A marriage license was issued by the county clerk yesterday to Mr. Hubby, aged 31, and Miss McCready, aged 21, both of Macedonia.

White Rose Hebeke lodge will give a party at the home of Mrs. P. H. O. P. and friends are cordially invited to attend. A program has been arranged to entertain all who may be present.

A pleasing entertainment was given at Dohany's last evening under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian association. A small audience was present, owing to the fact that very few knew that it was to be given.

William Zintz was given a hearing before Judge Cook yesterday in the charge of stealing a chicken from Z. W. Cole. Mr. Cole and his wife did not seem very enthusiastic about prosecuting a hearing to identify the chicken. Zintz was discharged.

David Hatfield, who works for the water works company, was arrested last evening on a charge of stealing a bag of flour from the flour mill of John Phillips of the axe handle factory on Eleventh street and Avenue A. E. W. Hart signed a bail bond and he was released.

Marshall Canning made a raid on a house on South Eighth street, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, last night about 10 o'clock and caught Frank, a young boy, who is a maker and Charles Holder. All three were jailed and charged with vagrancy. It is probable that they will be charged with keeping and occupying a house without a license.

St. Paul's and Grace churches will hold a union service tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock, at St. Paul's church, in the interests of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. The dresses will be delivered by Mr. W. R. Sterling of Chicago, one of the founders of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. The prominent brotherhood man. All are invited.

John Kilson, the colored man who attempted to cheat the police at Red Oak, where he sold small snags a few days ago by the "short change" dodge, was sentenced to thirty days in jail yesterday by Judge McGee, but the sentence was suspended inasmuch as he had not been successful, on condition of his leaving the city within thirty minutes and staying in the country.

The new steam heating plant in Dohany's theater was partially turned on last evening, and worked well, although the house was not so warm as it has been. It has been possible to use the whole plant. It will be completed today in time for the performance of "Sisbad" this evening, and no one need be deterred from attending by the fear that the house will not be warm.

D. H. Kilmore's meat market, at 544 West Broadway, was gutted by fire at an early hour yesterday morning. The building was very old and infirm, and was the property of an eastern insurance company. The damage is estimated at $1,000, but the surrounding property owners claim their property will be sufficiently enhanced in value to make up a large part of the loss. Fully insured.

A great deal of interest is being manifested in the announcement that "Sisbad" will be presented at the New Dohany theater this evening. The magnitude of this attraction, which comes with a vast amount of scenery, has compelled the management to increase the price of admission. Seats in the parquet will be $1.50, parquet circle $1.00, first three rows $1.00, second three rows 50 cents, gallery 25 cents.

The members of the High school foot ball team returned yesterday from Red Oak, where they conquered the High school team of that place Thursday, in great spirits over the treatment they received. They were fettered a reception at the residence of Mrs. M. J. Money by the young ladies of the High school, and were made the lions of the occasion. Before the game the girls presented the Red Oak club a fine silk banner. Some Council Bluffs traveling men who were present and saw the game determined that they would not be outdone, and presented the Council Bluffs boys with a banner. Yesterday afternoon the team went to a local photograph gallery and had their pictures taken in a group.

The Standard piano next to the Hardman. Parris Sent up for a Week. John P. Farris of Macedonia, who persisted in calling on his wife after the commission of murder in Macedonia, will not stay away, way up for another examination yesterday morning. So far as could be learned he had done nothing out of the way, but his wife was afraid of him and had him arrested for fear of what he might do. He has been living with relatives in Dunrath, Marion county, Ia., for the past month, and had earned enough money to pay the fare from there to Macedonia, and $5 over.

It seemed from the story he told that his relatives in Marion county were anxious to get rid of him as those in Pottawattamie and had urged him to come back and make up with his wife. He said, when he found what trouble he had gotten into, that he was a fool for coming back, and would not have done so if his relatives had not urged him so strongly. He was sent to St. Bernard's hospital for a week's examination. The belief of the commissioners is that he is not insane, but merely possessed of a rankling desire to beat somebody, and choose his wife as the most appropriate subject.

MRS. CARTER TELLS HER STORY.

Sticks to Her Tale About Dr. Poulson's Taking OR. Mrs. Lizzie Carter, alias Lizzie Barton, was given an opportunity yesterday morning to tell all she knew about the death of Dr. P. W. Poulson, with the members of the Board of Commissioners of Insanity for an audience. She was asked a great many questions as to why she thought that Dr. Poulson was murdered by his wife, and why she wrote the letters in which she exploited her belief to Mrs. W. A. Mynter and others in this city. She replied to all questions in a calm and collected manner, and made the commissioners wonder whether she was wound up for eight days or only twenty-four hours.

"Of course I write the letters to Mynter and his wife," said she, "but they did not take them in the way in which they were intended to be taken. I intended them to be like the children of a minister, who warns his congregation to turn from their ways or suffer the consequences."

