It was awfully close on the vote for mayor, but aside from that the republicans had nearly everything their own way. Judge Carson is elected mayor by a pluralty over Jennings of 35, just two votes less than the number by which Mr. Cleaver defeated Jennings two years ago. The democrats elect an alderman in the First and Fifth wards, an assessor and city weighmaster, and may, on official returns,

For aldermen: L. A. Casper, democrat, defeats J. R. Bell in the First Ward; in the Second, J. H. Pace, republican is elected over G. S. Davis, and in the Fifth, John Brough, democrat, defeats T. A. Brewick. There has seld m been an election in Council Bluffs that called forth the activities of all classes of politicians and voters to such a degree as the contest that was made yes-terday for city offices. There was no particular reason for the extra effort made on all sides to get out the full vate of both parties, for there were no questions involved that made a republican or a democratic vic-general public.

The contest was fought out on different lines than are usually followed. The per-sonnel of each ticket was without objection, and each candidate was regarded as a pretty John Olson was invited to leave the Inman house bar last night for conduct that did not meet the approval of the proprietors. He refused to go and Officer Slead was called in. The officer attempted to give him some good advice, but Olson resented his interference. The result was that Olson was placed under arrest and a charge of intoxication registered against him. He put up $21.60 for his appearance in the police court this morning and was released.

Although it was election night and the fact was not generally election night and the fact was not generally At the Second precinct of this ward there was almost a mob of voters striving to get in when the polls closed. Watches were a little slow and the polls were held open a few minutes after the big clock struck. The judges feit very much inclined to give every man his right, but the question as to the legality of the election if the time was ex-tended, was suggested. It was decided not to take any chances and the polls were closed when the watches of the judges indicated 6

> There has been no question for several days but that the vote on mayor would be close, and the first returns emphasized this fact. When the returns began coming in at the different headquarters the one fact made certain was that for mayor at least it was to be a decidedly close finish, and each bunch of figures reported furnished some consolation to each party. In the re-publican wards Carson's vote was lighter than his friends had anticopated, and the lemocrats would jubilate over the situation for a time. Then a democratic stronghold would be heard from, and Jennings would be found considerably short of the vote he had been counted as good for, and then the republicans would have a chance to crow

The democrats made their headquarters at the Grand hotel and crowded the lobby of that place to its utmost. Along toward midnight everything had been heard from except the first precinct of the Fifth ward, and Carson had a plurality of thirty-three. Rumors came up that the republicans of that precinct were knifing Carson and Allerman Brewick, and democratic hopes went up again and cheers were offered for Mayor Jennings, when a messenger arrived with the information that Jennings had carried the ward by fifty majority, giving him the election by fifteen. It was nearly 2 o'clock when the final returns were received from missing precinct, and the democrats had

ELECTION AT MANAWA.

They Have a Hot Fight and Defeat Can't Reed and His Cohorts. The election yesterday at Manawa was of a rather exciting nature. There were fortytwo votes registered and thirty-eight cast. Colonel Reed had been nominated on the democratic ticket, and Colonel Beck represented the citizens' organization, which was pledged to defeat the colonel and his plan for dissolving the village corporation. There were only fourteen resident voters, but the factions had been at work colonizing. A great deal of bitter feeling had been engendered during the campaign and during the day there were several narrow escapes serious collisions. The outlook ap peared so threatening at one time that a call was made for the sheriff, and a deputy was sent down to prevent bloodshed and keep the peace.

When the count was finished last night it was found that the Beck faction had carried the day by a vote of 14 to 24, thus re electing Beck and defeating the dissolution

There are several questions connected with the election that will be fought out in the courts. The Reed faction is determined upon securing the dissolution of the town corporation, and this is also said to be favored by a large portion of the Back rowd, notwithstanding they voted against

How the Rayages of the Missouri Were Cheeked at Atchison. A result has been obtained at Atchison, Kan., by the Chicago and Atchison Bridge company which is of national importance, says the Kansas City Times. After the expenditure of vast sums of money by the government, the railroad companies, and the away over Howard and Sexton. Every man bridge company in ineffectual efforts, in usual ways, to check the ravages of the Missouri river, the bridge company, for an insignificant sum, and by work that only received the sneers of the government river commission, has actually changed the channel of the river, Numerous bets were made at even money.

