perfectly sketched. We exclaim 'what a miracie hath God wrought!' And yet how insignificant is the section we have been seen in the evolution of education. In turn the evolution of education is an infinitesimal part in the cosmic process. In these days of pessimism is it not something to have detected progress in an instant of but ten years? What a pledge for the future! Evolution is ascendant. It is sweeping upward here and now in the institution of which we are all a part. Humanity rises. The divine evolution of acons must be triumphant.

umphant, ... When the American traveler returns home after his long voyage the magnificent harbor of New York touches his heart with the story of America. Perchance a new moon, with a star on the string of her silver bow, hangs in the western sky, bespeak-ing youth, growth and empire. Underneath the moon, from the wooded bank, rises the church spire, and beside it the cupola of the school house. In a clus-ter are the houses of the hamlet. Church, ter are the houses of the hamiet. Church, school, home, the sacred trinity of American institutions. All are safe beneath the vigilant torch of liberty enlightening the world. Further on is a flashing diadem upon the brow of the city. With the span of the electric-lighted Brooklyn bridge science and invention have crowned the industry and commerce of the new world. "Such is the magnificent and significant gateway to the continent that opens out into the great midlands in which we stand.

Youth, growth, empire, church, school, home, liberty, science and invention shall make Nebraska and with its university, at the heart of the continent, the happy haven for all time for humanity, the pligrims of the night toward the light."

Governor Silas A. Holcomb was first in the list of congratulatory addresses. Speaking "on behalf of the state," he said that so far as the welfare of the State university was involved, he felt that he could conupon the gratifying fact that within the walls of that institution were gathered rep-resentatives from almost every county in the state. The university had a reputation not bounded by the limits of the state. There were many students from localities outside of Nebraska. It was but little more than a quarter of a century old, yet it had, even now, accomplished a great work. In a brief but graphic manner the governor sketched the condition of the state and its future possibilities. Huxley had said that every government should have an educational ladder, with one end in the gutter, the other in the university. Nebraska certainly pes-sessed such a ladder. Victor Hugo had said that he who opens a school house closes a prison. In connection with this, the speaker directed the attention of the audience to the small percentage of convicts in propor-tion to the population of Nebraska now in the penitentiary. Of late he had been pleased to notice increased interest manifested in to notice increased interest maintened in the Nebraska university. A former chancellor had been called to the great state of Ohio to preside over a school much older than ours. But he had received the call betting the call bett cause of his success in producing such excellent results in this state. The governor then extended congratulations to the new chancellor, and closed.

"On behalf of the state school system," perintendent H. R. Corbett said it was fitting that, in following the magnificent address of Chancellor MacLean, the governor should pay a high tribue to the state. Ne should pay a high tribue to the state. Ne-braska's pride was the small percentage of illiteracy in the state. Two thousand pupils had, in the past year, been added to the 300 High schools in the state. But three other state universities were admitted to rank above ours, and they were in states far wealthier and more densely populated than Nebraska. Prof. Corbett said that in educa-tional as well as in military or industrial tional, as well as in military or industrial affairs, the great demand was for leaders. As a representative of the common school system of the state, he could fully endorse truth of this demand. In Chanceller MacLean the university had a leader to whom every aspiring student could look with confidence and pride. One way to stand for Nebraska was by keeping he place in educational improvement, which was of present in the van.

The address of Hon. H. H. Wilson, A. M., class of 78, was "On Behalf of the Alumni and Students." He said that they had come women whom it should educate. As the years had come and gone, many had enjoyed the university's benefits. It had been pressed for money, but none had ever been turned away. The university was not a benefactor by the grace of the millionaire, who had given back a small modicum of what he had taken from the people. But it was a gift to youth from the hands of the common people of Nebraska. And no criterion must ever be set up except the aristocracy of brains. To Chancellor MacLean, Mr. Wilson said that if ever rank or wealth gained universal re-wards in the State university, then would the institution have sunk to a low point. But with the new chancellor of the institution at the head, he believed that, like a young Henry of Nevarre, he would lead it always in the right direction.

