Authorities Take Energetic Steps to Stamp Out Contagious Diseases. City Physician Treynor gave orders yenerday that one of the rooms in the Twentieth Avenue school should be closed this morning for purposes of fumigation. A little girl named Kessler was taken ill in the room last Friday, and had to go home, where it was found that she was suffering from a case of diphtheria. The room will probably remain closed for nine days, in conformity with the custom so far observed.

The parents of the school children, and the citizens generally, are taking the closing of the schools now more philosophically than when the first announcement of such action was made. They are commencing to see that the disease has been gotten under conthat the disease has been gotten under con-trol much more effectively than it could have been if the old custom had been fol-lowed. Although it has caused some little inconvenience, and the pupils in nearly a dozen school rooms in the city have been cheated out of a good many days of school-ing, the cases have been for the past few days very scattering, and the indications are that the danger of an epidemic of either diphtheria or scarlet fever is at an end.

This fact is due largely to the recognition by the parents of the necessity that existed for carrying out the rules of the Board of Health, and to the prompt way in which the orders of the city physician have been

The quarantining of the houses where patients are confined has naturally resulted in a good deal of hardship on those whose business is carried on at home. One man who wove carpets was quarantined by rea-son of the sickness of his child and had to call on the county overseer of the poor for financial assistance. Several families have been afflicted whose sole support was the mother, who took in washing. The quarantine has, of course, prevented the mothers from working, and they are con-sequently in hard straits. Some of those who are worse off have refused to ask for aid on account of personal pride, preferring to suffer for lack of the necessaries of life than to acknowledge their need.

BOSS OF THE MACHINE.

Marvelous Speed of a Denver Machine Printer. Eugene Taylor of the Rocky Mountain News

operator in the west. He has been engaged learned the rudiments of the printers' trade, and was given a chance on the first of the linotype machines that came to Denver. As a printer, says the News, Mr. Taylor was not recognized in the fast class, and it was not thought that he would make much of a success on the machines. His work was surprise from the time that he became familiar with the keyboard and the various eccentricities of the mechanism. Among other workers at the same trade he has been amous for the past four years, easily doing more than any other man in the office. At but one time has there been in the city an operator who threatened his place as the Texas, who was in Denver two years ago, gave Mr. Taylor a pretty hard chase, and some authorities think was the fastest man. Since that time Mr. Taylor has improved in speed wonderfully.

To one not acquainted with the work of machine operators the following figures will give some idea of how Mr. Taylor's work appears beside that of others. Five thousand ems an hour, as the printer measures his work, is fair, and few can make 6,000 an hour during the day. Mr. Taylor, working on the machines in the News office, has averaged 7,500 for an entire week's work taking copy from the hook as it This means setting all kinds of mat ter, containing names and figures, which are more difficult to keep in the head than "straight matter," or an ordinary newspaper article. In a trial hour's work last week he set 12,900 ems; taking out 500 for correction of errors made in composition, he had 12,400 net as the result. Thursday he tried again, machines not working as well as on his former trial, and set 12,900 gross, 12,000 net, the first hour, and 12,200 the next Mr. Taylor does not find it necessary to the keyboard of the machine and is able to sit at his machine and talk to all who pass while doing his fastest work. Or Monday he will leave for Chicago to be pre pared for the match with Mr. Green of Boston. The match will occur in the office of the Chicago Dispatch, November 24. Mergenthaler Linotype company will give the winner $250 and each contestant has bet

PRINTED PRAYERS NOT THE THINGS Those that Come Through the Mouth from the Heart Count.

At the St. Mary's Avenue Congregational church Rev. S. Wright Butler spoke yes erday morning on "Prayer." The sermon was an exceptionally able effort, and was heard with more than usual interest.

The speaker declared that prayer was not the exclusive function or privilege of any particular class of individuals. It could not be delegated to the clergy, and if any man expected to find favor with the Almighty t must be through his own petitions. Dr. Butler took positive ground against the sysem of using read or intoned prayers. He asserted that in order to be of any value in the eyes of the Omnipo ent t e prayer must e extemporaneous, the personal appeal o the man to his Creator. Some prople went on the theory that God was a professor of rhetoric, and that a prayer must be formulated in the most pol ished phrases in order to be acceptable. Such prayer was like a letter copied out of a "Complete Letter Writer," and the most humble petition which came straight from the heart of the supplicant was infinitely more acceptable to God. Prayer was the telegraph line that connected every human soul with the heart of the Infinite. Every human being had a special line and an unlimited frank for its use. The man who never prayed except when he had some favor to ask was not likely to find the Almighty's ear favor ably inclined towards his petition. Preceding the sermon, the congregation united in singing the national hymn in memory of its author, James G. Smith, who died Saturday in Boston.
