On this particular evening the captain had brought home half a dozen brother officers to help entertain his wife's guests. They were scattered about the room, chatting gayly with the young ladies, and all of them more or less jealous of Lieutenant Roberi Brighton, who was the lion of the hour, because he had only just returned from his first long cruise, and being one of the fortunate few who know just how to look and say the unutterable things that are sure to make one a favorite with the fair sex, they petted him until he was in a fair way of being spoiled, as he had rather a good opinion of himself and knew his own morits in spite of pretended modesty.

UNCLE SAM'S SOLDIERS.

Pending Bills in Congress_Veterans Going on the Shelf. The days of possible military legislation at this season of congress are almost numbered, writes a correspondent of the New York Sun Such attention as has been given to this subject has been largely devoted hitherto to pension, premotion, restoration, or relief bills, and others affecting individuals. Secretary Lamont's bills for the reorganization of the ne of the army, and for the improvement of the militia, will both and outre inprovement of to the next session. Ss, probably, will Senator Sewell's bill to increase the pay of non-commissioned offi-cers; for, althrugh it passed the senate easily danger of getting into the fire. Aftor making soveral attempts, the men declared the only way they could save the people who were softly, looking down into her eyes with a ment by the house. A bill providing that ment by the house. A bill providing that the removal of a charge of desertion by an act of congress shall be followed by an bonorable discharge has been unfavorably re-without being hurt, but they were builty frightened. "Thirking the last of the passengers and sallors were eately carried to the plip, we were horror stricken to see on the upper derk of the vessel a white-haired old man, standing with his arm around the shoulders of a young girl. He seemed to be urging hor to jump to save herself, and she was as firmly refusing to move. One of the sall-ors whom we bad picked up, said. 'Oh, that's the captain and his daughter. Miss Allne, he can't jump, and the girl won't leave him. They have no one else in this world;

The captain broke his leg this morning, so his can't jump, and the girl won't leave him. They have no one else in this world; just them two,' continued the sailor, 'and they'il die game, for the young haly's got plenty of pluck, as well as the captain.' "Before the man had finished talking, Commander Ried had drawn his cap over him alongside the fated bcat. "You can't go to them now," the rest of us said. "I shall do it or perish in the attempt. 1 meritorious services, re-collisted as a pr vate in the Sixteenth infantry in 1866, was made a first sergeant and after a few weeks a second Heutenant. He has a good record as a duty officer. Colonel J. C. Tidball, retired, formerly colonel of the First artillery, points out, in a letter to General Breekenridge, the interesting fact that the chevron now worn point Jownward in our army was worn, up to some time in the fifties, point upward, as it is still by the West Point cadots and the Marine corps. What is more striking, he cannot find any record or reason for the change, so that he attributes it to whim. But, if so, it must have been a whim founded, as he thinks, on most unfortunate ignorance, be-cause the chevron represents the rafters of an edifice, and so denotes advancement by good work, such as a soldier achieves when promoted from the ranks, whereas its inver-sion logically implies some unworthy dead or disgrace. "The eagles upon the choulders of a colonel," says Colonel Tidball, "denote his rank, but with their heads turned backward they would have a disreputable s gnification. So it is with the inverted chevron. This is high authority, and doubtless more will be heard in regard to the matter.

Mr. Cameron's bill in the senate sllows a stirement on three-fourths pay to any enisted man who has served thirty years in the army, navy or marine corps, computing double time for active service in war. Mr. Curtis's bill provides for a modification in the summary court system of the army. The enlisted man is to be brought before a court, consisting of an officer designated' by the commanding officer of the post or command or by superior authority and the command of by superior exceed hard labor for a month, with the forfeiture of a month's pay, and also, in the case of non-commis-sioned officers, reduction to the ranks. The latter may be tried instead, if they desire, before higher courts, unless forbidden by an officer competent to order that trial by general court martial. All sentences are to be approved before execution by the post or other efficer, and there are additional provisions in the bill. The new act, making national military parks available for military maneuvers of the regulars and the state forces, authorizes the secretary of war to send into camp for military instruction "such portion of the milthat forces of the United States as he may think best," within the limits of appropriations available for that purpose. The camp at the Nashville exposition, under Coionel Guy V. Henry, will be a fine one, compris-ing, as it does, four troops of cavalry with band, from Jeffergon barracks; six companies of infantry with band, from Fort Me-Pherson, and four companies of infantry

The new rules for practice with the magazine rifle this year omit company skirmush firing and increase individual practice, and then limit the vol ey firing to the amount of ammunition remaining available. The figure of merit has been abolished. Colonel Bates, Lieutenant Colonel Wikoff and Lieutenan Maus, all infantry officers, constitute the board. The new drill regulations, to be compiled under General Ruger's superin-tendence, will hardly be ready for use this year, although the revisions for the artillery and cavalry are said to have been completed, those of the infantry alone remaining. Although the new papler-mache bullets for blank cartridges do not give good results if they become moist, they do no well when dry and are so theap that an effort will be made

RAPID PAPER MAKING.

A Chunk of Timber Converted Into a Newspaper in Short Order. How rapid strides the manufacture of paper has recently taken in Germany will best be Hlustrated by the following report by the Grafenauer (Bavaria) Anzelger: On April 17, 1896, an experiment was undertaken at the paper mill of Eisenthai, near Grafenau, to determine the time taken to convert wood, at that time standing in the forest, into paper, at the same time producing a newspaper complete and ready for mailing. Notary Bott, in Grafenau, records ing a newspaper mailing. Notary Bott, in Grafenau, records the following appertaining to the matter: "I proceeded, accompanied by two manu-facturers, Arthur and Curt Menzel, to the facturers, Arthur and Curt Menzel, to the state forest, eituated near Frauenberg, elese by the paper mill. There, at 7.35 in the morning, three trees were cut down and con-veyed to the paper mill. Here the trees were cut into short pieces by a circular saw, deprived of their outer bark by another ma-desirived of thoir outer bark by another ma-chine and split by a splitting machine. The wood was then sent to the planishing mill, where five machines were in rendiness to receive it. After this had been done, it was given to another machine, which, in conjunc-tion with other material, prepared it for the paper machine proper. This process com-pleted, the fluid matter contained in afore-mentioned machine was put in an iron vat mentioned machine was put in an iron vat, and then the paper machine began to op-crate. At 9:34 I received the first perfect sheat of paper, completing the process from hewing the trees in the wood to the pres-entation of the first complete sheet in one
