DOCTOR YOURSELF HAWKEYE LEGISLATURE ENDORSES PLAN

Mr. Wattles Tells How the Omnha Committee Was Received at Des Moines-Welcome to Ex-

Gurdon W. Wattles, vice president of the Union National bank, who has just returned from Des Moines in the interest of the Transmississippi exposition, was seen by a Bee reporter yesterday. He declared himself as highly pleased with the treatment that the Omaha and Council Bluffs delegations had received at the hands of the Iowa legislators. The main object of the visit was to secure he endorsement of the exposition by the Iowa legislature. This was cordially granted and every assurance given that Iowa would co-operate with Nebraska in making the exposition of 1898's grand success.

"When we first began to talk to the peopl at Des Moines about the exposition," said Mr. Wattles, "they didn't know what it was, They had not heard of it. I think that this is too general throughout the west. If the exposition is attended by only 1,000,000 perions, the amount of revenue that Omaha will derive from the affair will be great. We can at least afford to work hard in order to properly start the venture.

"When the Iowa people learned of the mag-nitude of the proposed exposition and recognized the great advantages that would accruo the entire west, they were not slow in de claring themselves heartly in favor of it. Iowa has lost a good many people to the south during the latter's boom, and they are do anything that will help bring back some of these wanderers. "On our arrival in Des Moines Governor Drake at once called a meeting of the leaders of both branches of the legislature. We met at the Savery house and were given a most courteous hearing. After we had pre-sented a prospectus for the exposition, the governor appointed Lieutenant Governor Parrott and Speaker Byers a committee to draw up a resolution, endorsing the project. This was done and the resolution was presented in the house by Assemblyman Weaver. There was but a single speech on the motion to endorse the exposition; and that was decidedly favorable. The resolution was passed by a unanimous vote. In the senate, as soon as the special order before that body was disof, the resolution was introduced by Senator Garet. The senate also passed it manimously "The fact that four out of the five citizen: who went on this errand are old Iowans helped out immensely. But the thing that accomplished the most good was the presence of ex-Governor Saunders. He was heartily greeted by his former comrades and as-sociates and when he appeared before the legislature that body adjourned and insisted on his speaking from the chair of the pre-siding officer. The Pieneer Lawmakers asscciation of lows was in convention at the time and the ex-gavernor renewed many old riendships. The courtesies that were shown to him were most marked and we were all glad to be with him and to have him appear n the interests of the exposition. "One remarkable feature was the perfect freedom from anything like jealousy. Iowa people were quite agreed that Omaha was the one place where a transmississippi ex-position should be held. The Iowans had a slight political motive in their cordial endorsement of our plan. Everybody over there is heart and soul for Allison for the there is heart and soul for Allison for the presidency. It was said to us not a few times that lowans wished to be neighborly and help out Nebrasks with the coming exposition. In return they hoped and expected that Nebraska would support lowar favorite son for the demination and for the election to the presidency."

The Owner was when yielted Des Moines

The Omaha men who visited Des Moines in the interests, of the exposition were: Gurdon W. Wattles, ex-Governor Saundere, W. S. Strawn, Z. T. Lindsey and John A. Wakefield. The later acted as secretary for the party. The Council Bluffs delegation the party. The Council Bluffs delegation consisted of C. R. Hannan, E. H. Odell, I.

Charged with the Lureeny of a He Blames His Wife. Officer Cox returned yesterday Sioux City, bringing John Fries, who is charged with the larceny of a gold watch from Mrs. E. Norman of North Twenty-first street, and also with disposing of goods obtained from the Nebraska Clothing com pany, but which had never been paid for. While in Sioux City Fries learned that h was wanted and returned the watch. He blames his wife and says that he is innocent He says that he does not know what has become of his wife, claiming that she left him in Sloux City.

An effort will be made by the police to place the little daughter, who was deserted by Fries and his wife, in some good home. Fries is not willing that this should be done and action will be postponed until after his trial. It has been learned that he and his wife left a 12-year-old son in the hands of a hotel keeper at Corning, Mo., where they lived before coming to this city.

