CINCINNATI, Jan. 17.-The Commercial Gazette tomorrow will publish a plea for Mc-Kinley as the fittest man for the republican candidacy for president in its series of articles on this subject. It was written by Senator John M. Thurston. It is a very eloquent document. In the outset it says the vital question between the republicans is not who can lead the party to victory. Whoever may be nominated will be elected. The real living question is: "Who can best meet the requirements of the present national situation and best insure such an administration as will guarantee the permanent prosperity of the United States.

That man should be a man of uncompromising convictions, one who has consistently advocated sound principles at all times and in all places; a man whom defeat and adversity have been powerless to cast down; a

The opening of the factories is the great desideratum. The questions of money and finance are secondary matters in comparison. The Monroe doctrine will not be an issue, inasmuch as all parties are favor of its full enforcement. Any candidate whom the republican party nom-inates will stand upon a platform pledged to that character of bimetallism which guar-antees purchasing and debt paying power to every dollar authorized by the United States.

There is one man whose qualities pre meet all these requirements. man, not of one idea, but of breadth and versatility of intellect and acquirement that has enabled him to gather renown on every field of American achievement.

"And this man, upon whose shield malice can find no blemish, and slander place no stain; this man, whose whole life has been consecrated to his God, his country and his this man whose intense loyalty and devotion to American interests makes him the ideal leader for the supreme hour; this man of the people; this uncompromising friend of those who toll, a soldler, a statesman, a patriot without fear and without reproach our candidate for the presidency of the United States, is William McKinley."

The article then recites the history of Mc Kinley as a soldier and adds that this is a good time for a soldier candidate. This country may soon be confronted with the gravest international complications. The Monroe do trine may never be accepted as international except through force of arms. The need of the next administration is a man who has been a successful soldier as well as states-Three Days Continuous Rain.

Farmers and stock men generally are pleased, as the rainfall to date is only one-third of the total precipitation for the same period last season. FORT WORTH, Tex., Jan. 17.—Yesterday Mrs. Lucy Clemens, who had as a lover a Mrs. Lucy Ciemens, who had as a lover a railroad man of this city, committed suicide and left letters, which revealed details of a horrible murder committed several months ago. She charges that the man who was her lover and a woman on whose husband's life there was a $2,500 insurance policy, conspired to and dild murder, by poisoning, the woman's husband. The man then married the murdered man's widow and collected the insurance money. This drove Mrs. Clemons to desperation, and she killed herself, after having written letters exposing the crime. The letters are now in the hands of the police, who are investigating, and arrests will follow.

It is said that the republicans favored postponing voting for United States senator until after necklace of pearls which cost more than $1,000,000. Some estimates placed its value at $1,500,000. This necklace was over three yards long, and it took Mrs. Vanderbilt many years to accumulate the pearls composing it. Some of the pearls cost $10,000 a piece, while the very small ones cost not less than $100. When strung around the neck it almost covered the bodice from just below the neck to the waist line. It was probably the finest ornament in the country, but it must have accessioned the agreement of the country. eccasioned the owner a world of trouble caring for it.

Mrs. Burden, the victim of the robbery, was never conspicuous for the quantity or the richness of her jewels, yet she went to the opera almost covered with diamonds and still left enough at home to be robbed of $65,000 worth. Prior to the theft her jewels probably represented $100,000, and Atchison roads is not settled as much as it was. Complications have arisen which may prevent the immediate restoration of passenger rates in Colorado. The Union Pacific, Denver & Gulf has placed a large number of cut rate tickets with the brokers, and is now called on to redeem them. It asks that the other roads help it in so doing. This all the other lines have flatly refused to do, and they will insist on the redemption by the Union Pacific, Denver & Gulf of all tickets which it has placed on the market. The latter road does not like the prospect, and there are good chances of trouble before the matter is settled. It will probably end in the redemption of the tickets by the road that issued them. there are scores upon scores of other so-ciety women who have as much, if not more; and they never attract any attention. This, in a measure, goes to show how many mil-lions there are tied up in jewels of which the outside world knows nothing.

It is not generally known that many of the society women have, during the past six or seven years, practiced a ruse for the very purpose of defeating any effort which might be made to rob them of their gems. It is simply this: Whenever they have a partic-ularly fine piece of jewelry made they also order a duplicate of it, but in the latter the gems are spurious. The making of spurious gems is now a science, and so clever is the deceit that it requires the knowledge of an expert to distinguish the good from the bad. Diamonds, pearls, rubles, emeralds and sap-phires are made by using carefully selected glass and adreitly covering to work is con-of the genuine stones. The work is conglass and adroitly covering it with shavings fined almost exclusively to Paris, but no effort is ever made by the Parisian jeweler to impose the bogus gems upon an innocent customer, as the governmental punishment for such an offense is most severe.

