CALLING ON THE BANKERS.

The chairman of the house committee on banking and currency desires that the bankers of the country shall advise congress what to do regarding the financial situation.

As to which it is suggested that the bankers of the country have had such success in impressing their views upon congress that they are not likely to be in a hurry to respond to this appeal.

It is very probable, however, that Mr. Walker does not represent the sentiment of the house in this matter, though he may that of the committee of which he is chairman.

The proposed inquiry by the house ways and means committee in regard to restrictions or discriminations in certain countries against American products, also the effect of the commercial treaties or agreements with foreign countries upon our trade with them and the result of the abandonment of such treaties, is one which ought to be made.

It is important that the country should be supplied with trustworthy information as to the nature of the discriminations against our products and the causes alleged therefor, so that public sentiment may be intelligently expressed in the matter.

No less desirable is the proposed inquiry regarding the effects of the reciprocity agreements upon our trade with the countries with which we had such agreements and the results of the abandonment of that policy.

It is suggested that there is no reason why the present session of congress should be prolonged beyond May at the furthest. The horde of congressional employes, hangers and lobbyists whose pay stops with the adjournment of house and senate will undertake to furnish reasons galore.

The congressional contingent from the Pacific slope is said to be enthusiastically harmonious for a government-subsidized cable to the Sandwich Islands.

will not remain in the treasury, but it will be gradually restored to the circulation in meeting current obligations.

It is not intended that the gold obtained for the new bonds shall be a permanent addition to the reserve now on hand, but the excess will be available for ordinary expenditures and will be paid out as the demands upon the treasury render necessary.

The next event in Omaha of state-wide importance is the state encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, booked for February 11. Local committees promise no less than 1,000 delegates, for whose entertainment unusual preparations are being made.

Up to this writing the chaplain of the house has not called the attention of Delly to the crime of '73.

The Monroe doctrine has been sufficiently discussed for all practical purposes, and the country does not care for any more speeches upon the subject.

The excrebent habit of inflicting a stump speech into the body of a prayer at the opening of the congressional session is an adequate cause for abolishing the chaplaincy, which, never, at its best, was more than a useless ornament. It has now become an exorcism.

The position and curve of the handle bars on the new bicycles exhibited promise to turn out to be a labor saving device. The percentage of the wheels had handle bars downward and forward, compelling a rider to assume more the position of a frog than of a man.

Populist Allen's bill to prohibit the purchase or use by the government of any article made or produced in any of the old territories on this subject. The populists and labor unions take the ground that the latter is a very large number of men and puts the latter in the interests of the working classes—or what they consider their committee. It is also a very large number of men and puts the latter in the interests of the working classes—or what they consider their committee.

is in good hands in the senate, while the entire Nipawaska delegation in the house will push it through the committees and to final passage.

There is nothing that would so absolutely insure arbitration as heavy bonds to be deposited in floating batteries of the Puritan style.

A movement is on foot to hold a Transmississippi exposition at Omaha in 1898, to be open six months. The purpose is to make a grand display of the resources of the whole country, but especially of the twenty-four states and territories west of the Mississippi river.

A DAY TO CELEBRATE.

The suggestion of the Union Republican club of Washington, D. C., that there be a celebration of the war of the fourth anniversary of the birth of the republican party, ought to meet with general favor among republicans.
