Earnest Discussion of the Subject by the Business Men's Association, with Suggestions of Plans to He Fullowed.

The Business Men's association of Council Bleff's held a long and rather spirited sesgion last evening. Matters of little interest were discussed and the regular weakly meeting promised to be a rather tame affair John Broadman, an Atlantic bo tlegger, has been held to the federal court grand jury by Commissioner Steadman. until the subject of department stores and trade was brought up, and then the interest grew quite warm. Every member felt he had a personal grievance against such establishments, and nearly all of the members took part in the discussion. The first part of the evening was devoted to talking about the advisibility of purwhich should be printed the mottor: "Stand the regiment. be obtained at a cost of from $12 to $15 per thousand. Samples from the makers were exhibited. The associations felt very favorably inclined toward the scheme, but the report of the committee was placed on file for future action.

The membership committee reported the accession of several members. John Gilbert was added to the committee to wait upon the local wholesalers for the purpose of the local wholesalers for the purpose of bringing them into closer touch with the retailers. The question of a permanent secre-tary was a so discussed, but action was deferred. The committee was ordered to report the name of a suitable person at the next meeting. Dr. J. I. Ferron sought to give the as-celation a touch of free silver vigor, and introduced a resolution which declared that the causes of business troubles was national and not local. It received no second, Mr. Wollman thought the association should do something to hold the retail trade at home, and introduced the department store evil. He advised the association to take some steps toward exposing the department stores' pretensions to do all the retail business in the county, S. S. Keller thought the best means to prevent the local trade going to Omaha was to do a little missionary work among the individuals of the purchasing public, showing them the advantages of home trading, and the dangers of continuing to spend their money abroal. He thought enough trade from Council Bluffa went to Omaha to maintain here another dry goods store, another furnitur: establishment and several other establishments. It is not the morehant and masufacturer aloas that suffered, said he, but it finally comes down to John Gilbert agreed, and instanced several cases where effective missionary work had been done. He said the cash question was involved in the discussion. The Council when they wanted credit. B. Cilinksy thought there were two sides

Stewart Omaha, where they earn their money and make their living. In an earnest way he pointed out several other things, among them the wretched condition of the paved strests. the shantles on the principal business thorhighfares.

The discussion reverted to the department stores, and an article severely attacking them was read, in which they were de-nounced as "the destructive stores." It was suggested that an organized campaign be commenced against them.
