

Another Bonanza.

This is a great year at "The Nebraska" for low priced men's suits. Our tables have never held such surpassing values before. Every new lot that is opened seems a bigger bargain than the previous one, and the salesmen keep wondering what's going to come next, and where the surprises are going to end. Yesterday we opened a new lot of suits at $4.25, and they are bonanzas in every sense of the word. They are made from all wool worsteds, in that "pepper and salt" pattern which is so stylish this spring. The coats are cut round corner, lined with drab colored silesia, have silk worked buttonholes, and rounded lapels on the pockets, just like high priced coats. The vests are made with notched collars and cut full length. The pants are full fashioned, well tailored and sewed with silk thread throughout. The whole suit is made up in a first class manner, and in pattern, style and appearance, will compare with any ten dollar suit. We have these suits for sale; we don't keep anything to admire.

N. B. It will be a good many years before you will get as much for your money as you can at "The Nebraska" this spring. Turn that over in your mind.

REPAIRS FOR ASPHALT PAVEMENTS.

Opposition to Awarding Contract for the new. There is some objection to the resolution which was referred to the judiciary committee of the city council some time ago and which instructs the comptroller to advertise for bids for keeping in repair for a period of five or ten years the asphalt streets not included in the Barber contract. It is urged that during the next two or three years these streets will need but little in the way of repairs, and that to make a repair contract at this time would be a needless waste of money. It is argued that it will be time enough to let a contract when the pavements begin to wear out, and that a saving of several thousand dollars a year could be effected by delaying the matter.

Members of the Board of Public Works really that their request that bids be asked for is preliminary to a new arrangement for paying the repair bills. Under the present system, all bids for the repair of asphalt pavements are paid out of the general fund. It is said that the result is a material discrimination in favor of property owners on asphalt streets.

They say that after an asphalt pavement is once laid it becomes practically permanent by repairing and resurfacing. When other material is used, the property owners have to pay a special tax assessed against the owners of the property benefited. Under the Barber contract it is claimed that this cannot be done, and that the city will never be able to pay for the work. But if bids are received and a contract let in the same manner as for other public improvements they assert that the city will be able to pay for the work, and that this policy will be pursued by the board.

The Unkindest Cut of All. As Shakespeare says, it is to poke fun at one's neighbor at people who are nervous, under the half-belief that their complaint is imaginary or an affectation. It is neither, but a serious reality. Imperfect digestion and assimilation of the food is a very common cause of nervousness, especially that distressing form of which it manifests itself in want of sleep. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters speedily remedies nervousness, as it also does malarial, kidney, bilious and rheumatic ailments. The weak gain vigor speedily through its use.

They Will Tattle with Justice. Members of the Woman's association of Plymouth Congregational church have adopted a unique plan for raising the debt that is hanging over the church property, and this evening, in the church parlors, they will hold a session of court, at which an alleged breach of promise suit will be tried. A member of the association has agreed to pose as the injured party, having brought suit for $500 damages against a prominent member of the church. Both sides will be represented by attorneys. A petition and answer will be filed, and after a few minutes of legal argument for the occasion, Mrs. Fred Engel will sit as the presiding judge.

Farewell to Mrs. Tracy. At 8:45 o'clock this afternoon the current literature department of the Woman's club will tender a farewell to Mrs. Tracy prior to her departure from the city. Mrs. Peattie will talk upon "Hamilin Garland." T. J. Kelly will sing the "Hanging of Danny Deever in the Morning," and "I Have Eaten Your Bread and Salt," the lines of which were written by J. E. Butler for this occasion. Miss Fuller will read Story's "Cleopatra," and Mrs. C. A. Jacobson will read "The Last Days of Pompeii." The secretary of the club calls a meeting of the club for Thursday, April 9. All members of the association having wheels are invited.

Nebraska Club Notes. The executive board and membership committee of the Nebraska club is holding joint meetings daily at 1:30 o'clock p. m., at the office of the club in The Bee building. The membership committee is daily increasing, and members of the board propose to enlarge the committee to fifty. Volunteered to be members of the board.

A special called meeting of the executive committee of the club will be held in this city next Friday noon to consider business of importance.