She said she formerly lived in Brockport, N. Y., and her business was that of a medical practitioner and clairvoyant, most of her patients being of the latter class. She was acquainted with Dr. Poulson, fifteen years ago in Chicago, when he came into a photograph gallery which she was running on Madison street. He told her that he was in need of money in the west, and she took his money and left Chicago. She conducted a photographic gallery in Denver, Salt Lake City, San Francisco and other western cities.

"Attempts were made to poison him several times in California," she went on. "The first time was when I was living in Los Angeles. He came in to see me one day and said he was going to Council Bluffs, for he couldn't stand any longer in his own home. He had been poisoned. He had taken supper the night before at his home in Fruitvale, the members of his family being present. He was taken to the river and found by me. He was called by his wife's mother was the only one there. He asked for his breakfast. She told him there was nothing in the house, but finally she brought a cup of coffee. She said she drank it he was taken violently sick, vomited, and was in bed for four days. A chemist, who was in investigation and he had asked enough arsenic to poison a dozen men."

"When I picked up an Omaha paper and saw an account of the doctor's death I at once said to myself, 'This is the man with whom I came in contact and went up to the room and saw blood on the floor and bloody clothes lying around. There was a man in his face, and he had been killed. He had a black and blue mark on his neck. I have been told, black as though he had been choked. Every body knows that heart disease does not kill a man in that way. I have been told that I received a letter from a man in Omaha, who said he would help me find out who had killed Dr. Poulson. I went across the river and found he was a doctor named an 'Oudja' book. We all sat around it and it spelled the name of Dr. Poulson. The man with the board said, 'What do you want?'"

"I want to know what happened to Dr. Poulson," she said. "I want you to help her all you can to unravel the mystery of my taking her life."

"Dr. Poulson had told me often of the dejection he felt for Mrs. Seip, who is now Mrs. Mynter. One day he took her to his own house and peered through a hole in the door and saw Mynter and Mrs. Seip ransacking the doctor's papers. The doctor always drank milk before he went to bed. The morning after his death Mrs. Seip found some milk in his room and gave it to his son Hiram, taking it to take it home to his wife, who could use it in cooking. He took it home and it soon turned a queer color, between green and blue. His wife unfortunately threw it away without having it analyzed."

When asked as to whether she had ever been inmate of any asylum in California, Mrs. Carter said she had, "but only as a newspaper woman. They had me go in for awhile to find out how things were being run, and when I got out I was published in the San Francisco papers."

She also told the board that she was the daughter of J. H. Healdy, the English writer, and niece of J. T. Healdy, the American historian.

W. C. Estep, the undertaker who buried Dr. Poulson, has been named as the recipient of some violent philippic from Mrs. Carter's pen, told the board what he knew about the case, and in the course of his testimony told a rather funny incident that casts a shadow over Mrs. Carter's pretensions to "clair-sightness," as she defines clairvoyance. One day he ate dinner with his attorney in a town restaurant, and while there he told the attorney a full history of the affair. The next day Mrs. Carter's letter was published in the Omaha paper, and she was able to care for herself and would rather have her case go to trial in the federal court than in an asylum, but she declined to grant her request for a continuance of a week. Her preliminary hearing before the board of the United States court is set for December 10.

Could Not Identify Them. Souleke Boyan and John Peterson, who claimed to have been made targets for a revolver in the hands of one of three men who refused to pay for the drinks at their respective establishments, fell down utterly when it came to fastening the crime upon them, and Van W. W. and Walter Myers. They said that those were not the three men, in spite of the fact that they answered the description almost perfectly. All that could be done was to assess a fine of $1.75 against each of the men for carrying concealed weapons, and this amount was paid in by them.

CHARLES MCCOY GAVE HER AWAY.

Mollie Graham's "Boarder" Falls to Remains Loyal to Her. Charles McCoy who claimed to have "boarded" at Mollie Graham's house last spring, was brought into court yesterday by the attorneys for the Leutinger estate, and testified that she got a revolver one night and declared she would use it on Leutinger before morning.

Thomas Maloney stated that his father-in-law was very much excited after Mollie visited his house on the night of her arrest, that he had a black eye and several scratches about his throat. Mrs. Maloney also told of Mollie's conduct on the night of the same night and asking if Mr. Leutinger was there. She said to tell him that her brother was there and wanted to see him. On going to the house one of the doors was found broken open.

Dr. Thomas and Dr. Macrae each testified to the fact that on a person in the physical condition in which Mrs. Graham then was of walking long distances.

Frank Gilfeather, who was said to be an important witness for the plaintiff, was called to the stand by the defense and asked if he was the Gilfeather whom the plaintiff wanted to swear to the conversation with Leutinger, in which the latter offered her $100,000 to marry her. He admitted that he was, and the defense turned him over to the plaintiff's attorneys for examination. He was allowed to step down without a word of cross-examination.

GREEN GOODS MEN. Novel Schemes Resorted To in Pushing the Queer.

