

SULTAN GIVES IN AT LAST

Firmans Issued for the Admission of Guardships Through the Dardanelles.

IS A BARREN TRIUMPH FOR THE POWERS

No Statement Yet as to Just What the Powers Will Avail Themselves of the Privilege Granted.

(Copyrighted, 1895, by the Associated Press.) CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 9.—(Via Sofia, Bulgaria, Dec. 10.)—The long drawn out controversy between the ambassadors of the powers and the sultan over the question of the admission of additional guardships for the protection of the embassies was settled at 8:10 o'clock this evening by the issuance of an irade granting the necessary firmans to permit the guardships to pass the Dardanelles.

The demand was first made upon the sultan on November 19, and scarcely a day has passed since then without its being renewed in a more or less peremptory manner. The fugacity displayed by the Turkish government in evading a direct answer to the demand, or when forced to answer, the effective pleadings put forth for delay had almost brought the mind of Europe to the conviction that the demand would never be complied with. Meantime, days and weeks passed by without any action, and the condition of things in Constantinople that brought out the demand was almost passed. The final triumph of the powers in forcing a compliance with their demands seems a barren one, and the long sought permission to enable the regular guardships to pass the straits, now that it is obtained, seems hardly worth taking advantage of.

TURKS DISGUISED AS ARMENIANS

Scheme to Lay the Cause of the Outbreak on the Latter.

(Copyrighted, 1895, by the Associated Press.) CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 9.—(Via Sofia, Bulgaria, Dec. 10.)—The following account has just been received of the massacre at Bitlis on October 23: "The Turks, armed, assembled in the mosques and several others dressed as Armenians fired pistols in the courtyard of the mosque of Oostanliam, near the market place in order to afford a pretext for the massacre. The Turks then raised the cries of 'Glauros' are attacking the mosque. Then they combined in an attack upon the market. The Armenian traders were massacred, their shops were looted and the houses of the Armenian quarters, killed women and children. The rioters were aided by the Kurdish tribes of Modigan and Khoutli. The disturbances in the villages around Bitlis and in the vicinity of the town itself. Five villages were completely demolished.

"A report received here from Van states that forty villages in that vicinity have been devastated and plundered, and that the entire population, consisting of 14,000 persons, has been dispersed to the hills. Everywhere, it is added, there is massacre, pillage, famine and fire at work in exterminating the Armenians. It is also stated that fifty villages around Sivras were devastated by the Turkish bandits, officers and gendarmes, while the population fled and wandered over the surrounding country. The village of Andros, it is further stated, was attacked on October 28, a number of the inhabitants were slain, and a number of old men, women and children who sought refuge in the church are said to have been massacred by the Turkish bandits, officers and gendarmes, while the population fled and wandered over the surrounding country.

"The commission sent to estimate the loss sustained by the British missionaries at the riots at Marash has fixed the amount at $2,400. The commission investigating the damage to American missionaries' property at Kharpout has not yet reported. Previous to leaving the British embassy, where he had taken refuge, said Pasha, the ex-grand vizier, requested the sultan to permit him to leave the country with his family. Further advice are continually being received here of the unabated disorders in the interior, and especially of the burning of Armenian villages. This form of outrage is particularly prevalent in the vilayet of Van, where the distress existing is terrible.

The ports have not yet granted the exequatours to the new British vice consuls at Van and Sivras, the inevitable policy of delay having been followed in this as well as in all diplomatic dealings of the Turkish government. Sir Philip Currie, the British ambassador, has determined the newly appointed vice consuls shall start for their posts on next Wednesday, with or without their exequatours. Fresh placards signed by the Ottoman committee of progress and union of reform have been posted throughout the country today, and particularly in the Kassim Pasha quarter. These placards contain a manifesto denouncing the present regime of spoliation and oppression and calling upon the sultan to restore religion, to unite in demanding justice, liberty and reform. If the demands are refused the manifesto appeals to Germany and to another manner the status upon the nation's name.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN TALKS AGAIN.