Bertha Hinkle Shook the Police. The police are rid of Bertha Hinkle, the girl who Wednesday threatened to take up a permanent abode at the police station. She left late that afternoon to look for a job, and a short time later returned with the information that she had found one. She said that she had been employed by a farmer, but that the farmer had not given her his name. The story is doubted by the police, but Bertha departed with all her colors and her bundle.

PROSECUTION OF HENRY BOLIN

County Attorney Disclaims Responsibility for Delay.

WORK OF PREPARATION REQUIRED TIME

Case to Be Called a Week from Monday and Further Postponement Will Not Be Contemplated.

County Attorney Baldrige denies that he has been in any way instrumental in causing a delay in the trial of Henry Bolin, the ex-city treasurer, who is charged with embezzlement. In speaking of the matter yesterday morning Mr. Baldrige said: "When it first came to my attention that Bolin was accused of the crime and the evidence was in such form that there was something more substantial than hearsay, I directed Mr. Day to draw an information, charging Bolin with the embezzlement of a small amount, in order to hold him until we could secure evidence on which to base a charge covering the full amount. As soon as this evidence was secured we commenced the second suit. The information in the second suit covers sixty pages of legal size paper, typewritten, and an immense amount of labor was required to prepare this information. The papers in this second case were only completed a few days ago and I will have men out searching for witnesses whom I want in the case. I have not secured the names of all the witnesses I want and therefore cannot have them all endorsed on the information, which will have to be done before it can be served on Bolin."

Under an agreement made some time ago with the county prosecutor, I gave way to him in the district court in order to give him time to try a batch of cases which had been accumulating for some time, and next Monday was the time at which I expected to take up the Bolin case. Mr. Marland informed me that he had been retained in the case, and had been called to Washington on business. I agreed with him to continue the case a few days only, but I saw him on the street yesterday, and he told me he had been unable to get away. I notified him then that I would call the case for trial later than a week from next Monday, and would not consent to any further postponement.

"In view of the fact that this case was commenced only a couple of months ago," continued Mr. Baldrige, "I feel that I have used due diligence and have not been instrumental in delaying the matter. I do not feel in any way responsible for any delay that may have occurred in getting information on which to base a suit, as I can scarcely be expected to act as a detective in matters of this kind."

THEY MUST PAY FOR THE PAVING.

Injunction Denied the Property Owners on North Twentieth Street. Judge Powell denied the application for an injunction restraining the city from collecting the tax levied against property abutting on North Twentieth, between Izard and Lake streets, in payment for the paving of that street with brick. The property owners joined in a petition, asking that the levy be set aside, for the reason that the city had not caused water, gas and sewer connections to be made with every lot along the street, as required by the ordinances of the city and the charter of the city, and that the brick used was not the quality designated in the petition asking that the street be paved.

The judge, in rendering his decision, said that the evidence showed that, while water, gas and sewer connections had not been made with every lot along the street, there had been a substantial compliance with the law on the part of the city, and the property owners had known at the time the paving was commenced that the connections had not all been made, but they stood by and saw the pavement laid without making any protest against it. Later, when the board of equalization met to equalize the taxes, the property owners did not appear to protest, and the time had therefore gone by within which the property owners could make a protest on that ground. With reference to the quality of the brick used in the pavement, the court said the evidence showed that the brick was equal in quality to any other used in paving Omaha streets and that it led with the wear of traffic in a reasonable manner.

DISAPPOINTMENTS FOR THE CROWD.

Judge Ruled Out Sensational Evidence in Divorce Suit. What promised to be a rather sensational divorce suit was called before Judge Keyser yesterday and the court room was well filled by unregenerate people who rejoice in the misfortunes of their fellow man. The case was one in which Mrs. Crescenta Nash applied to the court for a divorce from her husband, Albert D. Nash, to provide for her support. The defendant had filed a cross-petition, setting up cruelty on the part of his wife as a defense to the divorce. The attorney for Nash notified the court and the other side that the defendant would withdraw all of his answer except a general denial of the charges contained in the petition and a justification of his action in leaving his wife. This let the sensational features of the case go glimmering, and a shade of disappointment swept over the court room at the instruction of the judge. The case simply stood as an application for alimony, and the plaintiff was called to the stand. She stated that she was married to Nash in Omaha, June 1, 1895, and that they had had four children, three of whom are still living, all being of legal age. Nash left her in May, 1895, and had not contributed anything for her support since that time, she having been obliged to depend upon her daughter for support.

