

BARNEY MCGINN SENTENCED

Penitentiary for Life for the Killing of Edward McKenna.

JUDGE THINKS IT MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE

Prisoner to Be Kept in Solitary Confinement on Every Anniversary of the Crime—Punishment for Other Offenders.

Barney McGinn will spend the balance of his days in the state penitentiary at Lincoln, at hard labor, with solitary confinement on each anniversary of the day on which he murdered Edward McKenna, July 29, 1893.

When court opened in the criminal branch yesterday, Judge Baker directed that McGinn be brought in for sentence. There were few persons in the court room, aside from the usual number of attorneys. Conspicuous among the few spectators were three members of the jury which found McGinn guilty of murder in the second degree.

When McGinn was brought into court he was made to stand before the bar. In reply to the usual question of whether he had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced, McGinn returned a simple negative. Judge Baker then addressed himself to the prisoner, speaking substantially as follows:

"Barney McGinn, on March 18, last, a jury found you guilty of murder in the second degree. You now state that you have nothing to say why sentence should not be pronounced upon you. In your trial you were defended by the ablest counsel in the state; you and they must admit that you were given a fair trial and were allowed every opportunity to prove your innocence. If you had found you guilty of murder in the first degree, it would have determined the punishment which should be inflicted upon you and I would thereby have been relieved of a most unpleasant duty.

"There is no doubt in my mind that a crime was committed; the only question is, in what spirit it was done. I cannot help but believe that the impulse which prompted the commission of the crime was not one which would constitute murder in the second degree. When Edward McKenna stepped into your car with packages in his hands containing provisions which he was carrying home to his wife and little ones, little did he think that, instead of going to a happy home, he was going to his grave. I have no doubt but that you stood there at that corner with murder in your heart, waiting for an opportunity to take him away from his home. I believe he did so because he wanted to avoid you. There is no doubt in my mind that McKenna heard the cooking of your revolver about the time you both passed the middle of the street. He was afraid to flee from you for fear you would shoot at him. You followed him across the street for the purpose of killing him.

EXCUSES FOR THE JURY.

"I can see that the jury recognized the fact that you are an old and a very irritable man. I can also see that the jury took into consideration that McKenna's statement to you, that 'they had got your hide,' (granting that your testimony on that point was true), excited you in a measure.

"You can thank your stars that the jury returned the verdict in the way that you can thank your counsel for defending you in the able manner in which they conducted the case, for under able direction you would not have escaped the gallows.

"I will read to you the full sentence of the court, so that you may see just what is in store for you. The sentence is as follows: 'The defendant, having been heretofore convicted of murder in the second degree, was this day brought into court in custody of the sheriff and informed by the court of the verdict of the jury, and inquired of if he had anything to say why judgment of the court should not be pronounced against him, and showing no good and sufficient cause why judgment should not be pronounced; it is therefore adjudged by the court that the said defendant, Barney McGinn, be imprisoned and confined in the penitentiary of the state of Nebraska and kept at hard labor for the period of his natural life, and that the costs of this prosecution, for which execution is awarded.

"I trust that on each anniversary of the day on which you committed the crime you will be repentant and sorrowful, and will consider the sorrowing woman you have widowed and the orphaned children whom you have deprived of a protector."

During the scabbing arraignment of the court, McGinn stood unmoved. He betrayed no emotion when sentence was pronounced, and walked steadily out of the court room to enter upon the sentence which removes him from the public gaze for the balance of his life.

MINOR OFFENDERS SENTENCED. After McGinn had been disposed of, Frank Devine was called up and was given thirty days in jail for petit larceny. Devine was charged with breaking into the store of Mike McDonald in the daytime and stealing a watch and chain valued at $15.50. The jury convicted him of petit larceny.

John Haske was the next man to be provided with a home free of charge. He was charged with grand larceny and was convicted in April, 1893. Haske stole clothes belonging to his roommate, who was making preparations for getting married. Haske disappeared and was captured in South Omaha the latter part of February of this year. The jury fixed the value of the property stolen at $128. He was sentenced to hard labor in the penitentiary for three years.

Jesse James, the negro who broke open a Union Pacific freight car and stole thirteen sacks of sugar, was called up and sentenced to suffer for the crime. The court gently informed Jesse that his story was awfully gaudy, in view of the evidence, and gave him five years in the penitentiary at hard labor to think up another story.

Harry Missawh, the colored boy who was charged with assisting Alice Smith in carving Joe Rodgers with a knife, and convicted of assault and battery, was given thirty days in jail.

Joseph Hoffman and George Confare, the two young men convicted of fixing a bicycle, the value of which was fixed by the jury at $30 in the face of evidence showing that it was nearly new and had cost $100, were brought up for sentence at their own request, they agreeing to waive all formalities as to time. Confare was given thirty days, while Hoffman fared somewhat harder, being sentenced to thirty days and also sentenced to pay the full costs of the case.

