ments, naval reserves, etc., formed into line at 10:30 o'clock and marched to the grounds, escorted by the Gate City guards. On arriving at the exposition they were reviewed by Governor Brown and staff from the music stand opposite the Pennsylvania building.

The day's exercises at the Auditorium began at 11 o'clock. Rev. P. N. Murklis delivered the Maryland day oration. Governor Brown in his address spoke in part ao follows: Governor Brown expressed his appreciation of the welcome extended to the Maryland delegation and complimented the people of Atlanta in glowing terms upon the progress they have made since the civil war, as shown

The interests of Maryland and of Georgia are one, he said, and he thanked the people of Georgia for the aid they have given in making

Baltimore the metropolis of the south

Bailimore the metropolis of the south. The solid south, he exclaimed: yes, God forbid that it should be otherwise. Bound together as we are by the ties of blood and fraternal fellowship, we are a united people in defending our rights as American citi-zens, in supporting the integrity of this great and glorious union of states. From the banks of the Rio Grande to the shores of the Chesapeake, we stand as one man in whatever is for our material interests. It is true we may locally be attracted momen-tarily by glittering magnets, but as the needle to the pole, when the fluctuations are over we return to our bearings and are again the solid south. The same blood courses through our veins, the same spirit moves us and the same love of contry and institutions will ever guide us in whatever is best for this American continent of ours, as guided our forefathers when they resisted all attempts to infringe upon their rights as free American, citizens, And let me say to the south of Maryland, whilst ever the blood of their ancestors holds its vitality, will ever respond to what-ever interests her sister states of the south may have, that would assist in the least in furthering the interests of our common country.

of all the hogs sold at 33.55671 5712, with a sprink-ling at 33.40. The hog market of the past week has shown a decided inclination to fluctuate back and forth, and on no day was it possible to quote the mar-ket as unchanged. The week opened with a 567 9c decime, the bulk of the hogs selling on Monday at $3.75, but the loss was made up on Tuesday, when the bulk brought $3.4033.45. On Wednes-day they took of a shaving, and while Thursday's market opened lower, the general trade did not show much change. The hogs on both Wednes-day and Thursday sold principally at $3.5363.49. On Friday the market went off about 5c, but as noted above, the market wort off about 5c, but as noted above, the market with the great bulk of the sales at $3.559.3712, or a shade higher than it opened. Wool Market. LONDON, Dec. 7.—There was a firm tone to the wool sailes today. Good, deep merinos were in netive request at extreme figures, while lower, faulty grades unled inregular.