Atchison le situated at the apex of the "Grand Detour" of the Missouri river, and the treacherous stream at that point has, for many years, been a source of great annoyance and expense to the government, the bridge company, and the several rain-ad companies whose traffic is over the bridge. Possibly the money that has been expended in rip-rap, dykes, and mattress work will aggregate a land a certainty.

As a result of the cutting of the river on the Missouri side, which had been going on for many years previous to 1394, an island containing 400 or 500 acres had formed on the Kansas side where the current formerly flowed. In the spring of 1895 the bridge company conceived the idea that a canal cut through the island would lessen the pressure of the current on the Missouri side, and, possibly, in time, divert it. At an expense of only $13,-000 the company constructed the canal. It was 6,800 feet long, sixty to eighty feet wide, and eight feet deep. The result was surprising. Government engineers, old steamboat en, and people generally looked upon its construction as a foolish proceeding. within six months the course of the river wan through the canal. The island has been caten away, and the vast body of land on the Missouri side, over which the river flowed less than a year ago, is ready to be reclaimed; he rallroad tracks have been relaid; the ridge company has no feer of the future, and is hardly possible that the government will e called upon again in this generation for an never knows the glory of such a thing till one must not be sick, nor pretend to be; he must be in fairly good health and free from trouble or worry of any sort. Then he is entirely himself, and it is the only place in which he can be. As soon as he dresses he which he can be. As soon as he dresses he comes under restraint, not merely physical, has been identified with clothes, and will be for ages, in spite of all that has been or will be said against it. One may not always be conscious of the influence, but it exists all the same. Not a trace of it is feit when one is in bed. There he is free. He can twist and roll and kick and throw his arms about as he will. If he should do the like elrewhere there would be suspicions of his san-ity. Not a few of Pope's best lines came to nim while in bed. Thomson composed his lnest descriptions of natural scenery while him while in hed n bed. A like thing doubtless may be said of historians and inventors, and surely of the humorists. There is little doubt that the liveliest jokes current were thought out while their authors were in bed. The blood flows freely then, digestion does its perfect work, the mind is relieved of the care of the body, the imagination and fancy roam the earth and skies and gather of their treasures; the inscriptions on the tablets of memory come out and incident and adventure recur in a light of their own, suggesting new ideas and relations. One never knows what life is till he has spent a day in bed, in full or fair health, without a thought save those which come smiling to him in his rest.

THE VANISHING BUFFALO. Hide Hunters Slaughtering the Yellowstone Park Herd. Prof. S. P. Langley, secretary of the Smithsonian institute, in his report for the last fiscal year, recommends that effective measures should be taken to preserve the small herd of bison that remains in the Yellowstone National park, survivors of the vast multitude that once roamed in freedom over the western plaine. The number, he been supposed to be, and probably does not exceed fifty, and he insists that if protection is not given to them there will be a speedy extinction of their speecies. A few groups of so-called "wood bison" are still to be found in the desolate wilds of the British Northwest Territory, but it is not though that in number they exceed 200, and hunters go even into that remote region and destroy them. A small herd has for some time been known to be in the northwestern part of Texas, and it is said to have been seen a short time ago, the estimate being that it contained fifty head of cattle.

Assuming, says the New York Tribune, that these figures are approximately correct, it follows that of the millions of the great animal which played an important part in the history of the struggle to extend the frontier of civilization, not more than 300 are surviving on the North American continent, outside of the few specimens which are to be found in the zoological gardens of our own and other cities. Prof. Langley recommends that the herd in the Yellow-stone region should be captured and placed in the National Zoological park at Washing ton, where they would be fully protected. Doubtless they would increase sufficiently to allow the starting of small herds in various parts of the country, and thus save the race from becoming as extinct as is the dodo or the pterodactyl. There is more than mere sentiment in this suggestion, and the buffalo is just as worthy of preservation as is anything else that is identified with our marvel

"Get Onto This Wheel"

It Only Costs $80.00.

It's the WELLINGTON.

The Highest Grade Medium-Priced Wheel in the World.

IT TAKES years to build a wheel, and until this year no wheel on the market had as many selling points, riding points, wearing points and points of general satisfaction to dealer and rider as this wheel, the result of the best skill and the product of the best of everything. It's the fellow and companion of our HAMILTON, the leader of all wheels this season. It's designed and built by expert men from choicest material, and aided by latest improved machinery. Not gotten up and thrown together. VAN BRUNT & WAITE,
