The smallest transaction The check, the witness testified, was drawn by Bolin January 7, 1895, in payment for a premium on his (Bolin's) life insurance policy which could be negotiated through the firm, the witness testified, was a deal for 5,000 and was cashed by the witness from city funds at the direction of Bolln. bushels of grain, as all business was at once placed on the Chicago Board of Trade.

This completed the direct examination and the cross-examination was taken up by Mr. Coulter testified that he had lived in Smaha fifteen years and had known Bolln about ten years. Regarding the two notes for $250 and the check for $1,000 given by Ed Wittig to Bolln, the witness said the ney they represented never came into the so far as he knew. Regarding the several memorandum checks which were charged to Bolln, it was attempted to show that the money these represented had simply been drawn out by Bolln for the purpose of depositing it in other banks. It was also attempted to show, in this connection, that representatives of local banks had importuned ooth Bolln and Coulter to increase their de posits and that these checks were for that purpose, but the court ruled out this line of

On redirect examination the witness testified that Bolin had instructed him that when his life insurance premiums came due during his (Bolin's) absence, to "take bank. care of it' and he would "fix it" after-ward. The check made payable to Edwards had been given to the witness by Edwards, who said that Bolin had given it to him in the back room and had told him to have Coulter cash it, and this was done, Bolin's check being held in the cash drawer and not deposited for collection.

DUMONT ON THE STAND. John H. Dumont, whol was appointed to fill Bolln's unexpired term as city treasurer, was the next witness. At the time the office was transferred to the witness he received from Bolln the sum of $221,705.69 in cash and in checks representing money in the various banks in the city, but not including $10,000 in the Midland State bank and $733.33 in the American Sayings bank, being the balance remaining on a certificate of deposit He also received from Bolln certain checks given by the Union Pacific in connection with the payment of damages on account of the Tenth street viaduct, bonds deposited by certain paving contractors on their contracts, and bends issued, but not sold. The witness did not receive the checks and memoranda carried in the cash drawer as cash and did not see them until some time the credit of any city fund, or fund of the after he had taken charge of the office, at school district. Wettling also testified that cash and did not see them until some time after he had taken charge of the office, at which time they were in the custody of Thomas Swobe and efforts were being made to collect them. After the witness had taken charge of the office there was paid in the midland State bank of funds of the Board of Education on December 15, 1892. The amount was kept on deposit at the bank paid in the midland State bank of funds of the Board of Education on December 15, 1892. A. G. Edwards, the present city treasurer, was the next witness. He testified that the treasurer's office had been turned over to him, but he didn't know whether he succeeded Dumcot or Bolln. He further testified that he made a formal demand upon Bolln at the latter's residence, January 30, 1896, by the authority of resolutions of the virtue of the authority of resolutions of the city council and Board of Education, dewas the next witness called. He testified to manding that he turn over at once all funds going to Hill's road house, north of the city. and other property in his possession and be-longing to the city or to the school district. In reply to this demand Bolin answered, "I cannot pay you, Mr. Edwards." Since the witness had been in office Bolin had paid him which were been bottles and glasses. The witness had been in office Bol'n had paid him $5, for which he had been given credit. Israel witness asked Bolln about the letter he had Frank had paid the witness $100 and had taken up a slip in the drawer and a Mrs. left in which he threatened to commit spicide

At first Bolln douled that he had left any such letter, but afterwards admitted having Hughes had paid in $35 for the same purpose to other money had been received by the witness on Bolln's account. The witness identified the check for $65, drawn to his order by Bolin, which had been testified to by Coulter. The check had been written by Bolln, who gave it to Coulter, telling him he "might as well pay the check and hold it." Coulter paid the witness the cash out of the cash drawer. Edwards testified that he did not have the check in his possession and did not endorse it. On cross-examination the witness testified that at the time he made the demand upon Bolln he understood that there was a shortage of about $115,000 in the account of th city, but knew nothing except what he had been told by the experts.

ALSTADT A DISAPPOINTMENT. William Alstaut, an employe in the treas-urer's office under Bolin, was the next witness, and he and the county attorney had a stormy scene. It developed during his ex-amination that he had told the county attorney in the latter's office last Saturday that he had frequently gone to the bank for money for Bolin, and that the latter would out quantities of the money thus obtained in his pocket and leave the office. He had said that this was city money and that no entry of its withdrawal or receipt in the office was ever made in the cash book, as he had watched to see. A stadt said that on the ranged from 20 to 30 cents per 100 pounds. The opinion is expressed by dealers that these prices will remain practically stationary through the season. They assert that it costs them as much to harvest a six-inch block of lee as one a foot or more in thickness, and, as the bulk of last winter's crop was not over six inches, it is necessary to double prices in order for them to make a reasonable profit.

Belle of Cathay." them as much to harvest a six-inch block of order for them to make a reasonable profit. They declare that they have not more than coough ice in storage to last until June 1, if the reason is warm, and that after that they will have to have their ice shipped in from northern Minnesota or Wisconstn. The retail prices will then be regulated by the cost of getting the ice here, but it is expected that it will not be less than the present rates.

This is the situation according to the posi-ion of the loemen, but others declare C. A. Sharp, president of the Midland State bank, identified three certificates of the dealers are putting up a job to obtain a big profit on their ice. A member of a firm that harvested a large quantity of ice last winter for its own use says that the claims of the icemen that only a small portion of a $1,000, issued by the bank to "Henry Bolln, of the icemen that only a small portion of a companies have enough ice in ments at Boyd's theater.