Ex-Champion Gives His Ideas of Pugilism of Today.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Ex-Champion John L. Sullivan, who is in this city, in anticipation of a benefit performance which "Parson" Davies is arranging for him, while talking with a group of newspaper men and friends was induced to say a word about Corbett and Fitzsimmons.

"There's two men that have done more to hurt the pride of the game of boxing in this country than anything else, Corbett—well, of course he kicked me all right, but he licked a man that had tried to drink all the rum that was flowing in the United States, and even nature went back on me. But I'm not dead yet, and if they will put us, not on a prairie, but in a room where the other one can't run away, I'll make somebody jump through the window."

"How about Maher and Fitzsimmons, John?" "Well, you want my candid opinion, do you? Well, I think it depends on which lands first."

Mention of the name of Peter Jackson prompted John to devote some of his garrulous to colored fighters in general. "No man of principle," said John, "will fight in a ring with a colored man. No man can say I ever refused to fight when the time came for a fight, but I never would fight with a nigger."

WAS BURDENED WITH A SECRET. Knew Where a Lot of Money Was Hidden Away. SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 10.—"I can tell you where there is from $30,000 to $40,000 in money that was stolen from your company hidden away in the mountains near Hope."

Such was the startling information imparted to F. W. Gilbert, division superintendent of the Northern Pacific, by a stranger who appeared at the office of the division and seemed to be perfectly sane. Mr. Gilbert invited him to sit down and unfold the story of the hidden wealth of which he claimed to hold the key.

The man gave his name as James B. Boyd and said that he had gained the confidence of W. B. Withrow, a prisoner in the county jail charged with robbery, who had revealed to him the secret of where he had $30,000 or more in cash hidden away which he had buried in the mountains near Hope, near Sacramento, Cal., and the other on the Northern Pacific in Montana.

The suit is the first one decided recently in the United States court of appeals in favor of the Boyden company. The patent sued on in this second suit is No. 600,000, which was granted to the Boyden people say it is the same patent upon which the infringements alleged in the former suit were based.

BRADLEY TAKES THE OATH

Kentucky Enjoying the Luxury of Its First Republican Governor.

STATE CAPITAL CROWDED WITH VISITORS

Inauguration Ceremonies the Most Imposing Ever Witnessed in the History of the Blue Grass Commonwealth.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Dec. 10.—William O'Connell Bradley at noon today was sworn in as governor of Kentucky and the first republican administration in the history of the commonwealth was ushered in. Never before was such a crowd seen in Frankfort. There were ten times as many people here by noon as ever before came to witness an inauguration. Cincinnati sent 500 republican delegates, Newport sent 1,000 members of half a dozen clubs. The Garfield club of Louisville swelled the delegation from that city to several thousand people. Two special trains of ten coaches each which came from Lexington were packed and many were unable to get aboard.

Colonel Bradley, with his wife and daughter arrived last night on a special train from his home at Lancaster. All the other state officers-elect were on hand this morning. The public buildings, stores and residences are covered with flags and bunting and the city presents a beautiful appearance. At 11 o'clock the inaugural procession was started by the firing of salutes on Arsenal hill. The first regiment, under command of Colonel John B. Casleman, and the Second regiment, under Colonel E. H. Galtner, were in the van. Then came Governor-elect Bradley and Governor Brown in a carriage. Other carriages bearing distinguished visitors followed. They were met by several units of delegations of citizens on foot. The procession was a lengthy one and comprised four divisions. At noon it reached the state house, where the inaugural stand was located. Fully 20,000 people were gathered there to witness the ceremonies. Mayor Julian presided. Dr. W. C. Taylor offered prayer.

