tomorrow with Chairman Dingley. Congressman Gamble of South Dakota was considerably elated when he read this morning the action of the South Dakota republicans in the state convention Wednesday upon the money question. It but emphasizes what he said some time ago in reply to General Grosvenor of Ohio, who on the floor of congress classed South Dakota as a free silver state. Gamble stated that his state believed in bi-metallism, based upon international agreement. He believed that the St. Louis platwould give to silver the standing it merited, and upon that platform South Dakota would be willing to stand.

The sundry civil bill, reported today from the committee on appropriations, makes available for the Omaha postoffice, without change in the limit of cost, $70,000, and carries for the Sloux City postoffice $60,000. Woman's club has been entertaining distinguished guest this week in the peron of Dr. Mary E. Green of Charlotte Mich., who is lecturing here on various topics connected with domestic economy. Dr. Green has been identified with the club movement from its beginning, "I was a practicing physician in New York when Sorosis was organized," she says, "and I well remember the caricatures in the newspapers, and the ridicule that was everywhere heaped upon the idea that women might organize for intellectual and social ends."

Dr. Green was one of the committee of awards on food products at the World's fair. and she is the vice-president for the state of the National Economic association. She is also the author of several books of value to housekeepers. One of these at least, oc-cupies a peculiar place in culinary literature, being an elaborate study of the foods of all nations.