FROM THE REGENTS' STANDPOINT. "On Behalf of the Regents and Faculty,"
Hon. Henry D. Estabrook of Omaha addressed himself to the audlence. In a humorous vein he said he desired to address himself to Regent Morrill personally. He said it was time that Mr. Morrill be brought out and shown in his true colors. Mr. Morrill, he said had been a regent for six years and surveyed to want to have on to his to. rill, he said had been a regent for six years and appeared to want to hang on to his job six years longer. Now the office of regent carried ne salary. So far as the speaker had been able to discover, there was no chance offered to steal anything. Mr. Morrill, whose financial judgment amounted to financial genius, was too modest. He had heard him say that the boys and girls of Nebraska needed his services more than did the meb of howling politicians. Mr. Estabrook paid a high tribute to Mr. Morrill and to Ex-Chancellor Canfield, whom he humorously described as a "Sawed Off Hercules." The best tribute to Ex-Chancellor Canfield was the fact that he had himself. Hercules. The best tribute to Ex-Chancel-lor Canfield was the fact that he had himself recommended Chancellor MacLean. The speaker said that with the close of these exercises his citizenship in Nebraska would also be drawing to a close. He said that it was a pleasure to make one of his last acts a congratulatory address to the new chan-

FROM MINNESOTA'S UNIVERSITY. President Cyrus Northrop of the Minne-sota University, clused the congratulatory addresses. He said that from 1884 to 1895 the first cloven years of his official connec-tion with the University of Minnesota, Dr. MacLean was at the head of the department of English literature. During that time he transformed the department, reorganizing it and in every way strengthening it. He had ever found him a most

SAW BOZARTH SLAUGHTER FAWCUS Testimony in the Sidney Murder

Trial Grows Interesting. SIDNEY, Neb., Feb. 14.—(Special Tele gram.)-The taking of testimony in the Bozarth murder trial was begun today. The first witness was Jack Crittenden, who positively testified he saw Bozarth kill Fawcus. Mrs. Crittenden corroborated her husband. She witnessed the tragedy through a pair of field glasses from the Fawcus ranch, a distance of nearly half a mile. The defense made a strong effort on cross-examination to confuse her, but she falled to con-tradict herself.

William Fiesterman, Miller Robinson and Frank Lishka were also witnesses and their testimony could not be shaken. Dr. A. D. Slowitts and Coroner Burger identified the clothing worn by the deceased and the doctor described the wounds minutely, showing that Fawcus had been shot in the back while in the act of retreating from Bozarth.

The evidence so far shows that the trouble arose over an irrigation ditch which rar through the Fawcus land; that Bozarth lived northeast of Fawcus and had two shares in university's birthday. Twenty-seven years ago the state of Nebraska had said that all who so desired, regardless of birth or condition, could enjoy the benefits of this university. Those who had made this possible knew that the fame of the University of Nebraska would depend, not on its wealth, but on the men and women whom it would not be the condition of the dich, and thus shut of Famour men and state. state of affairs continued some time and on the day of the murder Bozarth was seen riding along the ditch with a double-barreled shotgun and a spade, and made the Camp Clarke he bought some shells and re-marked to the lady clerk that he intended to kill a man with them. Fawcus saw Bos zarth from his ranch and told his guests that he would ride to him and talk matters over. As he approached Bozarth the latter got off his horse and shot Fawcus twice, and he died within fifteen minutes There is a large array of witnesses yet to be examined for the state.

It was a well planned hunt. The crptains were: Kuntsengen of Ashland in the north, F. A. Creamer of South Bend on the east, Ed Thayer on the south and Lou Sheffer brought up the west line. There was a good turn out, being between 400 to 560 men on the lines at the final round up. There were ton walves sighted while in the chase, but as the territory was so large and the men so far apart—the wolves succeeded in slipping through the lines, although the lines were well held, the frouble being the parties on the south did not turn out as was expected. When the final round up came there was an old-fashband red fox still in the ring, which gave the boys plenty of sport and when the hounds were turned loose it did not take them long to capture the fox. A fox is something that has not been seen in these today. The territory taken in consisted of something that has not been seen in these

RAN AGAINST A BUZZ-SAW.

Tombstone Bill Barks His Mug Against the Fists of Captain Jack. While traveling through Pennsylvania a few days ago, Captain Jack Crawford, the "Poet Scout," was provoked into a display of the "manly art," which is thus detailed by the Wilkesbarre Times:

buzz-saw yesterday and when he came out of the melee he looked as if he had been carried by a cyclone through a slaughter house. It happened this way: Bill had been down in Jersey plying his usual vocation, that of selling grave-stones. He boarded a Lehigh Valley train at North Plainfield to come to this city. It is said by the train hands that "Bill" had a good-rized jag aboard, and the first object that attracted his exacting attention was a distinguished looking stranger wearing ling hair. Bfill prides himself on his reputation of being a practical joker and he decided to make some fun for his fellow passengers at the stranger's expense. So swaggering up the aisle he stopped in front of the gentleman with the long locks and paused a moment, sized up his "mark" and said, loud enough for all to hear, while a smile spread over his face:

"Why, I wonder what it is and where it came from?"
No response from the stranger, who sat reading his newspaper. A little indifference of this kind did not disturb Bill and he went on.

