

CONTAIN NOTHING OF JINGO

Speeches at the Opening of Parliament Free from Frothy Patriotism.

GOVERNMENT'S POLICY NOT INDICATED

Very Little of a Definite Nature Regarding Anglo-American Relations Can Be Told from the First Day's Remarks.

Speeches at the opening of parliament in London, Feb. 11.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram).—Little of a really definite nature can be deduced from today's ministerial speeches concerning Anglo-American relations, but what was said is distinctly encouraging. No jingo sentiment, at any rate, seems to animate even the smallest clique of either house.

For the first time since his arrival here Ambassador Bayard was not present at the opening of parliament. Doubtless he was kept away by his fear of embarrassing the debate on the Venezuelan question.

John Dillon seems the only alternative to Sexton for the leadership of the Irish party, except for the reasons already intimated in this correspondence.

John Parnell is not content merely for the influence of his name, but his candidacy is probably impracticable.

Lord Glenelk, better known as Sir Algernon Northwick, owner of the fashionable Morning Post, was sworn in as lord today, and was, I am told, the first working journalist by profession ever admitted to the House of Lords.

Lord Glenelk did not look imposing in his crimson and scarlet robes, but Lord Aldham, formerly Henry Hicks Gibbs, a business man, and a member of the House of Commons, looked like the heir of a dozen dukedoms. He was one of the staidest figures in the chamber.

QUEEN HOPES FOR A SETTLEMENT

Speech from the Throne Indicates no Part of England's Policy.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—There was an unusual amount of interest in the opening of parliament today. Owing to the many important sessions, nearly all the members of both houses placed themselves in the galleries and party chiefs as having headed the calls for a full assemblage. During the intervals between the last session and the present both houses of parliament have been thoroughly renovated and additional electric lighting has been provided.

There were many early arrivals, anxious to secure good seats. Mr. R. Ashcroft, conservative, secretary of the chamber, arrived at 5:40 a. m. and had the honor of being the first on deck. By 9 o'clock a large number of seats had been taken. The Irish benches were the last to be filled.

The royal commission, consisting of five members of the House of Lords, was in its place when the members entered. Many were absent, and the attendance was not very large. There were a number of bishops and a few peers in attendance. The French and German embassies and a number of attaches of their respective legations were also present.

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

My Lords and Gentlemen: I continue to receive from other powers assurances of their friendly sentiments.

An agreement has been concluded between my government and the government of the French republic, having for its principal object a more secure establishment of the independence in the gateway and the Indies back to the Atlantic.

The commissioners for the delimitation of the frontier which separates my Indian empire from the republic of Mexico, and the dominions of the emperor of Russia have agreed upon a line, which has been accepted by the emperor and myself.

The government of the United States has expressed a wish to co-operate in terminating the differences which have existed for many years between my government and the republic of Venezuela upon the subject of that country and my colony of British Guiana.

I have expressed my sympathy with the subjects of my colonies in Transvaal, and I trust that further negotiations will lead to a satisfactory settlement.

The sultan of Turkey has sanctioned the Armenian reforms in the provinces of which, in conjunction with the emperor of Russia and the president of the French republic, I felt it my duty to undertake to bring to trial the causes of the outbreak upon the part of a section of the Turkish population has resulted in a series of sanguinary and atrocious crimes.

I believe the difficulty would have been settled long since if I had not been so anxious to see the relations between the two nations be entirely removed.

At the same time I do not wish the house to think we have any intention of continuing to think we are rightly relying upon the question of arbitration. America attaches more unrestricted value to that mode of adjustment than I do.

WEXLER'S POLICY ANNOUNCED

Prepared to Adopt Any Measures Necessary to Conquer Cuba.

INSURGENTS GIVEN FINAL WARNING

They Will Be Treated by the Spanish General According to the War Methods of the Rebels.

HAVANA, Feb. 11.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram).—General Wexler had been in Cuba but a few hours when he issued a series of proclamations and addresses which clearly demonstrated the policy he is determined to follow in his dealings with the revolutionists.

He stated in unmistakable language that he will tolerate no interference with his purpose on the part of anybody, but has come here to protect all loyal citizens and to punish all enemies of Spain and sympathizers with the insurrectionists.

