ABOUT READY FOR THE LENTEN SESSION

Week that Has Passed Had Little to Attract the Attention of the Swell Set, Aside from Minor Functions.

The social calendar for the two days of grace before the beginning of the Lonton tains so many exquisite treasures of art, knows what an abode of hospitality it is, season include several events of interest, although it is not as gay as it has been on previous years.

dings nor fashionable functions until after the chiming of the Easter bells, Society folk will doubtless be glad of the rest from so much gayety and excitement and will be glad to turn their thoughts to other subjects, such as literature, music and study.

It is almost always through Lent that there are so many little reading clubs, cook-ing clubs, or sewing bees organized, or mutical societies formed.

At the Jaynes Dancing Parts.

A dancing party was given Friday night by Mr. and Mrs. Heary S. Jaynes at their home in Kountze Place in honor of their daughter, Miss Herberta. The house was decorated with carnations, frezias, roses, palms, ferns, smillax and plants, and the ibrary, music room, drawing room and dining room were cleared for dancing. Punch was served throughout the evening in the dining room. There was a room fitted up on the second floor with settees for the tele-a-tetes, which was made a charming retreat Supper was also served upstairs. The table was very pretty with its red decorations and candelabra and pieces of Mexican drawnwork scattered here and there.

McPherson played inspiriting dance music. The programs were clever pen and ink sketches, with flower designs containing pretty faces, made by Clark Powell.

Wedded at St. Peter's.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was celebrated at St. Peter's church last Wednesday evening, the contracting par-Austin. ties being Miss Helen C. Maguire and Mr. Thomas J. O'Brien. The bridal couple, preceded by Mr. S. Carmody and Mr. Charles C. Patrick as ushers, and followed by the bridesmaid, Miss Katherine Whalen, and the groomsman, Mr. John Maher, marched down the center aisle of the church to the altar, where they were united in the holy bonds of wedlock by Rev. Thomas Walsh, assisted by Rev. J. Callahan. ooter:

During the ceremony Mrs. R. Downy renered Millard's "Ave Maria," with Prof.

A. Provost at the orgau. The bride looked beautiful in a "chic" gown of navy blue, set off with pink and gold trimmings, while the bridesmaid was very pretty in a smart tailor made gown. After the ceremony the bridal party and immediate friends repaired to the home of the bride, on West Farnam street, where dinner was served, after which the bride and groom repaired to the drawing room and received congratulations of their many friends until 9:30, when they departed amid showers of rice and old shoes for an extended visit through the south and cast. They will be at home at the Mercor hotel after March 1.

Thurston Rifles' Informal Dance. One of the enjoyable informal functions of the season occurred at the Thurston Rifles armory last Monday evening, the occasion being the February competition for the Thurston medal, which concluded with an informal hop. The homelike quarters were the scene of a large assemblage of the company's friends and admirers. About 8:30 the defenders of the Galveston cup gave a very creditable exhibition, under their new commander, Captain William J. Foye. The individual competition, under the ervision of Captain Foye and Lieuten ants Hayward and Stockham followed. Thi was very close, as usual, and called forth much applause from the guests, who viewed the contest with intense interest. Mr. Fred Fisher was the successful competitor, and was rivated by Corporal W. C. Bartlett for a considerable length of time. The Rifles are anxiously looking forward to tomorrow evening for a delightful time, the occasion being the company's first lear year party. The boys are unable to learn the particulars of the event, other than that a good time awaits them. The Banjo club is a re-

The Banjo club is a new feature to the social life of the Rifles, and it is meeting with highly favorable success. In response to a hearty encore received at the installa-tion ceremonies of the Grand Army of the Republic at Creighton hall Thursday even-ing, the club rendered a modley of national airs of its own arrangement, which, while appropriate, provoked much mirth from the veterans. The club is organized as follows: First banjos, Wirt Thompson, A. H. Gsant-ner and Paul Vandervoort, jr.; second banjo, L. Patterson; piccolo banjo, Charles M. Rich-ards; guitars, Claud Stockham, R. Coverdale, C. Hackenburg, W. Lyon and C. Kastle.

The Thurstons promulgated the spirit of militarism that evidenced itself in Omaha last week by tendering an informal reception to the visiting Grand Army veterans. The portraits of honored heroes adorned the walls, and the profusion of decorations, together with a display of accoutrements and all else that goes to make a military recep-tion what it should be, were neatly arranged for the occasion. A vision of such seemed to make the old soldiers feel young again, and they thus freely mingled with the future defenders of "Old Glory." Many jokes and interesting stories were related, which provoked any amount of laughter and metri-ment from the members of the Rifles. The display of the Galveston championship attracted considerable attention, and d forth great praise and congratulations. A squad of the Rifles gave an exhi-bition, under the command of Lieutenant Stockham, and the veterans showed their appreciation of the same by declaring it to be the best thing they had yet seen.