Opera singers and public speakers can keep their voices clear and strong with the family remedy, Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

J. A. Borst, who tried to swindle a num per of druggists in the city by selling spurious quinine, has been arrested in Sioux City. The chief of police yesterday re-ceived an inquiry from the Sioux City authorities, asking if the man was wanted. Chief Sigwart replied in the negative. Sher man & McConnell were the only dealers swin-dled, and they only to the extent of $12. Lund & Co. mede a large purchase for which they gave a check, payment on which was stopped before it was cashed. It is under-stood that Borst is wanted in Beatrice, where he cleared $100 on his trick.

STRANGE CONDUCT OF KENYON. Singer Sewing Machine Agent Missing

-His Valuables Found.

The Nebraska managers of the Singer Sewing Machine company are wondering what has become of T. K. Kenyon, their agent at Norfolk. Kenyon has disappeared and his departure is marked by some peculiar incidents. He was last seen Wednesday morning at the Northwestern depot in Counil Biuffs. Just as a train was pulling out he ran to the depot, but missed connections, He had a dark brown value in his hand and after he had missed the train tinued to pace up and down the platform for some time. The depot policeman noticed that the man seemed much excited and formed the opinion that he was 'crazy. Kenyon finally went away and that was the last thought of the matter until Wednesday when the vallee was found in the rear of a grocery store in Council Bluffs. It was taken to the police station and opened. contained notes amounting to over $1,000, exscuted by various farmers in the vicinity of Norfolk and in favor of the company. Most of the notes bore endorsements indicating that payments had been made within a short time. Kenyon's name and business was disclosed by a number of letters from Singer company, which were in the

Nothing has been learned of Kenyon's whereabouts since he left the depot, and the local managers are a good deal mystified at the occurrence. The manager of the Omaha establishment telephoned to Grand Island yesterday, but was unable to learn anything. Kenyon worked under the direc-tion of the Grand Island office and the manager at that place has begun investiga-

of Her Own Accord. Judge Stenberg, chairman of the committee on poor farm of the Board of County Commissioners, says that Ida May Newton, the girl who told a long tale of woe to the police, is imposing upon the good nature of a credulous public. He says the girl was at the Mil-ford home for girls for a year, the full length of time that any girl is allowed to stay, and was then admitted to the Home of the Good Shepherd at South Omaha, but was ousted from that institution on account of her continued resistance to all of the rules of the place. She was then taken to the poor farm, but refused to remain about the institution, running away whenever she secured an opportunity. At one time, the judge states, the gir told him that she would not stay there, but would get out the first time she got a chance, and would break out of the windows if necessary. "She has never been adjudged insane," continued the judge, "and we had no right to detain her against her will. She was not insane, but was bent on running after men. She made life a burden for every man about the poor farm, and they are glad she has gon but she is not entitled to sympathy. Sl is simply vicious, and is determined to lead an immoral life. She said to me just a few days ago that she intended to take up her residence in the eastern part of the city and would like to see anyone prevent her from doing so. I suppose she left the poor farm to carry out her intentions in that respect none of the county officers had any au thority to stop her.

SUITS AGAINST EX-CLERK MOORES

Charged with Having Collected IIlegal Fees While in Office. Sixteen suits have been commenced in the district court against Frank E. Moores, ex-clerk of the district court. Richard Rice, the colored boy who was ried Wednesday on the charge of grand larceny, was found guilty of petit larceny by the jury, and was remanded for sentence. Judge Scott issued an order yesterday allowing the attorney for George Morgan forty days' extension of time in which to file his bill of exceptions. Morgan is under sen-tence of death for the killing of Ida Gaskill. In the county court the case of George D. Meiklejohn against the estate of Catherine M. Tuseier was pending for several cays. The suit is for attorney's fees and judgment has been entered against the estate, allowing Meiklejohn $2,000.

The jury in the case of F. J. Hetzel against ex-Sheriff Bennett was discharged by Judge Keysor after being out ninety-five hours. This was the fifth trial of the case and the jury informed the judge that the members stood five to seven in favor of Hetzel, but were unable to agree. This is the third disagreement, verdicts in favor of Hetzel having been returned on two former trials.

Police Station Filled for Hours with Women's Wails,

COURT FOR ASSAULT

Plend and Keep Officer and City Physician Busy with Fainting Spells, Resistance and Denunciations.