The first address is issued to the inhabitants of Cuba in general, the second to the volunteers and freemen, the third to the army and the fourth to the navy.

He praises the troops and urges them to continue in the good work, and to maintain the integrity of the proclamation, which he entitles "A circular," is addressed to the generals commanding the army corps and divisions, the brigades, the regiments, the battalions, the companies, the commanders of columns and other military chiefs.

He calls upon them to arrest and in all cases to hold up to their disposal or to hand over to the proper authorities. He also calls in any way give aid or display sympathy toward the rebels, and that his policy will be guided entirely by the conduct of the insurgents themselves.

WILL STOP AT NOTHING. He announces frankly and squarely that it is his decided purpose to make use of all the means necessary to conquer this insurrection. He has no intention of stopping at the language of his declaration that whilst he is disposed to give protection to all who remain loyal he is resolved to deal rigorously with all who in any way aid the Spanish cause or praise the insurrectionists or belittles Spain's prestige or that of its army volunteers.

General Wexler, in criticizing the conduct of a military campaign just past, says that in future it will be necessary that towns shall offer resistance when rebels attempt to march through them, and that they must not be frightened and that the enemy is more quickly informed as to the movements of Spanish columns than the Spaniards are of the whereabouts of the rebels.

Early in the day, while personally addressing the colonels of the volunteer regiments, General Wexler said: "I am aware of your great value and I trust you will unite your battalions in giving me your unconditional support, which I rely on to bring the war to a speedy end. I rely on you. Here there must be no more Spanish soldiers. Soldiers must be laid aside until the war is ended and we must think of nothing but to save the nation. I have not come to engage in politics. Rebels will not permit politics in your battalions."

BLACKS WILL BE WELCOMED. "Natives who side with us shall embrace us as brothers, both white and black. I bear no ill will toward negroes. During the last war my escort was entirely composed of negroes, and they gave me very valuable aid. These men who are in arms against us we shall make use of those who surrender to us shall be pardoned."

Then, turning to a group of minor volunteer officers, General Wexler continued: "Let there be no political intrigues. During the last war I should have been a general, but I should have been a private soldier. I should have been a private soldier, but I should have been a general. I should have been a general, but I should have been a private soldier."

LOCATING REBEL LEADERS. It is reported that Captain General Wexler received his first message today as to the whereabouts of the rebel chief Gomez, who was at San Jose, seven miles southeast of Havana.

The rebels burned several columns near La Sagua, on the Western coast, and it is probably Matanzas today. General Morin sailed today for Puerto Rico, where he will assume the office of governor.

A number of political prisoners, arrested in the eastern part of the island a few days ago and sent to liberty today, departed to Africa, where they were sent by order of General Wexler, because the information on which the arrests were made was grossly false.

It is reported that a rebel band on Sunday attacked Guira Macuriges, a town on the Matanzas & Sabanailla railway, and was defeated by the garrison, consisting of many Spanish soldiers. The rebels lost two killed and one wounded and the Spaniards one killed and one wounded.

It is reported that the rebel chief Matanzas has been wounded received in an encounter with General Godoy's column a few days ago and that his body was buried near Caguaya. General Godoy's column was defeated by the rebels, who were then driven to the mountains near Caguaya.

American Dies in London. (Copyright, 1896, by Press Publishing Company.) LONDON, Feb. 11.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram).—Jefferson Clark, a native of Louisville, Ky., but who was and children reside in New York, died here yesterday. He had been prominent in Baltimore, where he had several large concerns from the Chesapeake and Bay, and was understood to be left in a feeble condition.

End of a Celebrated Case. CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—The appellate court this morning affirmed the finding of the lower court in the celebrated case of Murray Nelson. The address Mr. Goeben said that the negotiations regarding the Venezuela question would result not only in a satisfactory settlement, but in a complete reconciliation and firm friendship between Great Britain and the United States.

ARE MARCHING UPON OMAHA

Grand Army Veterans Rapidly Pouring Into the City.

SEVERAL HUNDRED ALREADY HERE

Business Houses Trimming Up in Traction in Honor of the Guests—Council of Administration Meets.

The boys of '61 are gathering. The arrival of every train means additions to the numbers that will join in the annual encampment of the Department of Nebraska and sit around the campfire entertaining each other with stories of valor and patriotism.