The spurious gems wear for years, and are as pleasing to the eye as the genuine ones. The woman whose social position is from Montreal today and attempted to get a check for $30 cashed at various places, offering in one case to take $1.70 for it. He was arrested. The check was drawn on the Union bank of Canada. A wallet was found near the police station with a number of checks drawn on banks in Chicago and San Francisco, all payable to Esmond. A message was received from Montreal stating that Esmond is wanted there for buncoing a man out of $1,800. A New York detective telephoned to Utica to hold him, as he is wanted in Chicago. Esmond is about 21 years old, and speaks French and Spanish fluently. secure can wear these bogus ornaments throughout the season, while her genuine jewelry is kept secure in some safe deposit vault. No one would think of doubting the genuineness of the gems worn by the wife or daughter of some famous millionaire, but a woman of moderate wealth could never afford to run the risk of being detected in the imposition. Of course, on very particular casions, like a ball in her own home, the real jewels are taken out of the safe de-posit vault and worn that night, but the next day they are returned to the place of safekeeping. But, for the ordinary round of gayeties, the bogus jewels do very well, and HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Jan. ,17 .- President

For these reasons the care of the jewels do not burden the mind so much as other articles of value in the house. For instance, Mrs. William Astor has a gold dinner service which cost $60,000. This service is delegation composed of members of the General Baggage Agents' association. Governor Hastings of Pennsylvania and party will probably remain for ten days or two weeks. But it is always kept in the house during the winter season, and it is a difficult article of furni-ture to watch. The care of it develops upon Thomas, the manager of Mrs. Astor's home affairs, and the last thing he does at night nd the first duty of the morning is to se that it is safe. When a dinner is given and the gold serv lee is in use Thomas is full of misery, for then a miscellaneous lot of servants have the handling of it. On the proceeds of one gold plate the average servant could enjoy luxurious life of ease for a year, and knowing this, Thomas does his best to tab on the service on its journeyings to and Prominent local democratic politicians, representing both the silver, and anti-silver wings of the party, unhesitatingly declare that the location of the democratic convention at Chleago has vastly improved the chances of Colonel William R. Already plans are being laid in Cook county to select a delegation favorable to him, and unless a radical change in the local sentiment occurs Morrison will have the Illinois delegation instructed for him or not, just as he chooses. from the dining department.

Besides this service Mrs. Astor has a silver service which cost $20,000, and a miscellaneous lot of silver and gold dishes and table ornaments worth $20,000 more. This makes a total of $100,000 for silver and gold tableware. Her jewels are probably worth between $700,000 and $800,000. Her diamonds are reputed to be the finest in town, and she also has the finest pair of pearl earrings. Chicago paper of January 11 appeared a Chicago paper of January 11 appeared a special dispatch from this point alleging that Governor Hughes and the board of control has been arraigned by the territorial grand jury for malfeasance in offica. The item is erroneous. The last grand jury was discharged December 8. Its only reference to territorial affairs or officials was in reference to mingling of building and maintenance funds of the territorial insane asylum. The pearls in these are pear-shaped and they are almost as large as a very small pear. She rarely wears them, as they are better suited as curios than ornaments. These are oald to have cost $40,000. If a burglar could run loose in the Astor home for a few hours he would certainly have the finest time of his life, picking up odds and ends, but it is doubtful if he could get away with any of the greater valuables. Mrs. William Astor lives on the north side of the big white palace on Fifth avenue and Sixty-fifth street, and her son, John Jacob, with his family, live on the south side. Young Mrs. Astor has jewels almost as valuable as her mother-in-law and the ornamentations of her home are quite as costly. But John Jacob Astor has been except to guard against such a calamity. Ever since the tramp, John Garvey, gained access to the old home on Thirty-fourth street and Fifth avenue and caimly walked upstairs, where he entered a fine bed room, disrobed and pezcefully slept, young Astor has been on his guard. Garvey was only a harmless tramp, with an overwhelming desire for sleep, but if he had been a clever thief one of the greatest robberies of the age might have taken place. When young Astor had the new house built particular attention was paid to the construction of a safe. It was built into the wall on the second floor in a small room to the rear of his own sleeping apartment. Thomas sleeps on the other side of it. Mr. Astor knows considerable about electricity, and the safe is fitted with an electrical attachment which would be difficult for a thief to get around. The wires run through the safe itself and into the wall at the back to prevent their being tampered with. When tablished and the elightest touch on th tablished and the slightest touch on the combination lock would set a dozen bells ringing, also an alarm in the nearest district messenger office. Mr. Astor and Thomas are the only ones in the house who know how to turn the current off. It would be almost as difficult to burglarize this safe as to rob the safe of a big bank.

In the big Vanderbilt house on Fifth avenue at Fifty-first street there are a row of four safes built into the wall in a small room on the ground floor of the central house occupied by Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt. No one outside of the family knows the value of the treasures contained in these safes, but $1,000,000 would hardly buy them. Two watchmen patrol these houses all night long, and, in addition, there is a watchman posted on the outside in the street.

Dan Stuart received information today that parties are selling bogus tickets for the carnival at several points. No tickets to the carnival have yet been sent out for sale. People who expect to see the Fitzsimmons-Maher fight must be in El Paso on the morning of the 14th. Letters and telegrams from all parts of the country asking that rooms be reserved for parties coming to the carnival poured in on the information bureau. The bureau is making arrangements for the accommodation of 20,000 visitors. Tickets sold for the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight will admit holders to the Maher-Fitzsimmons battle.

