BONDSMEN OFFER TO SETTLE Tender the School Board Seven Thousand Dollars for the Bolln Claim.

COVERS THE MIDLAND BANK DEPOSIT

Proposition Will Come Up for Final Action at a Meeting to Be Held Tuesday Evening Next_Condition of School Funds.

The bondsmen of Henry Bolin made a proposition to the Board of Education inst night to settle the suit brought by the board against them for $7,000. The proposition was referred to the finance committee, tion was referred to the finance committee, with instructions to report at an adjournel meeting next Tuesday night. The claim for a good deal of interest in the matter and inwhich this compromise is offered eccuiets of the $10,000 deposit in the Midland State bank and the amounts claimed as interest which Bolin had failed to turn over, and on account of funds received from permits morning of May 1. which had been turned into the city funds In accordance with the directions of the city council. The proposition of the brudsmen was presented by their attorney, E. J. Cornish, who declared that the board had no serious claim to the interest money or the funds received on account of permits. He also asserted that at the best $7,000 was all pital. that could be recovered, as the bondsmen had a counter claim for $3,000 which would certainly be recognized in the courts. This amount consisted of the license fees of Michael Wallenz and Moynihan & Moynihan, which were repaid by Bolin after the licenses had been revoked. Attorney Covell corroborated the statement of the attorney for the bondsmen and advised the board to accept the proposition. There was a long discussion, in which the There was a long discussion, in which the sentiment seemed to be generally in favor of accepting the proposition. Cramblet and others wanted to pass the resolution suggested by the bondsmen at once, but a ma-jority of the board insisted that it was to: important a matter to be so hastily ad-justed, and the consequence was the adjournment to next Tuesday night.

ENDS HER LIFE IN THE RIVER

the Jones Street Dump.

NO ONE NEAR ENOUGH TO RESCUE HER Had Been Frequenting the Neighborhood for Two Days, but No One is Able to Give a Description of Her. About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon som inknown woman, who is believed to have been a mulatto, plunged into the Missouri river at the Jones street dump and was ev idently drowned, her body being swept down the river. The only trace to her identity is a hat, which left her head when she struck A number of people were on the river bank at the time, but none of them can give a satisfactory description of the woman or even of her dress, One man, who disappeared after the officers arrived, sold he noticed the woman take the leap, but no one else appeared to have their eyes on her at the time. Officers followed the course this man was said to have taken, but did not find him. While Anton Pospisil did not see the woman jump, he saw her strike the water. He was in the middle of the river at the time in a sail boat. He hurried to the spot where the woman was struggling, but failed to arrive in time. He was, however, hardly a dozen feet away when she sank. He made an ineffectual effort to seize one of her her hands as it appeared above the river. After that the woman was not seen. Pospisil picked up a hat on the water, which had been torn from the woman's head. It was made of black straw material, consisting of a crown piece sunken in the middle, and of a rim, hardly an inch in the back, but widening out to the breadth of almost four inches in front. It was decorated with a few artificial sunflowers or daisies made of cloth. A bunch of these was pinned to the under rim of the hat on the right Pospisil says that the hand he almost suc ceeded in seizing was that of a mulatto, and that the woman was a light-colored mulatto. A crowd of boys, who were fishing 100 feet A clower of boys, who were hearing too feet south of the spot where the woman took the leap, also say she was colored. A man who is about the pound believes that she was white, but he is not certain. According to the statements made by the sitness who disappeared to bystanders the woman was sitting on the bank reading a paper, when she suddenly arose, looked al about her, and took the leap. The pound keeper says that he saw her sitting on the bank just a few minutes before, and intended to warn her that the bank on which she was itting was likely to fall beneath her weight into the river. The bank at this point is some ten feet high. Employes about the electric light works at the foot of Jones street and other men thereabout, state that the woman walked up and down the bank almost all of yesterday morning. It is said that she sat for ; couple of hours beneath the Union Pacific bridge. They are unable to describe her They say, however, that she was quite well dressed, and one goes so far as to say that her skirt was green in color.

The hat is at the police station to be identified. MAY BE MINNIE GENTRY. The police received word late last evening through a colored woman named Libbie Dean, living near Eleventh and Devenport streets, that she had reasons for believing that the woman who jumped into the river about 3 o'clock in the afternoon was Minnie Gentry. The Gentry woman, she said, had been an inmate of a house kept by Madam Praler on Lower Broadway in Council Bluffs or several months past. for several months part. Libble Dean says that yesterday morning Minnie Gentry called upon her and appeared very despondent. She said she had had a quarrel with her lover, Charles Long, that morning and that she intended to place herself out of his reach. About noon she left the house. Libble Dean identified the hat

This is Colonel Ingersoll's second visit to Omaha this season. In describing his style, a very able writer said: "While Colonel Ingereoil is not exactly what professionals would call an elecutionist, and he would probably object to the term himself, there are few trained appeakers who can compare with him as an exponent of this art in its entire range. Moving slowly on the stage, within a small area of the middle, the colonel is a picture of the self-possessed, deliberate speaker, giving to each sentence just propertion, life, vigor, zest and lucid ty. He keeps in close touch with the audience, and understands its degrees of responsive wess to the finest shade of its thought."

C is to know about it In the to years that Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets have been sold, hundreds of thousands of people have taken them, and have been cured by them. There is no longe any possible question of their efficacy They are the product of experience, tried by time. They are intended to cure con-stipation. They are good for men, wo-men and children. They are tiny, sugarcoated granules, very easy to take, very quick in their action. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, two "Pellets" a mild cathartic. A great many people make the mistake of "sandbagging" their digestive organs. They take some strong and violent medicine, which creates worse troubles than it cures. Strong purgatives shock the system unnecessar ly, and they do not cure constipation. Constipation is a thing that makes people listless and languid; makes their breath bad; wakes them up with foul taste in their mouths; puts black spots before their eyes; makes them dizzy; causes headache; makes them bilious; produces pimples and blotches-runs into all sorts of serious consequences. All this is cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pelletscured absolutely, perfectly, permanently

They are just as good and just as handsome and just as well made and trimmed as any suits you have ever seen marked $3.50 or $4.00, but we are able to sell this particular lot at $2.50 per Suit. They are double-breasted knee-pant Suits, in all ages from 4 to 14 years, and consist of Cheviots, Cassimeres and Worsteds in some of the prettiest patterns we have ever seen. Nothing but hard work and shrewd bargain-driving could have secured us these suits so that we could sell them for less than $3.00 to $3.25 apiece. It's a veritable feast for you.

at home and abroad, but they were disap cointed if they did, as Herr Xaver Scharwenka did not respond on the third encore to the second number on the program. There seemed to be somewhat of a cool ness between auditors and soloist; the reason must be left to conjecture; perhaps the audience wanted too much for their money and erhaps the soloist felt that his program vas long enough. However, to depart from the digression f so it be, Herr Scharwenka played a pro gram astonishing in its makeup, thorough in its conception and artistic in its interpretation. To cull any number as being the best would be a difficult task, but as the sculful gem of the evening, the Nachtstuck of Schumann was excellent, while the R'cor-danza and the "Tell" overture of Liszt were brilliant illustrations of the wonderful echnique of the artist.

In response to the applause accorded the latter he played Jensen's "Murmuring Zephyre," N eman's transcription, the only encore of the evening. It was an artistic gem, dainty, delicate and delightful. The audience might have been more enthusiastic over the composer's own the quadruple number, which terminated the program and displayed widely the unusual versatility of the writer.