While the encampment proper does not convene until today at 2 o'clock, yesterday several hundred of the delegates were on the ground. A number of the members of the Women's Relief corps are also here.

AT HEADQUARTERS. The Millard hotel has been selected as the headquarters of all three organizations which are to convene here, and rooms have been reserved for the various officers and the national colors in their form of the desks and stationary, an efficient reception committee is on hand, and no veteran need be troubled in any way by the business of the day.

TWO BIG ONES WILL FIGHT

Disputed Territory Generally Supposed to Be the Location.

BETTING ON THE DIFFERENT EVENTS

Short-Haired Fraternity Feels Certain that the Big Mill Will Come Off in Spite of the Troops.

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 11.—(Special Telegram).—El Paso presents a picturesque and stirring scene this morning. The town is overrun with strangers, the sporting element largely predominating, and the one subject is fight.

That the big mill will come off Friday morning there is absolutely no doubt, even if the men meet in private. The program now is to hold the contest on a strip of disputed territory in the bosom of the Rio Grande, forty miles west of the city.

There are four Texas rangers under the command of Captain Brooks, who with all his men is dead stuck on seeing the fight come off, and interference at their hands is not apprehended.

Governor Ahumada of Chihuahua arrived in Juarez this morning and the minister of the city have just gone over the river to confer with him. The betting on the Fitzsimmons-Maher fight is even this morning, with lots of Maher still in sight. Odds on the other mills are: Everhart and Leeds, even money; Marshall and Taylor, 2 to 1; Bright and O'Rourke, 2 to 1; Walcott, 1 to 2.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 11.—A sign in big red letters on the corner of the street in front of Dan Stuart's office this morning, announcing that rates could be learned and baggage checked within. This is to get the approximate number of those who will go to which event now seems assured. The place of meeting is, of course, secret, and no one will know until the night of the fight.

Seven additional excursionists have reached here this morning, making thirty-two now under command of Adjutant General Mabry. It is reported that the Mexican rurales are gathering across the river at Juarez. A number of excursionists from New York and other eastern points arrived today, and larger numbers are expected to arrive.

The ministers of El Paso decided this morning to open a board of foreign missions against prize fighting. They went in a body across the river to Juarez, where they met with the Mexican rurales. The board is very strong that he will keep his word so far as the prize fight is concerned, and that the fight will surely come off. There is no doubt that he will keep his word so far as the prize fight is concerned, and that the fight will surely come off.

Major James Lawler of Houston, who had been selected as final stakeholder for Maher and Fitzsimmons, telegraphed that he would not set here on account of sickness. Dan Stuart, Sam Austin, Buck Connelly, Martin Julian and Louis Hankman just met in the First National bank and Stuart deposited $10,000 with O'Rourke. Connelly, who is the money man behind Maher, says that Maher is in a condition to fight on any terms, and that he is very strong that he will keep his word so far as the prize fight is concerned, and that the fight will surely come off.

Consul Buford, the American representative at Juarez, thinks the Fitzsimmons fight will be a success. He is very strong that he will keep his word so far as the prize fight is concerned, and that the fight will surely come off.

Blew Down a New Bridge.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 11.—A telephone message from the suburban town of Bedford, N. Y., says that a high bridge being constructed across Tinkers creek by the Cleveland & Bedford Electric Railway Co. has been blown down by the terrific storm prevailing. So far as is known, the bridge was blown down by the force of the wind, which was blowing from the west with a velocity of 40 miles an hour.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—The city of Chicago has made this afternoon before Judge Carter of the county court for permission to exhumate and hold a post mortem examination on the body of John J. Mahan, who died at the Hot Springs, Ark., about a week ago, while on his wedding trip. Mahan leaves an estate of $200,000, and his wife claims that the doctor who attended him was negligent.

STOCK DEALER ASSIGNS. LAWRENCE, Kan., Feb. 11.—A. Dolbe, one of the heaviest stock dealers and owners in Douglas county, failed today to pay $10,000 of his debts, and has been assigned by the court. He has a large number of stock on hand, and is believed to be worth $200,000.

ASSETS ARE VERY SMALL. KANSAS CITY, Feb. 11.—A Perry, Ok., assigned to the Star says: The receiver of the assets of the Commercial Bank of Newkirk has made his statement, showing assets of $200,000.
