to the receivers, not on account of the inability of the company to meet its obligations, but the neccessity of liquidating the business brought about by the death of Dudley M. Steele of St. Joseph, the largest stockholder in the company. It is the expectation the company will be reorganized and continue in business here.

The circular sent out by the receivers states the assets are far in excess of the liabilities and expresses the opinion all claims will be paid in full within sixty days and a large surplus left for distribution among the stockholders. There were no among the stockholders. There were no preferences in the assignment as none were necessary.

Mr. Steele, as stated, was the largest stockholder of the company and his holdings have become complicated with settlements at St. Joseph of his other business interests. The creditors of the local firm were not The creators of the local firm were not pressing them and the Merchants National bank, the largest creditor, addressed to the receivers a very complimentary note urging the reorganization of the company. The Steele-Smith company is one of the oldest firms in the city, having been in business here for twenty-five years and has al-ways done a large and profitable business, and but few of the complications arising out of Mr. Steele's death there would have been no thought of assignment. The firm was originally Steele & Johnson, then Steele & Co., and the firm name was changed to D. M. Steele & Co. Afterwards it was incorporated as the Steele-Smith company. There is every prospect that as soon as the business of the present company has been liquidated it will be reorganized and continue in business.

Local insurance agents were considerably surprised at the action of the city council in directing the city attorney to draft an ordinance compelling each company to pay a license fee for the privilege of being allowed to do business in the city. In all, about fifty companies are represented here. and they all protest against paying an occupation tax. The city attorney was busy yesterday afternoon looking up the law on the question preparatory to drawing the ordinance. Chapter ixxvii of the revised statutes, vides that no insurance company shall be subject to tax, fees or license, except taxes on real estate, and the fees imposed by section 32, which provides for fees for organiz-ing a company, etc. In the Twenty-fifth Nebraska, however, a decision of Judge Reece was found, in which he says that in-surance companies are liable to an occupation tax imposed by ordinance in cities of the second class and in villages. Taking it for granted that the decision of Judge Reese is good, the ordinance will be drawn as ordered by the council. It is not known yet what amount will be charged for a license, but probably not more than $25.

COMPLAINANTS TEAL TO APPEAR. County Commissioners Dismiss the

Charges Against Justice East. At a meeting of the county commissioner held yesterday the impeachment charges against Benjamin F. East, a justice of the peace, were called up for hearing. With one exception the complaining witnesses failed to appear and the one who did re spond to the summons knew nothing except from hearsay, not even being person-ally acquainted with East.

After hearing the testimony of a few wit nesses the county attorney rested and the defendant submitted the case on the show ing made by the prosecution. The board dismissed the charges by a unanimous vote. In making the motion to dismiss Commissloner Jenkins severely scored the com-plainants for filing charges and taking up the time of the board and then making no effort to substantiate them,

Before the case against East was taken up the board held a short business se and passed upon a miscellaneous lot of claims

The board will sit as a board of equalization for the purpose of passing on the assess-ment of Douglas county for 1896, beginning Tuesday, June 9, at 10 o'clock a. m. and continuing from day to day up to and in-cluding June 20. The county clerk was instructed to cause a notice of such sitting o be published.
