WICKERSON JURY DISMISSED

Were Nine to Three for Conviction All the Time.

Defense Quite Easy to Satisfy. Were Ready to Permit Eleven of the Jurors to Render a Verdict, but the State Objected.

The Dickerson jury has been dismissed without returning a verdict, and so far as results are concerned the case is just where it was four weeks ago today, when it was called for trial. Cass county is over $5,000 out of pocket and all of the issues of the case still unsettled.

There will be a fight made by Des Moines before the passage of the bill now pending before the house prohibiting the sale of cigarettes in Iowa.

INDIAN CREEK GIVEN UP

City Quickly Passed to the Promoters a Quiet Claim Deed and Question of Damages Must Be Settled Later.

At the regular meeting of the city council last night the city council granted the right of way over Indian creek to the Iowa Construction Company, an amendment being added providing that the company shall pay the expense of having the ordinance published.

ORDINANCE PASSED WITH ONE PROTEST

The ordinance was not passed without some opposition. Emil Schurz, representing a number of property owners along the creek, addressed the council and questioned the city's right to grant a franchise for a railroad right of way over a waterway.

DRS. COPELAND & SHEPARD

THE HELP IT OFFERS TO INVALIDS IS NOT A CHARITY ANY MORE THAN CHARITY. Gas Light is a Charity—All Patients Required to Pay a Small Fee.

Dr. Copeland and Shepard know that nothing in this world becomes degraded or loses one iota of virtue by being economized. Who is the merchant prince that condemns the government mail as pebbles service because postage stamps are so cheap that they have them in the poor house, or who deprecates the bright morning newspaper as a beggar's reading because sold at the cost of a herring? All good men and women are simply thankful that the relief of chronic suffering and the cure of chronic diseases are being economized by an almost exact degree through the efforts of the Copeland and Shepard undertaking.

Distant patients can be treated successfully by Drs. Copeland and Shepard's famous "Home Treatment," which is a complete and scientific system of diagnosis and treatment. The cost of the treatment, including all medicines, is $5.00 a month for any and all cases.

MISS MAY HILL, Daughter of ex-County Superintendent Hill, Reaffirms a Former Public Statement.

Miss May Hill, 2009 Harney street, an excellent and popular young lady, daughter of G. W. Hill, ex-superintendent of public instruction for Douglas county, briefly stated her case.

"Nearly a year ago I made a public statement of my case by Dr. Shepard, and I have had no cause to change my opinion of the success and thoroughness of the treatment. I am in excellent health. I suffered much from indigestion, nervous prostration and liver seemed at first to be the seat of the trouble. Bilious symptoms were constant with a very nervous stomach and a form of nervous prostration, affecting my memory and interfering with clearness of thought. My ailments, in short, made me practically an invalid for I was in a condition of half sickness all the time, being able to attend school but very little."

After Dr. Shepard had done so much for me, my father I began treatment myself. The doctor stated my case to be one of local and constitutional tarrh, and began treating me along that line. In a short time my suffering ceased, the tarrh and dews of tarrh troubles disappeared, and I am now entirely well. Dr. Shepard's treatment was a complete success in my case.

ing the provisions of this act, both by state officials and by local boards of health. SOME NEW BILLS. A few bills were introduced in the house, among them the following:

By Johnston—To prevent misrepresentation of the public in the sale of such as barrels.

By Johnston—Requiring the disbursement of railway taxes equally among the road districts through which the railroad passes.

By Johnston—Providing for the taxation of mortgages on real estate.

By VanHouten—Providing for free public libraries in towns and villages.

By Henderson—Requiring all notes, bills, bonds, mortgages or other evidences of indebtedness to be listed for taxation, and requiring the owners or holders of the same to file a duly verified list of them with the local assessor. No evidence of debt to be collectible by law after June 1, 1937, unless bearing the assessor's stamp.

Senator Pusey introduced a bill providing for a uniform policy of fire insurance. It almost an exact copy of the Michigan standard policy. The two or three changes made were in the interest of the insured.

OPPOSE DEALING IN FUTURES

Iowa Representatives Pass a Joint Resolution Calling Congress to Take Action.

Efforts to Postpone Action on the Resolution Fail and Its Adoption Follows—No Hope for the Code Report.

DES MOINES, Feb. 3.—(Special.)—The house passed the following joint resolution, introduced by Mr. Nolan:

Whereas a system of gambling in the future prices of our country's commodities through the operation of the great commodity centers has obtained a foothold in our large cities, and the interests of the people are being subverted by the interests of a few individuals, and whereas the regulation of such prices by the laws of supply and demand is inimical to the morals of our people; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the house of representatives, the senate concurring, that we memorialize the national congress, now in session at Washington, D. C., to enact a stringent law prohibiting all such gambling in the future prices of our country's products (principal among which products are grain, pork, products, cotton, commercial oils, etc.), and that all parties propagating or agreeing to sell such products must be bonded in such a manner as to provide storage certificates therefor; and also for providing strong and sufficient penalties for the violation of such statutes.

All efforts to delay action on the resolution by McArthur and others were steadily voted down and the resolution passed with scarcely a half dozen dissenting votes.

The time of the house was largely consumed in a forensic battle between Funk and Crow over a proposition to replace the allegorical figure of "Victory" on the soldiers' caps with a statue of a soldier in the position of "right shoulder arms."

Both members waxed eloquent and were loudly applauded at the close of their respective speeches. An amendment by Lambert, including "all other portraits and medallions of a personal character," was adopted and the resolution referred to the committee on military affairs.

Senator Garst of Carroll, who is one of the best business men in the senate, had little hope of any final action on the code commission's report. He says bluntly that this legislature will not do anything. The time of the senate was largely consumed in chapters and sections relating to corporations in the committee room, and when the reports came up for action on the floor of the senate, they were made in a hurry and again and the debate will likely drag on for weeks. Even should one branch of the assembly get through with its work, the senate has agreed to adjourn on Monday. Garst is not in favor of leaving everything to the "conference committee" of the two houses in the closing hours of the session.

The remaining sections of the code provide due consideration as sometimes have happened in the past.

Among the important bills now pending in the senate is one which would provide for the spread of infectious diseases among swine and other live stock. Mr. Garner, who is the author of this measure, says A. embraces the recommendations of the skilled veterinarians in both the Department of Agriculture and in the employ of the various states, as well as those connected with the industry.

Sections 1 and 2 of the bill requires the state veterinarian surgeon to have printed upon cardboard a brief statement of the symptoms which shall without delay be printed in large letters, by the public health service, and that such cards, containing such swine. No such swine shall be driven or hauled in any manner by any one in any manner to such public highway, although apparently well, taken from any infected herd, or herd that has been exposed to such disease, or which has been taken or moved upon a public highway.

For Kansas and Missouri—Fair; light, west winds. For Colorado—Generally fair; light west winds. For Montana and Wyoming—Partially cloudy, with snow buries; northwest winds.