Martin Julian arrived yesterday from New York, and John J. Quinn wired from Las Cruces, N. M., that he would meet Julian at the Gem in this city Saturday at noon to select a referee and final stakeholder. Julian said last night: "Quinn and Maher are on the square, and we will experience no difficulty in a referee. Fitzsimmons has been doing some good work. This climate agrees with him, and he is in the pink of condition and could make the fight of his life tomorrow. These pugilists who are training in a low latitude to fight here next month are going to be badly fooled when they commence exercising up in this light, dry atmosphere."

The colored population of El Paso are arranging to give Dixon and "Bright Eye" an ovation when they arrive next week. W. K. Wheelock was busy today attending to orders for diagrams and tickets.

Association Foot Ball Notes. The Swifts will meet the next best twelve players in the city this afternoon in a game of foot ball at Young Men's Christian association park, corner Twenty-eighth and Dodge streets. A number of Creighton college players will take part. Nearly all the old veterans will be present, and a lively contest is expected. The game will commence at 4 o'clock.

Mr. D. Riley has returned from a visit to St. Louis, where he went to size up the association foot ball situation last Saturday. He is very much satisfied with the advancement the new game is making in Omaha. The St. Louis players sacrifice much of the science of the game to rough play. The big game there last week was several times a fistic encounter, and the interference of both the spectators and police was necessary to preserve order and carry out the game.

HER CHECK WAS A CINDER.

There Was Enough Left for Identifi-cation and She Got Her Money. Many curious stories have been told con erning bank checks, says the San Francisco Bulletin. Some of these relate to the largest drawn and others to the smallest. One of the largest checks ever drawn in this city was at the time that the capital of the Ne was at the time that the capital of the Ne-vada bank was increased from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000. This check was by Flood & O'Brien for $5,000,000. As to the ex-treme, checks have been drawn to the value of a single cent. Other stories relate to the circuit made by checks before they are finally taken up and destroyed. Some of these migrations have covered different states and hundreds of miles. In these journeys checks have gone over ground several times. Checks are wonderful money savers; that is, they save the handling vast sums of money every day. They also minimize the loss of money from mistakes, thefts, or other causes. But one of the greatest curiosities in the check line has just come to light in this city. A lady brought it to the Bank of California to be cashed. It was in a paper box and had to be handled very carefully for it was in two pieces and both were burn to a crisp. There was not a decipherable word on either side. The lady said the bits of crisp paper represented a check for $125, which she had received in a letter. The check, she said, was drawn by the na-EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 17.—This morning tional bank of D. O. Mills of Sacramento. She had removed the letter from the ensured the letter from the ensured that the same of the letter from the ensured that the same of the letter from the ensured that the same of the letter from the ensured that the same of the letter from the ensured that the same of the letter from the ensured that the same of the letter from the ensured that the letter from the letter from the ensured that the letter from t velope and had thrown the envelope on some live c'al in the grate. Upon reading the leter she found a reference to an in closure of check for the sum named, and turned to the fire in the grate with sore disappointment. The fire had done its work. The crisp paper lay on the coals. She care fully removed the came, placed it in a box and hurrled to the Bank of California to get the money before the pieces were further crumbled.

After listening to the story the officers o

the bank made a careful examination of the burnt paper, and by the aid of powerful glasses they were able to make out por tions of words from the pen impressions made on the paper. There were enough of these lines left to show that "Ella" had been written, and part of the word "hundred" was also made out, with two or three letters of the name of the bank. These discoveries corresponded with the story of the lady, and the bank officers then communithe circumstances to the nationa bank of D. O. Mills & Co. of Sacramento and asked for a duplicate check in behalf of the lady. This was forwarded and the money was paid. The circumstance dis proved the charge about the curiosity of women. Had there been more curiosity about the inclosure of the envelope the trouble would have been avioded. The practical application of the story is to be careful that what you throw into the fire has no further value for you.

Ex-President Harrison Announces that He Will Wed Mrs. Dimmick.

MARRIAGE TO TAKE PLACE AFTER LENT

Information Given Out in New York in the Presence of a Large Crowd of Interested Persons.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.-The fact that General Harrison had an important statement to make drew a large crowd of politicians and others to the corridors of the Fifth Avenue hotel tonight. Many of the politicians expected that General Harrison would make a declaration as to his candidacy for president, and were disappointed when they heard that the general talked of matrimonial affairs, instead of politics. At the appointed time, Mr. Tibbitts, the general's private secretary, made the following statement in his room, where he received the members of the press:

"General Harrison authorizes the announcement that he and Mrs. Dimmick are engaged to be married, and that the marriage will not take place until after Lent."

When the secretary finished reading the arnouncement he refused to say anything further, other than that ex-President Har-rison would probably leave for Indianapolis on Monday, returning to Washington in time to argue the Stanford law suit. Mrs. Dimmick, to whom the general is on-