"Looks like a freak dosen't it?" as he "looks like a freak dosen't it?" as he "to the stranger in the stranger in the stranger.

of this kind did not disturb Bill and he went on.

"Looks like a freak, dosen't it?" as he gazed about the car for applause and approval of his fellow-passengers, which, by the way, was not forthcoming.

He kept on thus for a few minutes when the stranger said:

"Look here, my friend, I am not interfering with you, and if you will not go away and let me alone, there will be trouble."

"Ah, ha," replied Bil?. "It speaks at last; there will be trouble, eh? Wonder if it carries a gun?"

The stranger arose and quietly asked Bill to go away and stay away from him, but Bill was after trouble, and refused to be satisfied until he located it. The brakeman came in and told him the object of his remarks was a gentleman and advised Bill not to bother him any more.

But Bill had nerve and he wasn't going to let it be known among the passengers that he was weakening.

But Bill had nerve and he wasn't going to let it be known among the passengers that he was weakening. He knew if he kept on nagging long enough he could make his fellow travelers laugh. The laugh came later on and it wasn't on the stranger, either. Noticing a copper badge Bill leaned over the stranger's seat, gazed at the insignia a moment and then straightening up with an expression of disgust on his face, said:

with an expression of disgust on his face, said:
"Why, it's a Grand Army man; an old soldier; damn 'em both."
Here's where the laugh came in.
The stranger arose, took one step forward and planted one straight from the shou.'der directly on Bill's expression of disgust. Then the left hand came up under Bill's chin with a double back action movement which drove Bill's head back as if it had been hit by a pile driver. He saw stars, Mars and Jupiter all at one and the same time and for a moment he was of the opinion that the train had been telescoped, both ends and sideways. After the fists had disappeared out of the atmosphere in that car Bill looked weary. Blood was running down his face, over his collar and shirt front and the remainder of his clothing looked as though he had either a misfit suit on or had gotten on his clothes hindside foremest.

The stranger had resumed his seat and The stranger had resumed his seat and taken up his newspaper.

Tombstone Bill gazed at him a moment, stood off and looked at the awful wreck he presented and then leaning over the arm of the seat he said, with what little voice he had left:

EASTERN SPORTS LEAVE THE PLACE

Confidence oin the Announcements from the Fight Hendquarters is Shaken-Concession Granted the Madeld Bull Fighters.

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 14 .- (Special Telegram.)-Word has been received at headquarters from Las Cruces that Maher's eyes were healing fast and that he would be ready to step into the ring on Monday morn-

Over at Juarez today Fitzeimmone' training quarters have been guarded by a detachment of rurnels and all visitors save newspaper correspondents were dealed admittance. The Madrid bull fighters were granted a concession by the authorities of Chihuahua He boarded a Lehigh Valley train at this afternoon, and this evening promulgated the announcement that a grand bull fight would come off in the Paso del Norte bull pen Sunday afternoon.

El Paso is still overrun with strangers, and the gambling houses and saloons are doing a land office business. Al Smith and a number of New Yorkers left for the east this afternoon, but the newspaper men are all yet on duty. Notwithstanding the fre-quent bulletins from the fighters' quarters that the big fight will be pulled of Monday sure, I think this whole thing is a colossal "con" game, and that there is show show for the contest as there is for Mount Franklin to burst forth in volcanic action. The betting has changed but a trifle. The most money is being laid on the number of rounds it will take for one or the other to get GRISWOLD. DEAD GAMES ARE DISAPPOINTED.

Have Left for Home. EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 14.—Instead of be ing in the whirl of excitement today over the great prize fight, El Paso was quieter than at any time during the last two days. Stuart's headquarters was about the deadest place in town and was practically deserted during the greater part of the day There was a sorely disappointed crowd of sports hanging around the street corners and several of them not fortified for the financial strain of a long stay in El Paso were forced to take the back track for home. These, however, wore few in number and the majority are hanging on with implicit faith in Stuart's ability to pull off the fight as he has agreed to do. There is no question but the fight will take place, but whether it will be on Monday or not is an open question. If Maher's eyes do not recover with sufficient rapidity to enable him to get into the ring on next Monday, Fitzsimi.ons may decline to walt any longer.