An unusually sensational and ridiculous scene occurred in the police court yesterday morning, when the three Wilsons, Mary, the grandmother, Marie, the daughter, and Ruby, the granddaughter, who were arrested at the Drexel hotel Tuesday night on warrants for the Capital City. In 1888 he removed charging them with assault and battery and to Omaha, and became general attorney for with resisting an officer, were called before Police Judge Gordon. The three women made their arraignment as dramatic as possible.

They were conducted into the court room, accompanied by the usual assortment of vags and tramps who had been gathered the day and night before. This evidently did not please the women, for they crowded to the end of the bench, as far as possible from the common herd. The fun began as soon as they were called before the

The complaint against them contained two charges and Marie displayed a knowledge of law by demanding that they be arraigne on separate complaints. To the question of whether they were guilty or not, Marie answered that they did not intend to plead, or go to trial. She would not allow her mother or her niece to say a word. She acted as spokesman and once more demanded that wo complaints be filed.

While the prosecutor was drawing up the complaints the second act in the court room drama occurred. Marie suddenly became afflicted with a severe fainting spell. She suddenly arose and walked out of the room and into the jail, despite the protestations of the court officer. Going to the woman's cell she reclined on a cot and all efforts of the is a singular coincidence that Senator Thurs-jail officials and the city physician, who was ton, the late general solicitor, read law with called to attend her, failed to induce the Mr. Smith in the little town of Beaver Dam, woman to arise. She protested that she unable to do so, although the physician stated that the fainting fit was feigned.

Mary and Ruby were allowed to accompany Marie. When the two new complaints had been filed Mrs. Wilson and Ruby turned to the court room, sat down in chairs and the court officer told them to listen whil he read the warrants. "I won't listen," said Mrs. Wilson, and she turned her back to the officer and threw her head as far away from him as she could while he read. Ruby, the little girl, who is gaid to be 11 years of age, began to cry "Come up before the judge," or court officer when he was through.

"I won't," said Mrs. Wilson, as she braced erself. "I won't, and you can't make me." The little girl renewed her weeping. "I won't go," screamed Mrs. Wilson as two She struggled desperately and remained a firm as a rock in her chair. "Bring her up here," ordered the court. The officers put forth extra efforts and the resounded through the court SHE KEPT SCREAMING.

The complaints were read and throughout the reading Mrs. Wilson screamed: "It is an outrage. You can do anything you want with us, but it is an outrage. Think of bringing an 11-year-old girl here and us two poor women. It is an outrage."
"What is your plea?" demanded the court. "Are you guilty or not guilty?"
Mrs. Wilson shook her head and pointed a warning finger at her granddaughter. The gesture was repeated when she was asked when she would be ready for trial. Upon that Judge Gordon announced that he understood the gestures and actions of the prisoners as signifying that they were in-nocent. He set the trial for this afternoon

"You shan't take her away," she screamed.
"If I go down there she will go too. You are brutes, all of you. You shan't take her, you ghan't.' The officers once more interfered. They seized the old woman and forcibly tore her from the little girl. She was dragged down the stone steps and pushed into a cell, still resisting. The girl was put in the room with the other woman, and she at once began to sob and cry. Her screams resounded through the building and were taken up at once by her aunt. "They have taken grandma from us," was the refrain sung by the little glrl, while the other screamed, "Oh, oh, oh."

The lamentations became so violent that it was deemed advisable to put the three together. An attorney for whom the women had sent appeared, and he went into consultation with them. The weeping and wailing continued for an hour, despite the efforts of Police Matron Cummings and the police officers to restore quiet. At the end of that time the women requested that everybody leave the room, and even City Physician Towne, who was attending Marie, was ordered out. He stated that there was nothing the matter with the woman.

HAD A RARE EXPERIENCE. The warrants for the women had been sworn cut by Constable Wilson, who had for almost a week been trying to collect an attorney's fee of $15 due for services in the Wilson-Raymond injunction case. He was at the Drexel hotel. He appeared at the hotel Tuesday to serve the writ, but the on the Union Pacific and other lives womens refused him admittance to the armed with a writ of attachment on the property of the Wilsons, who were installed From that time until Wednesday afternoon they remained in the room and Constable Wilson remained on the outside. One big meal was served the women on Tuesday over the transom, but the hotel proprietors refused to serve any others in that manner for fear