AGAINST ADAM SNYDER'S BONDSMEN.

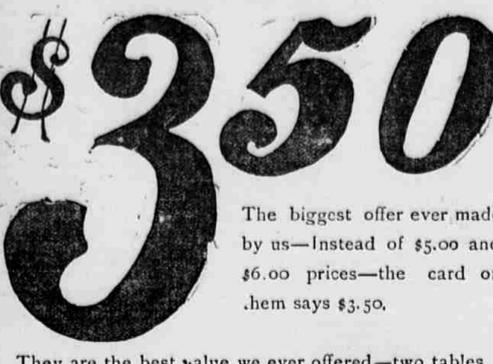

Sheriff Ordered to Levy on Property to Satisfy a Judgment. The county attorney has ordered the issuance of an execution against Adam Snyder and his bondsmen to satisfy the judgment obtained by the county for money collected by Snyder while he was county treasurer and which was not turned over to his successor.

January 2 of this year the county recovered a judgment amounting to $3,300, with interest from September, 1895. A motion for a new trial was granted, and the county attorney states that the time within which an appeal might have been taken to the supreme court has expired and no offer to pay the money has been made by the principal or any of the bondsmen. The sheriff is instructed to levy on the goods and property of any and all of the bondsmen for the full amount of the judgment. The bondsmen are W. Segelke, Morris Morrison, Gottlieb Storz, T. J. Lowry, John M. Green, Frederick Krug, Patrick Ford and J. E. Riley.

Restrained Delivery of Deeds. Judge Powell granted a restraining order at the instance of Francis C. Grable, the Omaha capitalist, restraining the delivery of certain deeds of a large amount of irrigated land in Wells county, Colorado. The transaction is a large deal involving about 150,000 acres of Colorado land, valued at about $150,000, and some Denver property, valued at an equal amount. A deal had been agreed upon, and Wharton & Baird were retained by both sides to see that the deal was good. In looking the matter up they discovered that the title to the irrigated land was controlled by the Colorado Irrigation Law. The Drury Land and Irrigation company, or D. A. Cambell, the principal stockholder in that company, was the owner of the irrigated land, and was satisfied with the title to the Denver property. He demanded of Wharton & Baird, who held the deeds to both properties in escrow, the delivery of the Denver deed. In order to prevent the delivery of the deeds, Grable applied for the order restraining the delivery of the deeds.

FIGURING OVER BOLIN'S BOOKS.

Methods of the Expert Cause Much Comment.

There is a good deal of comment in the city hall over the manner in which the bondsmen's investigation of the books of the city treasurer's office is being conducted. Expert Lenbeck has been assigned the use of one of the committee rooms on the second floor. He is at liberty to take the books from the office of the treasurer and comptroller and keep them in his possession in the committee room. It is a matter of remark that this affords the bondsmen every possible opportunity to manipulate the figures if they felt so disposed. They have claimed from the outset that the item of $77,000 in the shortage of ex-City Treasurer Bolin was a clerical error, and it is suggested that if the bondsmen were so disposed the books could very easily be made to show that such was the case. The expert is alone in the committee room with the books, and it is asserted that it would be possible for him to make a clean case for the bondsmen with a couple of strokes of a pen.

It's all the same, a slight cold, congested lungs or severe cough. One Minute Cough Cure banishes them.

Kicked Back at the Kicker. Charles Olson resides at 1706 Corby street. He owns a horse. Yesterday Olson was driving in the vicinity of Fortieth and Hamilton streets, when the horse balked. Olson got out of his wagon and commenced to kick the horse. At last the animal concluded to join in the kicking, and, reaching out, it landed on one of Olson's legs, breaking the bone.

Cases Were Dismissed. In police court yesterday the cases against the keepers of houses of ill-fame were dismissed and the defendants discharged, the court holding that the information were defective. The cases against Gladys Bush, Harry Lons and the other parties who were arrested in the Richelleu hotel, were continued until April 6.