COOPER WAS GUILTY OF CONTEMPT. Ice Water Story Would Not Go with Judge Fawcett. Judge Fawcett returned to the city yesterday and summoned James Cooper to appear before him and show cause why he should not be fined for contempt of court in attending himself from court one whole day and delaying the proceedings of the court for that time. Cooper was a member of the Creighton club and failed to appear in court as adjourned until he could be found, which was not until the next morning, when he reappeared mysteriously and disappeared. He told the court a story about drinking some ice water, which made him sick, and the case proceeded without anything more being said.

Yesterday Cooper repeated his ice water story and had the physician who attended him to prove what he said. The court listened patiently and then informed Cooper that the sentence would be a light one. He was fined $25, the amount of jury fees for the day which he delayed the case, and he was allowed to go in peace.

BOLLS SEEKING FOR MORE TIME

Plea in Abatement is Taken Under Adjudication.

Henry Bolla was in the criminal branch of the district court yesterday for arraignment. Before he was arraigned his attorneys filed a motion asking for ten days further time to consider the information filed by the county attorney. In support of this motion the attorneys read affidavits of themselves and Bolla, setting forth that the information had been served upon the defendant at a late hour Thursday evening and the attorneys had not seen it until Friday morning, consequently, they alleged they had not had a reasonable time in which to consider the charges made in the information. In order to properly consider it they informed the court that it would be necessary for the county attorney to return a copy of the city treasurer regarding the charges made against the defendant, and such an examination would require several days.

Among the bills allowed were those of John W. Croft and Fred Hoyer for acting as the watch for George Morgan. They aggregated $157.

Charles F. Gilbert wanted admission to the Soldiers' and Sailors' home. The chairman was authorized to sign his application.

Kierstead submitted a verbal report on the Stryker incident. He said that the jewelry had been turned over by Stryker and properly accounted for. Several members objected to a verbal report and the committee will make a written report at the next meeting.

The bondsman of Adam Snyder asked permission to have an expert examine Snyder's books and for three months' time in which to make the examination. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

A resolution by Stenberg provided that the services of T. W. Hotchkiss as clerk at the county coal yard should be dispensed with. Jenkins objected and the resolution was referred.

Notice was served on the board that at a recent meeting of the eastern committee of the Western Passenger association it had been decided that no more reduced rates should be given for charity purposes. This took effect April 1, and applies to all transportation from Omaha to points on and east of the Missouri river.

W. A. Foster, justice of the peace in this city, was tried on complaint preferred by David Van Etten, an attorney, charged with charges of malfeasance, misfeasance, gross partiality and other offenses. The case was taken up at the morning session of the Board of County Commissioners, but nothing was done except to spar for wind, both sides consuming the time by arguments, charges and countercharges. At the afternoon session the matter was called up and the evidence heard. This showed that Van Etten had had a case before Justice Foster in which Charles Luce, the owner of a house at 2712 Farnam street, had commenced ejectment proceedings against Elizabeth Martin, who it was alleged, had occupied the house for over two years without paying rent or without having any right or title to the property. Foster was charged with having refused to allow a jury to be called in the case, without good reasons, and with having gross partiality in his rulings in the case.

Van Etten and Miss Rebecca Martin were the only witnesses on the part of the prosecution and Justice Foster was called upon to give evidence on the part of the defense. Van Etten persisted in offering objections to all questions put to Foster until the commissioners became disgusted. He was warned to desist, but continued, until Jenkins moved that the case be dismissed, urging as a reason that Van Etten had failed to substantiate a single charge. Kierstead and Hoctor supported Jenkins, while Williams insisted that both sides should be given all the chance they wanted in order to get at all the facts. A vote was taken and the motion to dismiss was carried, Stenberg and Williams voting against it, and the other three members voting for it.

SHE HAD THE CMBALL TO HERSELF. Courtesy of Miss Men on a Cross-Town Car. Women have been heard to declare that the Omaha man is a bear, so far as street car courtesy is concerned. But if some of them had seen an incident that occurred on a cross-town car just after 5 o'clock yesterday morning they would have concluded that for a fine conception of the deference due the fair sex the Omaha man could not be excelled.

There were nine passengers in the trailer. They were all men, and by common consent both doors were left open in order that they might enjoy the full benefit of the fresh morning air. The car had been cleaned before starting out, and when the train rounded the turn at Sixteenth and Cumming streets the interior was as bright and sweet as the April sunshine outside. This was its condition when it reached California street and a single woman mounted the rear platform. Although she could scarcely have taken a prize in a beauty show, she was stylishly dressed, and wore a pair of gold eye-glasses, through which she cast a supercilious glance at the nine masculines who inhabited the car. She entered and started to sit down. Then she glared scornfully at the other passengers, and with an air which seemed to say, "What business have you on earth anyhow?" went back to the platform, where she leaned on the rear railing and looked out the window. This was the case for some time, and the other passengers, who were all men, were left staring after her. They did not forget that they were gentlemen. With a fine courtesy, which must have been flattering to the woman on the case, she favored them with a most generous sentiment and left the car. Some went into the front car, while others stood on the platform. Since the new passenger wanted a seat, she herself had not allowed her to have it, and she entered and took a seat with the air of one who was born to reign and had only received what was her due.

