band, Mr. T. J. Nolan called the meeting to order. On the platform were Charles A. Coo, E Rosewater, Frank J. Lange, John J. O'Rourke, John Carroll, John McMillan, John Rosicky and Joseph Maly.

Mr. Rosicky spoke to the large number present in the Bohemian language. "The questions," said he, "upon which we shall pass Tuesday are of great importance. One question is, shall our public affairs be controlled by a star chamber combine or by the people? Our liberties are at stake. Citizens to whom the constitution guarantees equal rights are ostracized and their rights denied. Now, this is a question of the deepest mo ment to all of us, and we must do our utmost on election day to see that proper, honest good men are elected to office

The chairman then called upon Mr. Rose water, who was greeted with cheers. He said that under ordinary circumstances it would not be the proper thing to undertake to dis-cuss political matters on the Sabbath day, but he ventured to say that never in the history of the county or of South Omaha had there been an occasion of greater importance than the election on next Tuesday. "It is a question." said he, "of electing honest men to handle the county funds. It is a question have a government of the people and by the people or a government conducted by a few men behind barred doors. Every man, woman and child, by the constitution, is granted equal privileges before the law, and the constitution provides equal religious freedom for all. Religion is not to be taken into consideration when a man ap-plies for a position or is a candidate for office. The liberty of you and your families are involved in this issue. The howling dervishes will tell you about important matters in Washington and will talk knowingly about the money market, but they will say nothing court house at Omaha. Referring to the raising of the saluries of the eight court balliffs by the last legis-ture, Mr. Rosewater asked why the legis-lature of the state of Nebraska should be called upon to go through a lot of red tape for the sake of a few doorkeepers at the court house. The bailiffs were nothing but doorkcepers in the first place, but many of them acted as sneaks and spies and tattled what was whispered about the court room, and that was why their pay had been raised. When a judge undertook to override the constitution of the United States and the pre-rogatives of the governor of the state he had no right on the bench. "I refer to Scott." said Mr. Rosewater. "The city, county and atate have been scandalized by his acts, and yet he goes from county to county and tells the people lies. He tells the people that a judge must be a man of integrity. Scott came to Omaha from Council Biuffs because his creditors made it so hot for him that he had to move. It was not the bankers that he owed money to, but to washwomen, butch-ers, grocers and bakers." The bill due Gus Andreen and one for carpenter work which Scott had refused to pay were mentioned and in connection with the carpenter bill the speaker stated the fact that when the car-penter called for his money he was told never to come again on pain of being roughly NONPARTISAN JUDICIARY IS REMEDY "Scott goes around the county," said Mr Rosewater, "telling people that a man with patch on his pants can get the same justice in his court that a man dressed in broadcloth can. This statement is not true, and every one who has ever had anything to do with the criminal court for the last four years as juror or witness knows it. I appeal to you as intelligent American citizens and voters to free yourselves from this bondage by voting for all of the seven judges on the citizens' ticket next Tuesday." Before concluding his remarks Mr. Rosewater spoke a few words in favor of Tom Hoctor, the local candidate for county commissioner for the Fourth district, and also for Charles A. Coe and Frank Lange. He described how Israel Frank and George Stryker had robbid the taxpayers. Mention was made of the charges that Sheriff Drexel had needlessly called upon the governor for militia in the strike last year, and it was shown that Tom Majors and others had forced Drexel to sign the request for troops much against his will and best judgment. Charles A. Coe, candidate for clerk of the district court, spoke for a moment only, as he stated that he had an engagement in Omaha at 4 o'clock. Mr. Coe said that was satisfied that he was fighting for the right cause and that every voter who had the true interests of Douglas county and the state hears would surely vote to turn down the A. P. The soldlers are gradually improving in their play, under the coaching of Jimmy their play, under the coaching of Jimmy Gardner, and they demonstrated to their opponents that they were not in the game. The soldiers assumed the aggressive from the start, and in seven minutes Gray kicked a goal for the fort. Immediately afterward O'Connor was forced to give a corner in order to save his goal, which Cavacagh placed well, but it was kicked over. After the change of ends Thiesson of Hay-dens made a fine run along the left wing, but at the last moment was stopped by Allan. Haydens made a vigorous onskught on the soldiers' goal, which kept them busy in punting out, and Roach did some splen-did work on the deferse. After a few min-utes the ball was then sent into Haydens' quarters, where North had the goal at his mercy, but in some way fumbled and lost. Russell made up for the mistake a moment later by sending the leather through, which made the score 2 goals to 0 in favor of the soldiers. Noar the close of play Kearney and Russell made a joint run together and had a splendid chance to score, but got their feet mixed up, which gave the defense time to get around and clear their charge.