The detectives of the Postoffice department have been doing some great work recently in the suppression of the green goods men, says the Washington Star. Heretofore the operators of this kind of swindle have been located in the east, and chiefly in New York City. Finding the metropolis too hot to hold them recently, they have established headquarters in the west. Three gangs, one located at Oakland, California, one at St. Louis, Mich., and one at Chicago, have been sprung up through the efforts of the government hawkhounds. One of the most enterprising of the gangs had headquarters at Sacramento and Oakland. It added some new features to the old fraud. Letters and circulars were sealed, addressed and stamped, but instead of depositing them in the mails, they were themselves canceled the stamps with bogus postmarks, after which the envelopes were cut or torn open. The sealed letters appeared of having been regularly mailed, received and opened by the addressees. The letters were then dropped about in cities and small towns where they were likely to be picked up by prospective victims.

A person finding one of these letters would naturally inquire if the name received, opened and lost by the addressee. It was intended that the finder should then avail himself of the opportunity to obtain for a small price counterfeit postage stamps, stolen government plates and indistinguishable from the genuine. One advantage of this idea was that it did not render the operators amenable for violation of the postal laws. However, the subsequent correspondence with the victims was carried on through the mails.

It was an ingenious scheme, and to convict the criminals was no easy matter. Postoffice detectives entered into correspondence with the swindlers, and the letters and the letters were photographed, to be held for evidence in court. This was necessary, in order that the original documents might be returned, as requested by the green goods men. If they had not been returned, suspicion might have been aroused. In this manner a deal was arranged, and the result in the arrest of two of the criminals, who were afterward convicted and sentenced.

DEMAND A TWO-CENT FARE.

Iowa Legislature Will Receive a Proposition Along This Line.

WHY IT HAS BEEN IGNORED PREVIOUSLY.

Leading Advocates of the Reduced Rates Will Receive a Fat Fee If the Legislation Can Be Secured.

DES MOINES, Nov. 29.—(Special.)—It is announced that the movement in favor of a 2-cent-per-mile passenger rate on railroads in this state will be brought up again in the legislature during the coming winter. The announcement is generally made at about this stage of the proceedings each legislative winter. The advocates of the measure who have declared they will bring it forward are not very well informed as to the probable attitude of the legislature toward it, but will give the body a chance to go on record. Since the winter of 1888 there has not been a session of the legislature when this question has not been brought before the assembly. In the famous legislature of 1888 the anti-railroad sentiment was strong, and that body enacted the laws for railroad control which are now in force. They made the railroad companies collect a fare of 10 cents for the most important changes in the laws. At that time the move for the 2-cent fare came near succeeding. The bill passed the house, but failed on a close vote in the senate. Since then each legislature has had a chance to vote on the measure, but it has never had a serious chance of passage. It can only be that the how the legislature will stand on the question, but the opinion is that there is little prospect of the measure getting any farther than the assembly. The general view is that the legislature will not mix up much in railroad matters.

E. E. Carpenter of Beloit, who has been engaged for several years in an effort to get the assessed value of the railroad property in the state increased, will be on hand again during the coming winter. He was in the city recently, and the committee has had been before the board of supervisors of nearly all the counties of the state, and had secured authority to represent nearly all of them in the matter of the assessment. An effort to get legislation that will compel the extensive company to increase the assessment. His plan heretofore has been to work with the county boards of supervisors, which has always received him cordly. One of the reasons why he has never had much influence with the council is that he has not been able to get the council to pass the measure. He has been successful in getting the council to pass the measure in some counties, but in his effort to get the legislature to increase the assessment he will have the assurance of commissions, to be paid in this way, if the measure can be carried.

His Advice. He was unmistakably a sporting character; his appearance and his conversation both of the race track. He had known the eminent politician in other days, says the Washington Star, and with the familiarity of old acquaintance he said to the reporter: "You will look 'fur takers on Free Silver." "Sixteen," take my advice an' change de odds. "You're ter one was all right for a starter, but y'd better give longer odds. From all I kin hear from me fren's it's a hundred-to-one shot at the lowest calculation."

Prayer Makes a Woman Whole. After Being an Invalid for Years Her Strength Suddenly Returned. WEBSTER CITY, Nov. 29.—(Special.)—Mrs. Aicy Van Syke has been an invalid, unable to move from her chair or a bed without being carried, for years. She is a devout member of the Methodist church, and during all the time of her affliction she has prayed for relief. It is understood that in his effort to get the legislature to increase the assessment he will have the assurance of commissions, to be paid in this way, if the measure can be carried.

No Corn for Speculators. WEBSTER CITY, Ia., Nov. 29.—(Special.)—The fact is becoming more apparent every day that Iowa farmers are to hold the time for better prices. During the past week or less than a dozen buyers have been in this market, and notwithstanding the fact that in several cases the market price has almost impossible for them to buy any corn. The great crisis built here are standing firmly, and the farmers who are offered to crib their corn as well as the dealers can, and they mean to do it.

Held the Firm Liable. WEBSTER CITY, Ia., Nov. 29.—(Special.)—E. Crabtree & Son have been held liable, at least for a short time, for a small loan of $1,000. He secured the money at a bank in Iowa Falls, and John Hayes and William Gerber were the guarantors. The money was stolen from the genuine. One advantage of this idea was that it did not render the operators amenable for violation of the postal laws. However, the subsequent correspondence with the victims was carried on through the mails.
