IT GOES TO THE JURY TODAY

Morgan Murder Trial is Almost at an End.

LAWYERS MAKING THEIR ARGUMENTS

Expected that They Will Get Through This Morning—Last Testimony for Defense and in Rebuttal.

All of the testimony in the Morgan murder trial was on record shortly after noon yesterday and the arguments were begun.

As soon as the case was closed the county attorney said that in the arguments to the jury it would be necessary for the counsel to use words of unequivocal meaning.

In the morning the defense put its last witnesses on the stand. The principal one was William Thompson, the driver of Morgan's car.

Mrs. S. C. Lindley, who lives in the same house with Sanford and Morgan, but in rooms across the hall, was the first witness.

AGREED ON THE FISH STORY

William H. Thompson, 524 South Seventeenth street, was the next witness called. He was a friend of Morgan, the Thompson who Morgan had so often mentioned in his testimony.

Thompson corroborated the fish story told by Morgan. He said that either on the Thursday or Friday before the murder he had been in the room with Morgan and had seen the fish.

That was all the direct testimony that the witness was asked to give. On cross-examination Thompson said that he and Sanford left the room within ten minutes after Morgan's return. Morgan had, in the meantime, passed into his room. Thompson and Sanford returned at 9 o'clock. There was a

LEGAL LORE MAKES A BLAZE.

Fire Play Have with Law Libraries in Omaha National Bank Block.

Shortly after 9 o'clock yesterday F. J. Meiding, stenographer for Charles Offutt, with offices on the third floor of the Omaha National bank building, discovered some traces of smoke curling up from between the base boards near a case of law books, and turned in a fire alarm.

When the department arrived on the scene smoke was issuing from both front and rear windows of the building. Chief Redell ordered all windows closed and a couple of lines from the chemicals carried up to the second and third floors.

When the fire was extinguished it was found that the damage done by the books of the law firm was considerably greater than at first supposed.

THEY BOOSTED UP THE PRICE.

Coal Dealers Followed the Pace Set by the Railroad.

The price of hard coal took a jump yesterday morning, going to $9 a ton, and it is now selling at that price.

When the season opened, owing to the demoralization of the railroad rates on coal from Chicago to Omaha, the price of anthracite opened at $7.50 a ton, an unusually low price for this section of country.

IF ALL RESTS WITH THE JURY.

When court reconvened in the afternoon the cross-examination of Booker was resumed.

Booker said that he had no engagement to take supper with Mrs. Gaskill on that Sunday evening and that he had not seen her that he would be there at 7 o'clock.

HANKER SATTLEY ENTERS PRISON.

Found Another Ex-Banker There for a Cellmate.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Dec. 6.—When the fast mail train from St. Louis reached here at noon today Elmer C. Sattley, ex-cashier of the wrecked Kansas City Safe Deposit and Savings bank, under sentence of four years in the penitentiary, stylishly dressed and carrying a Gladstone bag in his right hand stepped quickly from the front platform of the rear Pullman and walked jauntily to where his lawyer, John O'Grady of Kansas City, was standing waiting for him.

When the department arrived on the scene smoke was issuing from both front and rear windows of the building. Chief Redell ordered all windows closed and a couple of lines from the chemicals carried up to the second and third floors.

When the fire was extinguished it was found that the damage done by the books of the law firm was considerably greater than at first supposed.

Rejected Romero's Measure.

BUNENOS AYRES, Dec. 6.—The senate rejected by a vote of 15 to 19, Senator Romero's amendment to the constitution, which would have given the president the right to appoint and remove judges.

IS AFRAID OF FREE SILVER

M. H. De Young Talks National Politics to a New York Reporter.

POSSIBLE DEMOCRAT POLICY OUTLINED

Tells the New York People that the Southern and Western Democrats United May Elect the Next President.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The Herald this morning says: Michael H. De Young, proprietor of the San Francisco Chronicle and member of the national committee, is in this city. He is on his way to Washington to present the claims of San Francisco as the place for holding the next republican national convention.

"These are persons in this part of the country," he said, "who are figuring on a republican walkover and I notice that Bruce, on behalf of a certain class of democrats, has thrown up the sponge. There are other democrats like ex-Speaker Crisp, for instance, who take a less cheerless view of the situation. To me it seems that Crisp is figuring something like this: The group of states known as the solid south, which have 166 electoral votes, can be depended upon to take any action in the national convention that its leaders dictate."

"Now, suppose in their wisdom, they decide upon a flat-footed plan favoring free and independent coinage of silver, what help could they expect? They are perfectly aware of the situation and know that they could depend upon the delegates from the following states to stand in with them: California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Washington, Wisconsin, Wyoming and Utah."

"These fifteen states have all shown pronounced silver or populist leanings, and the latter just now mean free silver. Illinois, as we know, would, in all probability, send a delegation favorable to free silver, as the leading democratic politicians of the state are pronounced in their advocacy of free coinage."

"The democratic convention will stick to the two-thirds rule and the delegates from the latter just now mean free silver. Illinois, as we know, would, in all probability, send a delegation favorable to free silver, as the leading democratic politicians of the state are pronounced in their advocacy of free coinage."

"Who would the democrats nominate on a silver platform?" "I don't know whether they would have the courage to nominate a former confederate general, but there are signs of a disposition on their part to consider the war at an end. If so there is no reason why they should not put up Morgan of Alabama. I should regard him as a dangerous opponent on a free silver platform. If our party has not sagacity enough to see the drift of events, if good sense prevails and the republicans come out for silver and show that they are in earnest, no demagogue candidate could have a show again, for bimetalism and protection are logically connected."
