POTATOES AN UNHEALTHY FOOD. The Tuber Discussed from a Literary,

Scientific and Culinary Point. John Gilmer Speed, Dr. Cyrus Edson (ex and Mrs. S. T. Rorer learnedly discuss "The Potato as a Daily Diet," in November Ladies Home Journal, and pretty conclusively prove that the humble but popular tuber is not a healthful article of food. Mr. Speed asserts that the potato as a food is not nearly so valuable as a food is not nearly so the state of the potato as a food is not nearly so the state of the potato as a food is not nearly so the leader. that the potato as a food is not nearly so valuable as we have very generally esteemed valuable as we have very generally esteemed it to be. It is quite deficient in nitrogen, and as a sole diet is therefore unsuitable. It is hard to digest and therefore should be partaken of very sparingly by all save those who live active lives out-of-doors. * * The potato provokes our great national allment, dyspepsia, and the sconer the consumption of the mealy tubers begins the sconer will the

A potate diet may lot san the courtight at once, but it is certain to injure their digestive organs permanently and effectually, so as to make their lives a burden to themselves and those who are brought in contact with them." Dr. Edson also contends that the potato is very deficient in nutritive qualities, and has less value as an article of food than most other vegetables and cereals.

Mrs. Rorer writes: "I am not a potato prohibitionist, but I firmly believe that potatoes should be served only with strongly concentrated nitrogenous food, such as roasted best, or, for the vegetarian, with beans, peas or lentils."
