

MINOR MENTION.

The Grand Hotel, Council Bluffs. High class in every respect. Rates, $2.50 per day and upward. E. F. Clarke, proprietor.

Colonel J. St. Edmund delivered the Memorial day address at Coon Rapids. He returned home on the late train Saturday evening.

The base ball game between the Athletics and the Hayden Bros. billed for yesterday afternoon was postponed on account of rain and the wet condition of the grounds.

The colored nine played the Socialist club on the latter's diamond, Seventh street and Twentieth avenue, yesterday, resulting in a victory for the Socialists, the score standing 23 to 6.

The Workmen's Friendly club will meet in its new quarters, a full court room, at 8 o'clock this evening. A police attorney will probably be the first to appear, etc., will doubtless be "hot stuff."

It is reported that the gale which blew intermittently yesterday morning did considerable damage to the city. The wind came in squalls with force enough to break the boughs of shade trees in town, but at the lake it was much heavier.

The Women's Protective association will hold its regular devotional and hospital meeting at the home of Mrs. Sarah Rohrer this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. As this meeting will probably be the final one, an earnest adjournment, an earnest invitation is given to all members to be present.

The meeting called by the grievance committee of the Friendly club at 8 o'clock last evening was not so much in evidence as to impede pedestrians or street car traffic, either throughout. Newspaper reporters, police officers, and curious onlookers were plentiful, however, but none of them succeeded in capturing the grievances or grievers.

Deputy Sheriff J. M. Lane of Avoca arrived in the city Saturday evening in charge Mrs. Cora E. Pardee, nee Stone, wife of Edwin Pardee, formerly of this city. She is suffering from insanity caused by nervous prostration. She will be committed to the city building. It is probable that the boy will be sent to the reform school, and Mrs. Pardee will have a sixty pound antineuralgic bicycle as the price for the expenditure of her money.

Dr. J. H. Cleaver, Charles Benav and A. S. Hazelton, representing the Merchants' and Manufacturers' association, the Business Men's association and the Bar association of this city, have been appointed to wait on the officers of the motor company to ascertain what transportation facilities they can furnish to the citizens of Council Bluffs on some afternoon and evening while they are in annual session in Omaha.

Extra Pay for Letter Carriers. The Council Bluffs letter carriers are about $4,000 richer now than they were a few days ago. The payment of their claims for overtime in delivering mail after the eight hour law went into effect have been made. The amounts were only about half of the original claims, but when getting nothing they are all thoroughly satisfied. The complete list is as follows:

Table listing names and amounts for letter carriers: Charles N. W. Watts, $62.22; Edwin S. McCarty, $23.77; Frank C. Crook, $24.79; Thomas F. DeGroot, $25.15; George Hamilton, $25.15; Andrew Follett, $25.15; Anthony B. Klein, $25.15; Samuel Leonard, $25.15; George Madison, $25.15; Fred Meyer, $25.15; Will R. Hue, $25.15; Hiram Sloss, $25.15; John W. Williams, $25.15; David R. Witter, $25.15; Thomas G. Allison, $25.15.

Were Stopped at South Omaha. Fred Young and Walter Stepperson, two boys 10 years old, started yesterday to leave home for good without the consent or knowledge of their parents. San Francisco was their objective point, although the four ultimately contemplated a trip around the world. They reached South Omaha during the afternoon and fell in with a curious but kind-hearted policeman, who drew from them their story and then chased them back home with a sharp stick. They were given permits to stay in the South Omaha calaboose or sleeping in their own beds at home and chose the latter, walking the greater part of the distance.

Sewer Pipe, Fire Brick, Belting. Wholesale and retail. J. C. Bixby, 202 Main street.

Hoffman's Fancy Patent No. 4 makes the best and most bread. Ask your grocer for it.

An Omaha Woman Hurt. Mrs. Charles Busch of Omaha accompanied her husband to Council Bluffs yesterday morning for the purpose of attending the German Catholic church and visiting relatives. On her way to the church she slipped and fell. Her husband assisted her to arise, but she was unable to stand. A hack was called and she was taken to the home of her brother-in-law, a man named Astmus, on Knepner street. A physician was called and an examination showed that she had severely wrenched her knee and ruptured one of the ligaments.

Housekeepers are in despair when they visit the Durfee Furniture company. All the new things are so handsome and so cheap that they want the whole store.

We Do the Framing! Our prices are right. Our goods will please you. Light Guards Marksmen.

Four members of the Dodge Light Guards left last evening for Cedar Rapids for the purpose of taking part in the state shooting tournament. They were the four members of the company having the highest score in the rifle practice. The members were Sergeants Van Arman and Moore and Privates Baldwin and Morgan. They will be absent until Friday. Van Arman has made a score of 23 out of possible 25 and held the score during the spring rifle practice. The scores of the other members of the party ranged between 18 and 23.