Fitzsimmons is a sorely disappointed man over the turn things are taking, and is a little inclined to find foul really with Maher for There was a sorely disappointed crowd over the turn things are taking, and is a little inclined to find fault with Maher for little inclined to find fault with Maher for not taking sufficient precautions during his training. He is confident of his ability to beat Maher in two rounds, or four at the outside, and the obstacles that have been placed in his way have tended to discourage him somewhat. He rode over into El Paso this afternoon on his wheel, and although Maher went to Las Cruces this morning, the Texas Rangers at once struck Fitzsimmon's trial, to prevent him from engaging in a fist fight with a man forty odd miles away. The constant dogging of his every movement "by' the rangers has added another feature to the disgust which Fitzsimmons entertains of the general situation. There is no doubt that he is very anxious to fight, provided he does not run up against a fail, and in particular a Mexican jail.

NOTHING CERTAIN ABOUT MAHER.

Jall. NOTHING CERTAIN ABOUT MAHER. NOTHING CERTAIN ABOUT MAHER. Dr. White, who has been attending Maher, said this morning after his patient had departed for Las Cruces, that he had grave fears as to Maher's ability to be in the ring on Monday, "He may be able to do it," said the doctor, "but it is doubtful. It is likely to be a week, and he may not come around by that time. His eyes are in very bad shape, and there is no telling with any certainty when he will be able to see clearly."

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 14.—The feature of today's card at Ingleside was the fourth race, an event at a mile and a quarter. Green B. Morris' colt, Imp. Star Ruby, who was an 8 to 5 favorite, had no difficulty in winning. The Australian Forting machine was used in three events today and with one exception the starts were perfect. In the first trial, the start was straggling, owing mostly to the inability of the boys to get their mounts started. The Pay District association has decided to make the Australian machine a permarent fixture of its track when racing is resumed there next week. Sam Doggett, the crack jockey, will leave for the east Sunday, owing to the disagreement with Pittsburg Phil. Three favorites, one third-choice and a 50 to 1 shot won today. When the most benefit is to be derived from a good medicine, is early in the year. This is the season when the tired body, weakened organs and nervous system yearn for a build-ing-up medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla. Many wait for the open spring weather and, in fact, delay giving attention to their physical condition so long that a long seige of sick-ness is inevitable. To rid the system of the impurities accumulated during the winter seaimpurities accumulated during the winter sea-son, to purify the blood and to invigorate the whole system, there is nothing equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. Don't put it off, but take Hood's Sarsaparilla now. It will do take Hood's Sarsaparilla now. It will do you good. Read the testimonials published in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla, all from re-liable, grateful people. They tell the story.

FOR PEACE AMONG NATIONS. Lecture of Edward Everett Hale

A large number of Omaha's citizens, many of whom had known the distinguished author only through the reading of his writings, gathered at the Unity church last evening to listen to Dr. Edward Everett Hale lecture on "The High Court of Nations." The main room was completely filled and it was found necessary to throw open the adjoining room to accommodate the au-

In his introductory remarks Dr. Hale said that the explosion of the Venezuelan question had led the people to wonder why there existed no high tribunal to which questions of international dispute might be referred. He said that he was aware that three out of every four persons believed that it was all right to settle such disputes by resort to war. They argued that civilized nations had always engaged in war-the more civilized ecause he believed that three-fourths of his that he wanted to argue with them the necessity of establishing such a high court of nations. He especially liked to convert people to a principle who at the start ut-terly disagreed with him.

Dr. Hale used a number of historical il-lustrations to show that peace throughout the ivilized world was a possible thing "The United States is the greatest peace ociety the world has ever seen. Here we have forty-five states living in peace, and yet there are causes for quarrels and disputes among them that would be judged sufficiently grave to plunge European pow

"The nineteenth century, as a whole, ha been a century of peace. In seventy-five in-stances there have been referred to the courts for arbitration matters that a century ago would have undoubtedly provoked war. What we want today is a permanent tribunal to which such questions may be referred. The trouble with the submission f such matters as the Venezuela, Alaska and Alabama questions to commissions of arbitration is that the questions are not brought up before those bodies until after the prejudices of both sides have been unduly excited. These are bound to have their influence on the work of the commission The second difficulty is the impossibility of securing testimony other than that which is volunteered. The commissions have no power to summon witnesses. Another objec-tion is the necessity for a new commission for the settlement of every question tha may arise.

"Contrast this with the work of the United States supreme court, which has absolute authority in matters under its consideration. The permanent tribunal should be modeled after our highest court. It should contain the princes of the law of the leading na-tions of Christendom."