Judge W. H. Holt delivered the address of parting and welcome. Then came the valedictory of the retiring governor, John Young Brown. Governor-elect Bradley then followed with an address, as follows: "BRADLEY'S PATRIOTIC TALK. The credit and honor of the state and nation are of the first importance. The recent popular verdict, which declared in favor of the use of both gold and silver as money, but at the same time the maintenance of the best and highest standard of value, should be accepted and adhered to; and while public credit should be protected, we should none the less favor a well regulated system of protection to every branch of American industry, and encourage and increase diversified industries, maintain and enlarge a free market and protect every honest man of toil from the degradation of competition with the pauper of other nations for commodities which cannot be successfully grown or manufactured in this country. The accomplishment and maintenance of these economic measures will develop our resources, advance our prosperity and give to Kentucky the position she is entitled to occupy in the sisterhood of the states."

Above all things the constitution and laws within its spirit must be enforced. Every citizen shall be protected in life, liberty and property at whatever cost. I solemnly appeal to the people of this state to support the officers of the state for a faithful, energetic and fearless enforcement of the law. Nothing can be better for the suppression of crime than the cultivation and expression of the noblest public sentiment, which will hold in just reprobation every criminal, more especially the murderer and assassin.

Mob violence, which has its home in the breasts of cowards, should be prevented at all hazards and severely punished. Such accounts as open defiance in the face of the confidence of the courts, instead of promoting, does serious injury to the welfare of the state and no patriot in a Christian civilization. I shall do my best to do the right; be just as God enables me to do it. I shall do my best to do the right; be just as God enables me to do it. I shall do my best to do the right; be just as God enables me to do it.

THE OATH OF OFFICE WAS administered by Chief Justice Pryor. Standing with his head bared, beneath a light which shined in his right hand uplifted, the left resting on the bible, Colonel Bradley repeated the words which made him the chief executive of the grand old commonwealth of Kentucky.

William O'Connell Bradley was born in Lancaster, Garrard county, Ky., March 18, 1847. He was obliged to quit school at the age of 14, and ran away several times and enlisted in the union army, but on account of his youth his father took him home. In 1865, having passed a creditable examination, the legislature passed the first act of the kind in Kentucky, enabling him to secure a license to practice law, he being only 18 years of age.

Bradley rose rapidly in his profession and for many years has stood in the front rank in Kentucky. In 1870 he was elected prosecuting attorney. In 1872 he was the republican nominee for congress, being defeated by a small majority. In 1876 and 1878 he was re-nominated, but ill health compelled him to decline. In 1882 he was the republican nominee for a later nomination and also that for governor in 1879.

In 1880 he was a delegate-at-large to the Chicago convention and was then chosen to represent Kentucky on the national committee, which place he still holds. In 1887 Colonel Bradley made the race for governor against General Simon Bolivar Buckner, the ideal of Kentucky southern soldiers.

In 1888 he was sent to the national convention as a delegate-at-large, and every Kentucky delegate was instructed to support him for the nomination for vice president. In 1892 he again headed the Kentucky delegation at Minneapolis.

Governor Bradley is of the below medium height, with great physical strength and remarkable energy and industry. He and his family, which consists of his wife and daughter, the latter aged 17 years, are Scotch-Irish Presbyterians.

This evening Governor Bradley and family will be entertained by ex-Governor Brown in the executive mansion. Tonight will be given a grand inaugural ball in the historic assembly hall room.

HANGING ON TO THE ICE HOUSES.

South Omaha Company Puts an Injunction Against Ejection.

The South Omaha Ice and Coal company has succeeded in obtaining a temporary injunction restraining L. W. Wright from ejecting it from some ice houses at Florence leased by the company from Wright. The company alleged that the houses were leased to M. F. and C. H. Hoyt until December 1 of this year. One of the conditions of the lease was that on the expiration of the lease the lessees were to have the option of continuing the lease for five years. This lease was transferred to the ice company.

It is alleged that when the lease expired on December 1 the ice company notified Wright that it desired to remain in possession under the same terms five years longer. Wright refused to do so, and the company was forced to work to oust the ice company. It is claimed that if Wright is allowed to do so the company will suffer a great loss, as relying on the condition of the lease that a renewal was at its option the company has prepared to store a large quantity of ice from the river.

