Menace of the Rebels Not Considered Dangerous in that City.

CAMPOS CONFIDENT AND CONTINUES CALM

HAVANA, Cuba, Jan. 7.—(New York World Cablegram.—Special Telegram.)—Cable dispatches from New York report wildly exaggerated stories of the condition of affairs here. The fact is the city is as quiet as to give rise to surprise on the part of old experienced residents. There has been no anticipation founded on substantial reasons that the rebels will change their policy and attempt to occupy a town which could only be taken after a real battle.

The Spaniards, especially the merchants and trades people who are suffering prostration of trade, feel extreme anxiety on account of their business. There are no banks and business men are compelled to carry on their financial matters without those substantial props. Their anxiety concerning the situation resulting from the cessation of sugar cane and the general failure of the great staple of commerce and trade the present season fills them with forebodings.

FOREIGNERS ARE FRIGHTENED

Timid people among the American and English colony people, who know nothing of the actualities, alarmed over the stories of the actions of the volunteers during the ten years' war, have without any other reason than imaginary fears, called on the American and British consuls for advice. Consul General Williams, I am personally aware, has sympathetically explained, which finds no collective expression.

ITS MARCH IS ONE OF TRIUMPH

Progress of American Commission in Cuba and Puerto Rico. (Copyright, 1896, by Press Publishing Company.)

As an indication of the quiet condition of Havana it may be noted that the volunteers have not collected here their daily routine guard duty, such as has prevailed during the past six months. All have been notified to be in readiness in case of need, but up to this point there has been no call. Last summer there was a bitter feeling toward Americans because the impression was general that the United States would attempt to dislodge the insurgents whether they held a town or a seaport permanently. But all this has died away. The Spanish press and individuals have recently dropped the subject from their thoughts.

POLITICAL PARTIES PACIFIC

Last night the leaders of the three great political parties in Cuba met in the office of the American consul. They were welcomed by its president. He said in his address that while each party will continue to respect its own principles, it should act together out of patriotic motives.

Rafael Montoro, one of the leaders of the more radical party, saying that it is the duty of every citizen to sustain Martine Campos and the government regardless of political sentiments. The event is notable because Montoro and his associates have never visited the Spanish club officially.

CANNOT DESCRIBE THEIR PLANS

I am given much latitude in enquiring. Proceeding to do so, I am told that the plans I am practically unrestricted. Nothing has occurred in the last twenty-four hours to change the opinion that Gomez's raid has been purely a diversionary movement. It does not appear probable that the insurgent leader will be so rash as to go as far as the Vuelta Abajo tobacco district. There is no fear.

Acknowledges Violating the Law of Nations. (Copyright, 1896, by Press Publishing Company.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Congress and proceedings of the senate today the World will tomorrow say editorially: "Senator Lodge yesterday relieved the dreariness of political debate and added to the gaiety of nations by quoting in the senate the celebrated section 2325. This is the celebrated section 2325. It is reinforced by section 2113 of the same era, which forbids corresponding with foreign powers to incite the Indians to raid on the settlers. It is unquestionably the duty of Secretary Olney to enforce this law. He should punish with the full severity of its penalties any one who had willfully violated it. The World pleads guilty in advance to having 'without the permission or authority of Secretary Olney' carried on intercourse by cable with Lord Salisbury, the prince of Wales and duke of York, the Rothschilds and other foreign dignitaries."

Refusal of the Rothschilds to Take Any of It Thought to Be Subsequent to Keep All Others Out.

(Copyright, 1896, by Press Publishing Company.)

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(New York World Cablegram.—Special Telegram.)—In spite of the predominance of importance of the news from the Transvaal, all the London newspapers this morning display opinions of Messrs. Rothschilds & Co. and other London bankers, called back from New York. It seems obvious, however, that London is very indifferent to whatever the United States treasury may do just at this juncture. As called upon in this correspondence last Saturday, and as now stated substantially in the same words in the World's letter from London bankers, there will be no purchase of our national securities for the present, except with the expectation of selling them promptly back to us. Many London investors besides Messrs. Rothschilds have assured me that there is now no market, except the American market, for American securities, and will not be not only until the controversy with England is settled, but until we have solved our own financial problem, as the evidence given in congress of open hostility to England, justly or unjustly, has convinced English investors that the money of the United States is at the mercy of politicians.

Morison Frewen's letter to the Times warning Englishmen that their investments in the United States are being rapidly lost, is in real danger of being, near or within the near future, with Germany, affects the London money market, consoling today showing a further decline.

ALL BLAME THE BONDS

All the afternoon wire bonds attribute the fall in American securities to the announcement of the new loan. The Western Gazette says it general opinion is that the new issue of bonds will not likely to materially improve the financial situation, it being pointed out that apart from other considerations, the delay of nearly a month is likely to still further endanger the stock of gold in the treasury.

CAUSED GREAT EXCITEMENT IN MEXICO

CITY OF MEXICO, Jan. 7.—The report received last night that Havana had been taken by the insurgents created the greatest excitement in Cuba, Mexicans and Americans alike. The news was received by cable, and the public report, while the Spaniards congratulated in Spanish cables. Shouts of Viva Cuba Libre were heard everywhere, showing the deep sympathy of the Mexican people for Cuba. The Mexican Herald office, which paper received the Associated press dispatches, was thronged all night by people anxiously waiting for news of confirmation. It is predicted if the insurgents capture and hold important towns the government will recognize their belligerency.

The morning an earnestly requested him to allow her to see his mother once again, stating that Mrs. Ford had been confined to her bed for some time by the effects of the grief occasioned by the wayward actions of young Patrick. She had expressed a desire to meet him before he was taken to Lincoln, as she never expected to see him again.

LOST NO TIME

Within less than twenty minutes word was received at the jail that Ford had escaped. Sheriff Drexel was thunderstruck at the news and started at once for the Ford residence, accompanied by a Bee representative. The older Ford was composed on the subject of the escape, and when approached remarked: "Well, he's gone, but I don't believe he could be driven out of town with a cannon."

SEARCHED THE PREMISES

When the afternoon Sheriff Drexel decided to make a thorough search of the Ford house, he was assisted by Jailer Miller to the Ford residence. The hackman said that Ford and Miller went into the house together and immediately there was a loud noise of commotion, and a trace of the missing man was discovered.