It was announced that Dr. Hale would preach at Unity church tomorrow morning.

Kenyon, of whom exclusive mention was made in Thursday's Bee, is alive and well in Omaha, and is safely ensconced at the city fail. He was arrested Thursday night by Officer Curry but when the arrest was made Curry thought that he had only a big, lubberly drunk on his hands The identification was brought about through Jailer Havey.

Jailer Havey.

Kenyon, who also goes by the name of F.
Sullivan, was picked out of a gutter at Twentieth and Paul streets. He was too drunk to know anything and appeared to have reached a climax of a two or three days' spree. He was hauled to the police station, where a letter was found upon his person, addressed to himself. Jailer Havey remembered reading in The Bee an account of the disappearance of the man and at once jumped to the conclusion that the drunk was none other than clusion that the drunk was none other than Shipwrecked Sailors Picked Up in an Open Boat on the Florida Coast.

AWFUL STORY OF SUFFERING ON THE SEA

Six Naked Survivors of a Wreck Discovered Starving and Unconscious on a Heap of Putrifying Corpses.

CARRABELLE, Fla., Feb. 14 .- A boat containing five corpses and six men barely alive has drifted ashore on Dog Island.

When discovered by two fishermen the survivors were lying unconscious on the decomposing corpses of their companions. The survivors were revived and Gilbert Holmes, who was strongest, related a story of awful suffering. Last week the eleven men left Key West on a smack to fish on the west coast. When two days out the smack was wrecked, the men escaping in a boat without food, water or clothing. Three days after the wreck Frank Mason died, and soon after Max Thornton, Alfred Stafford, Joe West and Nathan Adams succumbed. The survivors were too weak to throw their dead companions into the sea and the corpses remained in the boat. For the last two days Holmes was the only of the living conscious and he does not remember all that happened The scene in the beat was herrible. living and the dead, without a rag of clothes, were tumbled together. The corpses seemed to be gnawed in places and the fishermen suggested that in desperation the survivors tried to sustain life on the flesh of their dear The six survivors, Jose Roderiguez, Samue

Williams, Henry Johnson, John Blackburn, Arthur Moore and Gilbert Holmes, are being cared for on Dog island. Several of them seem to have been rendered idiotic by their sufferings.

Gladness Comes With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before pro forts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts— rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condi-tion of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, prompt-ly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects to note when you purficial effects, to note when you pur-chase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxa-tives or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, then one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

DESTRUCTION OF ELK IN WYOMING. Wealthy New Yorkers C. Trouble Near Lander. LANDER, Wyo., Feb. 14.-(Special Telegram.)-Agents of ex-Secretary Whitney and several other rich men in New York are in the southwestern part of this country near New Fork capturing elk. The method omployed is to run down the calves less than a year old and tie them and let them lie on the ground until the party returns. So far they have not succeeded in getting 10 per cent of these caives to a ranch alive. They often drop dead while being purened. The worst feature of the busine is that the cow elk is heavy with calf and often dies while being pursued. The destruction of elk new going on is said to be very large. Prosecuting Attorney Videl of this county says he will put a stop to the business at once if he has to arrest all the parties and bring them to Lander.

Bad dreams distress the man whose digestion is out of order. Constipation creates more dreams than are in the infernal regions. People who are troubled with constipation sleep badly and restlessly. Sometimes they cannot sleep at all, and when they do sleep, the dreams come. 18, doesn't take so very long to wear a man out with that sort of thing. He gets up in the morning feel-to bed. He is listless and without energy. The chances are he is dizzy, has "heart burn," palpitation, sees black spots bed fore his eyes, has headache and is bilious. What nonsense it is to let a condition of that sort continue. Nine-tenths of all the sickness in the world comes from constipation and neglect of it. It is a simple thing to cure if you go about it right. It's a bad thing and a serious thing if you don't take the right medicine. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are designed for the cure of constipation. The "Pellets" are tiny, sugar-coated granules. One is a laxative, two a mild cathartic. Everybody who has ever used them has a good word for them. They have prevented more serious illness than any other remedy ever sold. Druggists sell them, and an honest druggist will not try to sell you something else.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is the greatest family doctor book even published. It explains human physiology and the laws of life and health in plain yet scientific language. It has had a tremen-dous sale, 680,000 copies at $1.50 each, bound in cloth. The present free edition is the same in all respects except that it is bound in strong manilla paper covers. A copy will be absolutely given away to anyone who be absolutely given away to anyone who sends 21 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo N.
