RECEIVER STEINKE'S STORY

Testifies as to the Condition of Atlantic's Bursted Bank.

VALUE OF MR. DICKERSON'S PROPERTY

Partial Estimate of the Bank's Liabilities Gone Over in Detail—Efforts Made to Keep the Concern in Operation.

Theodore Steinke, receiver of the Cass County bank, was on the witness stand most of the day in the trial of the Dickerson case yesterday.

Mr. Steinke identified a large bundle of notes as the property of the bank on December 27, 1893, when he was appointed receiver for the institution.

Other notes, the witness testified, had been in the hands of Phlegm & Company of Atlantic for collection. Mr. Steinke testified that he had been in the mercantile business at Atlantic for nineteen years.

Mr. Steinke testified that prior to the failure of the bank he had purchased several pieces of real estate in the name of J. C. Yeter, but the bank passed into the hands of a receiver.

Mr. Steinke stated that he put a valuation of $6,000 on the Dickerson building. Mr. Dickerson drew from him a description of the building as a two-story brick, 40x70, with a vault, one block from the postoffice and a half block from the court house.

W. B. Temple, who was assistant to the cashier of the Cass County bank and is a nephew of J. C. Dickerson, was the next witness. He explained his duties as an official of the bank during his time there, from June, 1892, to December, 1893.

Mr. Temple testified that from fifty to sixty of the drafts drawn by the Cass County bank had been returned unpaid. At the solicitation of the cashier, A. W. Dickerson, he had tried to get the bank to borrow currency for the day's business.

Mr. Temple testified that on the 27th of August, 1893, he had returned unpaid, at the solicitation of the cashier, A. W. Dickerson, a number of drafts, bought by the patrons of the bank, had been returned unpaid and have the names of several firms and individuals who had lost by such transactions.

CITY COUNCIL STANDS PAT.

Ready to Yield to the Terminal Company.

At the adjourned meeting of the city council last night the special committee, consisting of Aldermen Greenhills, Shubert and Brewick, made a report concerning the conference with the Omaha Bridge and Terminal company's officers relative to the company's proposed improvement on Union avenue and its taxes due to the city of Council Bluffs.

The report stated that the company had not paid its taxes, had failed to report its tracks to the state executive council as provided by law, and was seeking to evade taxation on a technical objection as to whether the improvement was a public use.

The report concludes as follows: "On the basis of the conference with the officers of said company, but not until it had taken place, it came to the knowledge of the committee that the said company, although aware of the fact that it was liable for improvements to be made by it, as stipulated and agreed in its franchise, the said company was laying its tracks on said avenue."

The report of the committee was concurred in by the council. A report was made by Alderman Brown recommending a reduction of the bill of the Nebraska Telephone company for November because of the fact that the company had failed to answer a call from the police station.

The ordinance granting the Iowa Conservation company the right to build a sewer out of Indian creek and use the space of said creek for a railroad was read and referred to the committee of the whole.

A resolution by Alderman Brewick was adopted providing that no individual or corporation seeking the passage of an ordinance granting privileges in which the general public does not participate shall be required to deposit with the city clerk the sum of $100 to pay the expense of publishing such ordinance.

IT IS A POCKETBOOK AFFAIR.

Somewhat Prosy Ending of an Alleged Love Scrap.

John Berlew, the old soldier concerning whom several sensational stories have been published in the local papers in connection with the daughter of Herman Droge, was too ill to remain in Justice Walker's court yesterday to prosecute his complaint of assault against Droge.

Berlew is a federal pensioner, drawing $14 a month, and lives at 1115 Twenty-fourth street. He testified that he had known Droge for many years and that he had seen him at the home of Herman Droge while asking for a continuance.

After a general discussion of the situation a general schedule of values was practically agreed upon for the property that will come into the hands of the city. The assessors agreed that the property would be returned to the city on April 1.

Arrested Fishermen Attempt to Have the Prosecution Dropped.

The nine men arrested for violation of the fishing law, and charged with taking away with them a large amount of fish, will be vigorously prosecuted. Several of the cases will be heard in Justice Viner's court today.

One of the attorneys for the prosecution declares that he has been approached with an offer of $100 if he would drop the case against the fishermen.

The local Fish Protective association was organized last night by many of the Omaha fishermen as desired to become members, and as the ruling of Judge Ambrose established the fact that a large part of the catch of fish was being taken by the fishermen.

Assessors Agree Upon a Valuation for Personal Property.

There has always been more or less trouble over the returns of the township assessors in the matter of personal property. Each assessor has been allowed to use, or has used, his own discretion as to the valuation placed on the personal property in his township.

An effort will be made this year to have the assessments on a uniform basis, and to obtain this result a meeting of the township assessors will be held on Saturday afternoon at the court house for the purpose of talking over the situation.

After a general discussion of the situation a general schedule of values was practically agreed upon for the property that will come into the hands of the city.

IOWA LEGISLATURE OPENS

Twenty-sixth General Assembly Convened on Schedule Time.

BOTH BRANCHES PROMPTLY ORGANIZED.

Caucus Nominees Elected Without a Struggle and Adjournment Taken Out of Respect to the Late Judge Wright.

DES MOINES, Jan. 13.—(Special.)—When the hour fixed by law for the opening of the Twenty-sixth General Assembly arrived the members of the house of representatives gathered in the hall and ready for business.

Mr. Myers was escorted to the chair by Messrs. Allen, Griswold and Monahan, and on being sworn, said: "I thank you most sincerely for the high honor conferred upon me, and as this is to be a business session I will set the example by not consuming time in an extended speech."

The senate met promptly at 10:30 with Lieutenant Governor Dungan in the chair. Mr. Chamberlain of Woodbury presided, except Senators Hobart and Blanchard. The sessions were largely consumed in preliminary proceedings.

Both houses adjourned and attended the funeral of ex-United States Senator George G. Wright.

The woes of Lieutenant Governor Parrott and Speaker Myers have now begun in earnest. The session will be held in the afternoon when the lists of standing committees are finally announced.
