And an au-dience with greater expectations never entered the doors of the old theater, and cer-tainly a more delighted one never so reluctantly arose when the curtain went down on the last act. The intelligence and eagerness of the audience seemed to have a hypnetic effect upon the players almost corresponding to the strange power Svengall exercises over Trilby herself, and the result was that A. M. Palmer's company, if its manager is to be believed, never gave the play such a strong presentation. The degree of appre-ciation of their splendid work is evidenced by the fact that at the close of the third act the curtain was raised four times before people wore out their hands or were sfied. Yesterday morning four tramps, Joe Manping, Thomas Burns, John Gill and J. B. Later Murphy took the chief's buggy and started on a tour of the springs. A column of blue smoke curling through the tree tops in one of the deep ravines attracted his at-tention and upon investigation he found his men encamped around a cosy fire. They were compelled to break camp and occupy quarters in the city jail for the night. The anxiety of the police to catch them arose from the fact that they had asserted to some of their saloon acquaintances that they were going into camp in the woods until night-fall and would then return to the city and 'turn a trick or two before morning.'

FREE WITH HIS COMPLIMENTS. "Dr." George was a great admirer of Mr. Bruce. He said Mr. Bruce was a great Bruce. man. He was a banker and a lawyer, and that he had done a good deal of de-tective work of a high order in getting all the evidence in the case together as he had. a verdict of conviction. He was in dead earnest about the matter, and was only satisfied when Mr. Reed explained that the law was all wrong and that a man who voted for acquittal of an accused was en-titled to his fees just as though he had voted for conviction. "Dr." George is now of vagrancy. The charge against them was dismissed upon the understanding that they were to use due diligence in getting out of this and that is the figure it has cut town during the day. Yesterday afternoon Officer Murphy ran across them several times and repeated the court's warning, but they diately after it and up to the present time heeded it not. At 4 o'clock he found them in a saloon near the Northwestern depot charge made against him that he was in rushing the growler with great enthusiasm the "Cass County bank ring" and the candi-and he at once attempted to place them date's surest way to political preferment under arrest. He only succeeded in getting was to denounce the ring and promise in all their books and effects from the buildring and put every man in the penitentiary who had ever had anything to do with the bank in any way. The condition of the pub-lic sentiment has been taken advantage of until the theme has been worn more or less threadbare and the taxpayers are not so eager as they were to vote money for fur-ther litigation in the case. ONE REASON FOR THE WORK. When Joe Yetzer testified on the stand that Jim Bruce had told him that 'f he could only convict old Ike Dickerson he could get anything he wanted in Cass county in a political way he only voiced the sentiment that has been the dominant force in the political conventions in that county for

Jim Bruce, Attorney Swan and Mr. Boorman, who conducted the case for the state, have all had an experience in Cass county politics and all have political records that are interesting, as they bear on the case that has just been tried. Each of them has served a term as county atforney, each has further political ambitions and each has pledged more than once to land all the Dickersons in the pen. Swan was the first of the trio to be county attorney. He was a democrat and Case is a strong republican county, but he pulled through. During the fight before election the charge was sprung that Swan had been the fusion candidate at one time for speaker of the Maine legislature and had afterwards been dropped from the roll of house members by the votes of his col-

of house members by the votes of his colleagues. Swan met the charge and replied that he had been tried in his absence on charges trumped up by the corporation opponents and that settled it. The good granger vote in Cass county went to the democrat and Swan was elected. He immediately installed as his deputy James E. Bruce, the warmest republican in the county.

Wall two years later Bruce was now.

Well, two years later Bruce was nom-inated by the republicans and Swan by the democrats. The fight was carried on merrily until near election day, when some of the workers discovered that a written agreement had been made between Swan and Bruce that the defeated candidate should be the deputy of the successful man. That rather chilled the interest in the fight on the county attorney, and Mr. Bruce was elected.
He promptly installed Swan as his deputy,
and the campaign bitterness was forgotten.
At the end of two years Bruce wanted the nomination again, but Mr. Boorman was in the field. He had a few delegates in the county convention, just enough to prevent the nomination from going to any one else, and had the balance of power well in hand, when a charge was sprung against him. He was accused of having charged about 75 per cent commission for the collection of a note due a man out in Tacoma, who had been garnisheed in Atlantic. Boorman had his explanation. He got up and told those good honest farmers that he had done what was charged, but that the Tacoma man was a farmer, a good honest fellow, who had paid the bills once, and that he had taken the course he had in order to keep a lot of soulless corporations from robbing the man the second time. The speech settled it. The roof nearly went off an dthe farmer delegates voted as a man for the farmer's friend, and Boorman was nom-inated and elected.

BUT IT FAILED. All of the different candidates had been All of the different candidates had been anxious for a chance to try a case against Isaac Dickerson. Bruce had convicted Yetzer and Boorman was expected to convict Dickerson. The trial came on at Glenwood last June before a jury of business men, and Mr. Dickerson was acquitted. The prosecution had been conducted by Boorman and Major Curtis of Atlantic. It was thought that the case would end there, but the political ambition of certain Case county men ical ambition of certain Cass county men was not satisfied, and the Cass county bank was an issue in the election again last November. When the board of supervisors met in January the question of making another prosecution of Isaac Dickerson came up. The members of the board were divided on the proposition. Finally the member from Bruce's
