SCHOOL BOARD PROCEEDINGS

Committee of Citizens Argues for Retrenchment.

ACTION IN THE MATTER TAKEN

Protest Against the Use of the Base ment of the City Hall for a Jail -Instructions to the Comptroller.

The Board of Education spent the greater part of last night's session in listening to The citizens' committee, including Mersrs. Herman Kountze, W. S. Poppleton, Edward Rosewater, Alfred Millard, P. E. Her, Joseph Barker, John A. Horbach and Ferdinand Streitz, was in attendance to urge economy in school affairs and the board went into committee of the whole to hear the recommengations.

Mr. Kountze said that he was not particularly familiar with the school system, but he was one of many citizens who had found that the expenses of municipal government were becoming very burdensome and they B. Williamson and Asna B. Meyer. were anxious that every unnecessary expense should be avoided. He cited the fact that the Board of Education was paying much more to its janitors than janitors in other places were receiving. It was paying many janitors from $80 to $115 a month, while janitors who were employed by individuals were getting $40 and $50 a month. He also referred to the salaries of teachers as being higher than those paid to the teachers of other cities.

S. Poppleton said that the committee had been brought there by an extraordinary state of affairs. There was not a family or a business firm in Omaha that had not cut its expenses fully 50 per cent, but the school system was being run on the same expensive basis as in previous years. He contended that the general tax levy for 1896 should be kept down to 40 mills and in order to do this the levy for the school fund could not exceed 5 mills. He also suggested a reduction in the salaries of fanitors. In reference to the teachers, he said that this was the only class of people that had not contributed the salaries of the salaries of the salaries. to relieve the general depression. Salaries in every other line of business had been cut to a large extent, while the teachers were still drawing the salaries of prosperous times. He advised raising the number of pupils pe teacher to fifty, by which he suggested that $50,000 might be saved.

Joseph Barker illustrated the necessity for retrenchment by showing the manner in which himself and other heavy property owners were embarrassed by the stringency of the times combined with heavy taxation. The returns on investments were very small and the taxes so heavy that men of large capital had not cleared a single dollar on which to support their families during the past two years. Joseph Barker illustrated the necessity for

NON-ESSENTIALS AN OPPORTUNITY. NON-ESSENTIALS AN OPPORTUNITY. Edward Resewater said that he had been a resident of Omaha for thirty-three years and this was the first time that he had appeared to ask for retrenchment. He took the position that the school year should not be cut. But a large amount of expenditure could be lopped off by removing branches of study that were not essential and which were no part of an elementary education. He contended that the system of supplying pupils with books, stationery, apparatus, etc., pupils with books, stationery, apparatus, etc. was carried to excess. For instance, there were very few people who sent children to the High school who could not afford to pay for their stationery. He believed that the revenue from licenses was underestimated and that if a sincere effort was made to economize the board could get along with 5 mills. The situation was serious and unless a halt was called the time was likely to come when city warrants would be unsal-able. The teachers might better suffer a slight reduction in their salary than to be compelled to hawk their warrants on the

The board also listened to a delegation from Ambier Place, that protested against closing the Ambier school. The members contended that while they were not heavy property owners they had homes and children and their children should not be deprived of educational advantages any more than those of the heavy property owners than those of the heavy property owners down town.

In regular session Comptroller Westberg's report of the cash in the treasurer's office was placed on file. He was requested to designate the banks in which school money was deposited in future reports. A lot of applications for positions as janitors were referred.

The resignation of the janitor at the Gibson school was accepted and the committee on heating and ventilation was authorized to fill the vacancy.

Miss Katherine M. Morse, a training school graduate, applied for a position as teacher.

A long communication from City Treasurer Edwards relative to the deposits of school funds was referred to the committee on judiclary and the attorney. The communication was practically a presentation of the treasurer's objections to allowing the board to designate the banks in which the funds should be deposited.

INSURANCE FUND CONTINUED. The committee on finance reported that finaurance on school property, amounting to $56,000, had expired during the year. It recommended that the policy of maintaining an insurance fund be continued and that $1,000 be invested in interest-bearing sequiling on this account. Adopted curities on this account. Adopted.

Judge Gordon Fretted at Being Restrained by Statute.

GIVES BAKER THE LIMIT FOR WIFE BEATING

Sorry He Could Not Send Him to Jall for a Longer Time for His Unusually Cruel Offense.

H. J. Baker, the wifebeater, who has been in jail for several days, was sentenced yesterday morning by Police Judge Gordon to ninety days in the county jail, the middle ten or bread and water. Judge Gordon then looked through the statutes to see If he could not find some more penalties to impose.

Baker's wife did not appear in court to prosecute. There were two reasons why she was not there. One was that she was still The other was that she feared that her husband would kill her, or severely beat her again when his sentence expired. A number of her relatives appeared, however and their knowledge of the assault, together with the admission of the prisoner, were enough to convict him.