Met the Late Cyclone. Mrs. McDowell and her daughter, Miss Martyn, who left Council Bluffs to reside with Charles McDowell, their son and brother-in-law, in Louisiana, had some pretty rough experiences in the late cyclone. Mrs. McDowell has written to her daughter here, Mrs. A. T. Ellwell, that their house was badly shattered by the roof taken off, but that all of the members of the family escaped without injury.

Baldwin to Present Allison. By an N. Baldwin has been accorded the duty of presenting the name of Hon. William B. Allison to the republican convention for the consideration of the delegates at the honor was conferred upon Mr. Baldwin without solicitation by himself or friends, and in so doing he is a personal friend of the senator.

We offer you only clean, crisp, snow white laundry work and best delivery service at Eagle Laundry, 724 Broadway, Telephone 157.

Wall paper cleaned, new process, with patent right at Miller's, 108 Main street.

Will Court-Martial Mothers. The Dodge Light Guards have determined to court-martial Elmer Mathers, the young man who was court-martialed in a sergeant in the High school cadets and wear a pretty uniform and carry an empty gun than to be a soldier by under command of the state. Court-martial may mean dismissal from service.

Pastorage, L. P. Judson, 929 Sixth ave. Dava, drugs, paints and glass; tel. 289.

For Assaulting a Boy. Emil Droelich has filed an information charging M. Seltzman with having committed a violent assault upon his 6-year-old son, Seltzman was arrested Saturday afternoon. He will have a hearing in Walker's court this morning.

Water pressure filters, $3. Stephan Bros. Dr. Cleaver's office moved to 600 Broadway.

FORFENDING TWENTY DOLLARS

Boy Who Located a Bonanza in Trouble With the Police.

HE BOUGHT A BICYCLE WITH MONEY

Memorley Fuller Locked Up for Spending Money That Belonged to Mrs. Cook, Who Had Lost the Bill.

Memorley Fuller, a 14-year-old boy who has been frequently before the police judge on various charges, was locked up yesterday afternoon charged with the larceny of $20. The money belonged to Mrs. Cook, living on Scott street, and it was either stolen from her house or was lost in the yard of the house on Tuesday. She notified the police of the loss and described the money as a $20 silver certificate. The officers ascertained that young Fuller had presented a bill answering the description to the cashier of the State Savings bank Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of getting it changed. A little further inquiry showed that the boy had purchased an old bicycle from some second-hand dealer in Omaha for $25. He was questioned and finally admitted that he had found a $20 bill near Broadway, and that he had appropriated the money and threw the pocketbook into Indian creek. He said he had used all of the money to buy a bicycle, which he had taken to the Omaha police judge assessed against him for riding his wheel upon the sidewalk.

The boy and the wheel were taken to the city building. It is probable that the boy will be sent to the reform school, and Mrs. Cook will have a sixty pound antineuralgic bicycle as the price for the expenditure of her money.

MEMORIAL DAY AMONG THE DEAF. Pupils of the Iowa State School Have Observed the Day.

Decorations day at the Iowa School for the Deaf was observed in a twofold manner. In the morning, after appropriate exercises in the chapel under the direction of Principal Wyckoff, the line was formed and the pupils marched to the little cemetery, in which are interred nine little children who have been deaf since their birth. The graves were beautifully decorated with wreaths and choice flowers. At 2 o'clock occurred the annual day exercises under the management of Superintendent Henry W. Rothel, as president of the day. I. N. Flickinger, A. T. Flickinger and Miss F. Edly, assisted by Gibson Whitmer, Rosa Gifford, Charles Schaaf and Clara Edly. The institution and lawn were very prettily decorated with flags and each child wore the red, white and blue. The program opened with a very fine Bar Bell drill by the boys and girls. In the throwing of the "medicine ball," after a prolonged struggle, Walter Fuikerson of Bellevue was successful in downing the nine other boys who composed the gymnasium. Three girls gave a very pretty exhibition at accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

Accurate throwing at the mark, a tree some fifty feet away. The contest was finally won by Miss Carrie Scott, a tuition pupil from Breckenridge, Mo. The balance of the program and winners was as follows:

SAWYER'S BEAUTIFUL SENTIMENT

One of the Oratorical Gems of Decoration Day Exercises.

The brief oration delivered by Prof. H. W. Sawyer at Fairview cemetery on Memorial day was one of the finest gems of the many that were given to the people during the exercises.

