PAWLET, Feb. 4 .- To the Editor of The Bee: The following pome I dashed off last night with one hand tied behind my back. It depicts, however, in realistic colors, and aroma, an event which occurred at Hamilquestion was not brought up, and it is probon's lake a year ago last fall. I acted as a guide to the party referred to in verse, and you will confer a great favor on their sand-hill friends by giving it a place in your valuable columns.-Peter Madison.

Draw your cheers a little closer, Git aroun' the blazing log, "Fill them up again there, landlord, "Fill them up again there, landlord,
Let us have a drop o' grog;
An' I'll tell yez all a story
'Bout a party of 'the boys,'
From the town of Omuhaha.
Who came out to make some noise,
With their nice, slick hunting breeches
An' their guns all polished up,
They was goin' to have some shooting
Be it quall, or "chick" or pup,
An' they had their ammanition,
Faith they knew just what to bring,
In a flask of glass and leather,
Stuff to set one's blood a-ting.
Well, they see me standing near them,
An' they'd heard o' me, they say,
So they hired me to go with em,

Faith they knew just what to bring. In a flask of glass and leather. Stuff to set one's blood a-ting. Well, they see me standing near them, An' they'd heart o' me, they say. So they hired me to go with 'cm, Said they weren't afraid to pay. An' I promised that I'd fetch 'cm, Said they weren't afraid to pay. An' I promised that I'd fetch 'cm Where they'd get the best of game. So we tramped around the sandhills An' all we saw was mighty tame. Well, there wasn't much use shouth' When we'd nothing for a mark, So we thought we'd make a cottage For the night was getung dark. An' they told me who they was, then As we sat around the fire—Lord! I mind it well this minute—The thermometer was higher, 'Course tonight it's down past zero, But that night it warn't so bad. Tho' 'twas cold enough. I'll bet you, And those fellows, they were glad 'That they'd brought some 'bitin' billy' In their little leather flask. Well, they emptied at and filled it, An' I had all that I could ark. One, they said, was Sandy Griswold, And a sport yez ought to see, All the others said that Sandy Wrote the sermons in The Eee. He was kind o' church reporter, 'Cause he was so meek and good But I never saw no churchman. Hit that flask as Sandy could. One of them they all called Stocky An' his maiden name was Heth, But he felt a kind of rocky 'Cause he had some aching teeth, Aching, not because they hurt him, But because he wanted game. He was quite a hand at shootin', And pain grub was kind of tame. Hamilton, he was another,
But he didn't make much noise and the others said that he was Always Frank, when with the boys. Well be wasn't much on drinking, For he was a quiet chap.
So he quietly retired and Said he guessel he'd take a nap. But, of course, I can't Skip Dundy, He was with us, too, that night, As we all turned in at bedtime. Going to bed by pais moonlight.