Frank McKenna and his sister were two of the witnesses against Baker. The former related the history of the assault, as told to related the history of the assault, as told to him by Mrs. Baker, an account of which has already been published. The sister testified to the injuries received by the beaten woman. She said that the woman's head was bruised, both of her eyes were blackened, her cheeks were swollen and black and blue, a heel mark appeared on her breast where Baker had stepped upon her, and a long burn on her harm showed where he had thrown her against a hot stove. "She was in a horrible condition," the "She was in a horrible condition," the Baker at first tried to work the bravade act. He refused to ask any of the witnesses questions until he had an opportunity to swear out warrants for them on some charge. He later changed his mind.

"I did it in self-defense, your honor," wa his plea. "She hit me first and then knocked her down. I did not kick her, or walk on her, but I'll admit that I slapped her with my open hand. I want some of these people arrested. They came with a gang at midnight to kill me."

The gang he referred to consisted of the woman's son-in-law and the police officers.
"Has this man ever beaten his wife before?" asked the judge of McKenna, the son in-law. "That's his business," answered McKenna

He don't do anything else. When Baker was asked why sentence should not be imposed, he reiterated the statement that his wife began the row and would not stop, he being compelled, there-fore, to knock her down. He said he could prove by a witness, Felix Sisgle, who is working at Fort Crook, that the wife was the attacking party.

"I believe that it is only an accident that you did not kill your wife," said Judge Gordon. "It certainly was not your fault that you did not I'll give you the limit," and he imposed the sentence It was the intention of the authorities a first to file a complaint against Baker, charg ing him with assaulting his wife with to inflict great bodily injury, but as the wif refused to appear against him, it was finally decided that a conviction could not be se-tenced to sixty days in the county jail by Judge Berka for assaulting his wife, and later he was again in police court for beating one of his little daughters.

FIFTH WARDERS TO RETRENCH

What They Would Have Done Lighten Taxation's Burden. A meeting of the Fifth Ward Improvement club was held last night at 1910 Sherman avenue. Retrenchment in municipal management was the one subject discussed and o all sides it was agreed that the city council must cut down expenses. The club will be represented at tonight's meeting of the coun-cil and the numerous resolutions that were passed will there be presented. J. M. Couns

The following resolutions were passed:
Resolved, That the tax levy should be no more than thirty-two and five-eighths mills, by proper reduction of the public expenses, distributed as follows: General fund, eight mills; curbing, guttering and cleaning, one-fourth; police, three; sewer maintenance, one-eighth; fire, four; sinking fund, eight; water rent, two; library, one-fourth; school, four and one-half; park, one-eighth; judgment, one-fourth; health, one-eighth; street lighting, two. The following resolutions were passed:

ment, one-fourth; health, one-eighth; street lighting, two.
Resolved, That the city council is requested to consolidate all offices created by ordinance as much as possible.
Resolved, That in the interest of economy during our city's present financial condition, we demand that our library board discontinue the expenditure of any money for the purchase of an additional supply of books and periodicals, and that the salaries which are paid the library officials be materially reduced.

which are paid the library officials be materially reduced.

Resolved, That the members of the school board be requested to divide the pupils into two classes, one class to attend school in the morning and the other in the afternoon, Saturdays, as well as other days, and to discharge a sufficient number of teachers as circumstances may permit, and we disapprove the closing of any school, if thereby the children will be forced to walk a long distance.

approve the closing of any school, if thereby the children will be forced to walk a long distance.

Resolved, That every municipal officer, whose salary is fixed by the charter, be requested to designate the amount of his salary he will donate to the public, to the citizens of Omaha, this year. Every one of these may take fair warning that he will be remembered at the next election, if he does not comply with the above request, and all moneys realized in this way shall be used by the common council in giving employment to needy laborers, but only to heads of families and men who have been permament residents of the city of Omaha during the last six months.

Resolved, That in the interest of the citizens of the Fifth ward the Board of Education take necessary steps for the abolition of the kindergarten department in our public schools; that we deem the instruction in that department to be useless and unnecessary, and that our children are no further advanced at the close of the first primary grade than those of other cities where no such institution is provided.

Resolved, That aside from the regular course of study we favor the abolition of all expecial and technical branches of instruction which necessitate the hiring of an extra corps of teachers, and we favor the above in the interests of economy.

Sequel of the Razor Fight. Oscar Jones, a co'ored man, went into the Midway saloon at the corner of Twelfth and Capitol avenue yesterday afternoon and in a wine room found Mack Smart and a number of women drinking. Jones entered the room and insisted that he at once form one of the circle. Smart objected and a fight followed. Razors were drawn and Jones' coat was cut. Officer Dilion arrived at this moment and arrested Smart for assault with intent to do great bodily injury. The affair appears to have resulted from a cutting affray Sunday night, in which Julia Rose, living at Tenth and Douglas streets, was gashed about the head with a razor by Maud Hubanks, who lives at 115 South Teath, and was formerly intimate with Smart.