OUR BROTHER DRUGGISTS. OMAHA, Neb., April 4, 1896. Gentlemen: January 1st, when I started to cut prices, I also tried to show to the people of Omaha the methods used by some of the leading drug stores in town—by paying office rents and percentages to certain physicians, never before, and stopping paying to me and have heartily approved of the stand I have taken. Now, as you have entered this fight with me, let's have a fair square open fight. Stop paying to physicians, who are a disgrace to the profession, a commission. Let the people take their prescriptions to the drug store they prefer. Never have I seen any so disgraced with such contemptible business. If you knock me out in this fight I am not the man to squeal—but remember you are not fighting a drug store that is covered with plaster. Yours truly,

Chas. H. Schaefer, Druggist, Cor. 16th and Chicago.

PROBLEM FOR COUNCIL TO SOLVE.

How to Provide Board of Health with Money is the Question.

There is likely to be a startling explosion some day when the manner in which the Board of Health is running its business comes officially before the city council. The council has passed an ordinance by which one sanitary inspector is provided for and the members who are responsible for the ordinance declare that one is amply sufficient to present. But the board has now three inspectors on duty, two of whom are drawing salaries.

According to a well known arrangement, there will be four inspectors on salary in another month. They started out with one inspector, as provided by ordinance. But Mayor Brewster had to give a job to Charles Johnson and now he has one more adherent to reward. In order to get his second man in he has to consent to the addition of still another inspector for other members of the board, and four inspectors is the result.

What effect this will have on the funds of the board is not difficult to estimate. At the beginning of the year the board did not have a dollar on hand. The levy for the health fund is expected to produce $5,144.06, according to the figures given by the comptroller. During the first three months of the year, with one sanitary inspector, the board spent $3,135.07, or a little more than $1,000 per month. With the additional expenses of the three extra inspectors this amount will last just four months longer and at the end of that time the board will have to go out of business or additional funds must be provided. This is the problem with which the council will have to deal, and, judging from the opinions expressed by some of the members, the Board of Health will get no more funds as long as its business is conducted according to the present plans.

DON'T NEGLECT.

A COMMON CASE OF PILES.

It May Lead to Serious Results.

When people generally understand that all such fatal diseases as fistula, ulcer of the rectum, fissures, etc., almost invariably begin in a simple case of piles, they will learn the wisdom of taking prompt treatment for the first appearance of the trouble in this quarter. The Pyramid Pile Cure will certainly cure every form of piles, itching, bleeding, protruding or blind piles, and hundreds of lives have been saved by using this cheap but effective remedy right at the start, because at such a time a single package will effect a cure, while in the old, chronic, deep-seated cases several packages are sometimes necessary before a lasting cure is effected.

Physicians are using the Pyramid Pile Cure in preference to surgical operations, and with uniform success. The remedy is prepared by the Pyramid Drug Co. of Detroit, Mich., and for sale by druggists everywhere.

This firm receives hundreds of testimonial letters from cured patients and publish a fresh list every week. This week we take pleasure in presenting the following from Mr. M. A. Wilson, Peabody, Kansas: "Your Pyramid Pile Cure received, and I have received more benefit from two applications than from all other medicines I have ever tried. It has been troubling me for over 30 years. They would come down every day and have to be worked back, but have not been down since the first application of the Pyramid. I am a convert to the merits of the Pyramid Pile Cure."

From C. D. Edgerton, attorney-at-law, Northfield, Minn.: "Send me two packages of your Pyramid Pile Cure. My father, who has had piles for 40 years, says your remedy is the best he has found, and he has tried everything."

From W. H. Goodman, Greenville, Texas: "Gentlemen—I have had wonderful relief from the Pyramid Pile Cure. I am a convert to the merits of the Pyramid Pile Cure. I have been waiting to see the result before writing, and I can honestly say I feel well of piles and feel under many obligations to you. Fresh letters will appear from all parts of the United States, all testifying to the wonderful effects which invariably result where this splendid remedy is used. It is the cheapest, safest and most effective pile remedy ever known. Send it to the people, and if you are subject to piles in any form, this remedy will remove them."

It is on sale at all drug stores at 50 cents. Each package contains a treatise on the cause and cure of piles, which will interest and benefit any one so afflicted.

PROBLEM FOR COUNCIL TO SOLVE.

How to Provide Board of Health with Money is the Question.

There is likely to be a startling explosion some day when the manner in which the Board of Health is running its business comes officially before the city council. The council has passed an ordinance by which one sanitary inspector is provided for and the members who are responsible for the ordinance declare that one is amply sufficient to present. But the board has now three inspectors on duty, two of whom are drawing salaries.

According to a well known arrangement, there will be four inspectors on salary in another month. They started out with one inspector, as provided by ordinance. But Mayor Brewster had to give a job to Charles Johnson and now he has one more adherent to reward. In order to get his second man in he has