SOCIALISTS ARE SHELVED

National Federation of Labor Not Disposed to Countenance Them.

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL FILES ITS REPORT

Sustains the St. Louis Musicians in Refusing to Violate a Contract with Their Employers—Other Disputes Decided.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—At today's session of the American Federation of Labor, President John Mitchell was congratulated of the charges that during a strike in Pennsylvania he had accepted a bribe. It became evident early in the day that any attempt on the part of the socialists to run the convention would be nipped in the bud. In fact, the other delegates claim that any interference whatever on the part of the socialists would be promptly "squashed."

The first business of the day was the determination by the convention to hold meetings daily from 9:30 to 12:30 and from 2:30 to 5:30 p. m. It was also voted to make Thursday afternoon the latest time for the presentation of resolutions. Debate on questions will be limited to five minutes.

Secretary McCracken read the report of the executive council, which bears various grievances. The report relates to the boycotts of the past year and the manner in which they were settled. Action upon the report was deferred until the printed copies should be in the hands of the delegates.

The committee on credentials reported in favor of seating the delegates of the Iron Molders and Painters and Decorators unions and seating J. H. Sullivan in place of J. W. Kenny of the Painters and Decorators. Mrs. E. McDonald, Vallet of St. Paul was invited by the president to address the convention. "I am on my way to Europe," she said, "where I intend to spend six months. I will have the right to visit the homes of foreign working people and learn as far as possible how they live, what wages they earn and how they spend them."

On motion the convention accepted a letter of credentials from the American Federation of Labor for the foreign labor unions. George McNeill, the father in this country of the labor union movement, was made one of a special committee to report on the resolutions regarding the eight hour movement.

A part of the report of the executive council of the labor union movement, was made one of a special committee to report on the resolutions regarding the eight hour movement. A part of the report of the executive council of the labor union movement, was made one of a special committee to report on the resolutions regarding the eight hour movement.

Among the resolutions handed up for action by the committee on resolutions was one presented by E. H. Litch, delegate from the Patternmakers' National league. The resolutions recite that there are laws restricting the employment of laborers and that it is positively known that the officials of the Treasury department not only do not enforce the law, but actively violate it, and that it is positively known that the officials of the Treasury department not only do not enforce the law, but actively violate it, and that it is positively known that the officials of the Treasury department not only do not enforce the law, but actively violate it.

Resolved, That the executive council of the A. F. of L. is hereby directed to prepare charges under general order No. 28 of the National Executive Council, issued August 6, 1892, to the president of the United States against the secretary of the treasury, who, by his inaction, has allowed the eight-hour law to be violated, and who has failed to have said law covering the eight-hour working day properly complied with. It is further

Resolved, That the delegates to the convention believe it to be of paramount importance that the head of the government must see to the strict enforcement of the eight-hour law, and we hold him to a strict accountability.

The resolutions were referred to the committee on resolutions. Delegate Litch of Omaha introduced a resolution in favor of the free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1, without conferring with any other nation on earth.

As their committee on resolutions reported in favor of a resolution limiting the hours of labor of the journeymen shoemakers to nine hours, the committee on resolutions reported in favor of a resolution limiting the hours of labor of the journeymen shoemakers to nine hours, the committee on resolutions reported in favor of a resolution limiting the hours of labor of the journeymen shoemakers to nine hours.

"What are the grounds of his rejection?" asked a delegate. Chairman Elderkirk of the committee read the report in which it appeared that Ferris had not been regularly elected to the convention, as he represented only himself, and no central labor organization of Springfield, Ill.

Patrick McBryde of the Mine Workers' union moved that the report of the committee on credentials be rejected. It was seconded by another delegate, who, however, at a moment later withdrew his request. It was learned that if Ferris were admitted motions would be made to seat many who had been denied admission because they were socialists.

The amendment to reject the report of the committee on credentials, rejecting Ferris, was then voted down and a motion was carried confirming the report of the committee. The convention then adjourned until tomorrow for labor relations.