Wednesday they called for Dean Gardner and the latter responded. He went into the room and talked with them and then went outside to expostulate with the constable. While the conversation was going on the women became curious to hear and opened the door. This was the chance that Wilson was waiting for. He stepped inside. The women closed the door and the constable claims that they attacked him. He says that Mary grabbed hold of him and he violently threw her off. Then Marie attempted to strike him with the water pitcher and Ruby with some other article. Mrs. Mary Wilson and her granddaughter

Mrs. Mary Wilson and her granddaughter were taken to the county jail last evening at 6 o'clock to await their trial, which takes place before Judge Gordon today at 2 p. m. Another scene was enacted at the jail. Miss Marie pleaded inability to remove from her present quarters on account of sickness and she was at length allowed to remain. Mrs. Wilson and Ruby fought desperately when they were informed that they were to be transferred to another fail, and it was only transferred to another jail, and it was only by the efforts of several officers that they were at length forced into the patrol wagon. On the way up the hill Mrs. Wilson abused the men roundly and made dire threats of vengeance she would wreak upon them when the gained her freedom. she gained her freedom.

WAS A DAY OF SCREAMING RECEIVES THE OFFICIAL NOTICES. Judge Kelly Becomes the Head of the Union Pacific Legal Department. The receivers of the Union Pacific system have just sent out official announcements of changes in the law department that have been anticipated for some time. By resolution of the receivers, adopted November 26, 1895, Judge William R. Kelly is appointed general solicitor for the receivers. Judge Keily has just announced the following appointments: W. J. Carroll, first assistant to the general solicitor, and E. P. Smith and C. L. Dundey, assistants.

Judge Kelly was born in Ohio in 1849.

He received his education in the public schools of DeWitt county, Illinois. In 1864 he enlisted as a private in the Twentieth lillinois Volunteer infantry, and served until the conclusion of the war. He studied haw and was admitted to the bar in Illinois. In 1876 he was chosen attorney for DeWitt county. He removed to Lincoln, Neb., in 1879, where he practiced law for a time. Nebraska on the Union Pacific, a position which he continues to hold. The position Judge Kelly occupies is one of the greatest responsibility, and it is no exaggoration to say that the manner in which the duties of his department are performed reflects the highest credit upon him, and gives every satisfaction to the people with whom he omes in contact. W. J. Carroll, who has just been promoted w. J. Carroll, who has just been promoted to the position made vacant by the advancement of Judge Kelly, has been here for the last eleven years. He started in an inferior position in the legal department of the Union Pacific, and by close application to the duties of the various positions he has held has alvanced himself to one he has held has advanced himself to one of the most responsible offices in the great railroad system. Before coming to this coun-try Mr. Carroll served in both the army and the navy of Great Britain, and in the former rose to the distinction of an officer. He had not studied law previous to his coming to Omaha. He studied for his new profession hard and long, and his mastery of it is unquestioned by those having dealings with him. His appointment as assistant to the general solicitor gives great satisfaction to all connected with the system, and especially to those in the legal department. E. P. Smith, one of the assistants to Judge Kelly, has been in Omaha a little more than four years. He came from Wisconsin, where he was engaged in the practice of law. It

During that short time he has made a host of friends for himself by his affable and courteous disposition, and has succeeded in gaining the confidence of his superiors by his strict attention to business. Mr. Dundey came to Omaha from Nauvoo, Ill. He graduated from the law school of the University of Michigan in the class of '91. In that year he was admitted to the practice of law by the su-preme court of Michigan, and was granted the same privilege in Illinois, a chort while afterward. After practicing in Carthage, Ill., for a time, he came to Omaha, and at once connected himself with the legal department of the Union Pacific system

Palmer is Here to Stay. While the policy of retrenchment on the part of the new management of the Santa Fe road is being carried out most vigorously, it is not probable that the Omaha passenger office, in charge of Edward L. Palmer, will be abandoned. The local freight office has been closed, and the passenger office may be moved and the services of Mr. Palmer's seistant dispensed with, but it looks as though the genial passenger agent was here to stay. At Topeka 300 men have been dis-charged from the shops, and the heads of the various departments at Kansas City have suffered a reduction of 10 per cent in their palaries. So the Omaha office has not received harsher treatment than has been dealt out elsewhere. lee Gorge in the Platte.