"This is the most sacred, the most hallowed day of all the year—the day on which Americans meet to commemorate the deeds of their heroes and to recall the suffering and death of their sacred dead; the day on which human thought goes back through the dim vista of receding time to revive the bloody panorama of rebellion; the day on which the sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

"They sleep their last sleep, they are free from all. They heed not, they hear not, they have no more to do with the world. No sound can wake them to glory again. Liberty weeps for her martyrs today, but they live in the hearts and affections of a free and noble people. The sunbeams of glory, mother, sister or sweetheart, shine brightly about our hearts that hold her precious dead, or the heart goes out on the wings of memory to a silent, hallowed spot where she sleeps in her warm, genial skin of the sunny south. Beneath the cool mists of the earth, she lies in her sweet, untroubled slumber and lost in the fierce conflict of battle.

MORGAN FEARS ABSOLUTISM

Congress Has Practically Ceased to Be a Factor in the Government.

NO ACTION REGARDING CUBA NOW LIKELY

Senator from Alabama Declares a Proclamation of Belligerency by the President Would Be a Dangerous Usurpation of Power.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Senator Morgan of the committee on foreign relations and author of the joint resolution recognizing the existence of a state of war in Cuba, and declaring the neutrality of the United States, was asked today concerning the probability of securing action upon the resolution before adjournment, and in reply said: "Unless the house should act upon Mr. Hyde's resolution, which is identical with the resolution offered by me in the senate that is now held in the committee on foreign relations, congress will probably disperse before any further action is possible. That responsibility will doubtless hasten the dispersion of some senators. The disposition of the majority of the senate committee is to do so upon the president a responsibility that he is evidently eager to assume. Congress has practically ceased to be a factor in the government, except in the case of a veto, when the constitution gives it the right to alter a law already voted. Even this function is denied when it is applied to our foreign political relations. For a government with three co-ordinate departments, of which the executive is the most important, and movement toward establishing the prerogative in the hands of our executive as an uncontrollable power. If any British country were to do this, it would be regarded as a revolution of 1776. It is not the duty of the crown. If the president, acting alone, can substitute the entire body of the law upon the president a responsibility that he is evidently eager to assume. Congress has practically ceased to be a factor in the government, except in the case of a veto, when the constitution gives it the right to alter a law already voted. Even this function is denied when it is applied to our foreign political relations. For a government with three co-ordinate departments, of which the executive is the most important, and movement toward establishing the prerogative in the hands of our executive as an uncontrollable power. If any British country were to do this, it would be regarded as a revolution of 1776. It is not the duty of the crown. If the president, acting alone, can substitute the entire body of the law upon the president a responsibility that he is evidently eager to assume. Congress has practically ceased to be a factor in the government, except in the case of a veto, when the constitution gives it the right to alter a law already voted. Even this function is denied when it is applied to our foreign political relations. For a government with three co-ordinate departments, of which the executive is the most important, and movement toward establishing the prerogative in the hands of our executive as an uncontrollable power. If any British country were to do this, it would be regarded as a revolution of 1776. It is not the duty of the crown. If the president, acting alone, can substitute the entire body of the law upon the president a responsibility that he is evidently eager to assume. Congress has practically ceased to be a factor in the government, except in the case of a veto, when the constitution gives it the right to alter a law already voted. Even this function is denied when it is applied to our foreign political relations. For a government with three co-ordinate departments, of which the executive is the most important, and movement toward establishing the prerogative in the hands of our executive as an uncontrollable power. If any British country were to do this, it would be regarded as a revolution of 1776. It is not the duty of the crown. If the president, acting alone, can substitute the entire body of the law upon the president a responsibility that he is evidently eager to assume. Congress has practically ceased to be a factor in the government, except in the case of a veto, when the constitution gives it the right to alter a law already voted. Even this function is denied when it is applied to our foreign political relations. For a government with three co-ordinate departments, of which the executive is the most important, and movement toward establishing the prerogative in the hands of our executive as an uncontrollable power. If any British country were to do this, it would be regarded as a revolution of 1776. It is not the duty of the crown. If the president, acting alone, can substitute the entire body of the law upon the president a responsibility that he is evidently eager to assume. Congress has practically ceased to be a factor in the government, except in the case of a veto, when the constitution gives it the right to alter a law already voted. Even this function is denied when it is applied to our foreign political relations. For a government with three co-ordinate departments, of which the executive is the most important, and movement toward establishing the prerogative in the hands of our executive as an uncontrollable power. If any British country were to do this, it would be regarded as a revolution of 1776. It is not the duty of the crown. If the president, acting alone, can substitute the entire body of the law upon the president a responsibility that he is evidently eager to assume. Congress has practically ceased to be a factor in the government, except in the case of a veto, when the constitution gives it the right to alter a law already voted. Even this function is denied when it is applied to our foreign political relations. For a government with three co-ordinate departments, of which the executive is the most important, and movement toward establishing the prerogative in the hands of our executive as an uncontrollable power. If any British country were to do this, it would be regarded as a revolution of 1776. It is not the duty of the crown. If the president, acting alone, can substitute the entire body of the law upon the president a responsibility that he is evidently eager to assume. Congress has practically ceased to be a factor in the government, except in the case of