dates heretofore named was made unanimous. Judge Langdon, A. S. Resolved, That we, the democrats of the Fourth judicial district of Nebraska, in convention assembled, do hereby declare our firm adhesion to the principle that our judiciary be kept as far as possible out of party politics. We therefore denounce the partisan action of the republican judicial convention in nominating only men from its own ranks and refusing to nominate even those of our present republican judges, who, by their eminent fitness and good behavior, have won the esteem of all the people of all parties in this district, as subversive of the most sacred public interests.

A resolution was also passed by which the central committee was authorized to fill any lution, which was passed:

COULD NOT KEEP UP THE PACE. Rev del Carreres Makes a Game Effort but Quit in the Last Furlong.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.- The cold weather at Gravesend, with the moderate card that had been provided, made the attendance small today. The card was farther reduced by scratches, so there was little interest in the racing. The only semblance of a contest was in the Billow stakes, when Rey del Carreres attempted to give Handspring thirty-five pounds by the scale and a beating, and failed by a head. The start was none too good, as at the time the flag fell Handspring was two lengths ahead. The first furlong was run in twelve seconds, and then Carreres made his effort and took the lead, running the second furlong in twelve seconds. The third furlong was reached in thirty-six seconds, the fourth in forty-eight and the five furlongs in 1:01½ when Carreres began to hang, and Taral could not urge the big bay to the front, the 2-year-old winning handliy by a head. Mr. Croker after the race said he would probably take the colt to England and race him on shares, and that Sir Excess would be shipped in ten days. August Belmont will ship five yearlings to England in November, and if Henry of Navarre does well enough in the Municipal handleap at one and three-quarters miles at Morris park he may go too. DIFFICULTIES OF ALLOTMENT. Commissioner Browning Delivers au

Address Before the Conference.

MOHONK, N. Y., Oct. 10 .- At this more ing's session of the Indian conference the principal speakers were D. M. Browning, commissioner of Indian affairs, and ex-United States Senator Dawes of Massachusetts. They discussed the working of the law providing for the allotment to the Indians of lands in severality. It is impossible, Mr. Browning argued, to render the Indian selfsupporting so long as the old tribal relations continue. One obstacle in the way of allotment is found in the fact that some purposes. The lands allotted must be so good that the Indian can readily make a living from them. Another thing that worked against allotment is that the allotted lands are not taxable for twenty-five years The result is that the white communities about the allotted lands practically say to the Indians: "We will not give you cour! processes or school privileges, since we re-ceive no tax money from you." If the United States would make some provision for paying these white communities an amount in lieu of taxes, the public in favor of allo-ment would be greatly strengthened.

Mr. Browning read a paragraph from his annual report which has just been issued. depicting the evils connected with the leas-ing of lands by Indians. He thought legislation was needed to prevent the sale of whisky to Indians and to give the Indian department control over those to whom lands have been allotted so long as they need pro-

Ex-Senator Dawes followed. He said that he allotment policy had been at once an experiment and a necessity, congress having made provision for educating the Indians, found that something more was necessary. He could not be civilized and Christianized merely by intellectual training. It was necessary that he should have a home. The trouble was that the law had fallen among thieves. After the allotment had been made the government was authorized to sell the rest of the reservation. Grasping men saw their opportunity. Their aim was to have the Indians so disposed of that they themselves instead of the experiment being confined to one reservation, several reservations were being experimented with. The Indians were crowded off their reservations and the should have the best part of the reservation crowded off their reservations and the Harples seized whatever they could. It was the boast and pride of one government official who had to deal with the question that he had opened more reservations to the whites dians in some instances were allotted lands that they had never seen and could not find. Referring to the lease evil the senator said if the United States does its duty it will put the men off the land they have leased from the Indians since the Indians, having no title in the lands that had been allotted to them, had no right to lease them.

The subject was further discussed by Cap-tain Robert H. Pratt, superintendent of the Carlisle Indian school; President Francis of the Hampton, Rev. L. A. Rigg of the Sante agency. Nebraska, and Rev. Lyman Abbott of New York. At the evening session shor addresses were made by a number of Indians who spoke of the cutlook from their point of view. The conference will close tomorro
