Yale's Presence at Henley Serves to Start the Sneers at American Methods Anew and Threatens Further Scandal.

Convright, 1896, by Press Publishing Company.) LONDON, June 20 .- (New York World Cablegram-Special Telegram.)-The complete collapse of the government over its educathat the unexpected always happens in dissipated in a few months. The Unionist party is in a far worse state of disorganization at the present moment than was the home rule party before the disastrous general election. This result is largely due to Arthur Balfour's careless, resourceless leadership. Time has been squandered on useless or damaging legislation projects, and course, the ministry is obliged to make the wholesale sacrifice of the most important measure, the educational bill, in order to save from destruction two less important measures, so as to avoid an utterly barren session. The government fluds itself comtemptuously presented by Sir William Vernon Harcourt. Mr. Balfour is expected to make on Monday a statement as to the government's plans for the remainder of the session, which promise to be the most humiliating confession of failure any party being crushed and despised, has become almost the arbiter of the parliamentary situa-

Mr. Lecky, the great historian, has already had a terrible experience in Parliament, from which it was thought he would reap fresh laurels. A leading liberal member asked him last evening what he thinks of the House of Commons, and how he likes being there? Mr. Lecky replied mournfully. "It was the greatest mistake of my life ever to have entered Parliament. I am lost here. I have no weight with the House; in fact, the only useful function I appear to serve is really comical, and they have stirred up all visit of the Massachusetts company. He has club. The following advertisement has been last an American naval doctor married : lady of Swiss nationality at Brighton and has recently disappeared. Any information respecting him will be thankfully received by Frances Howes, 3 Abchurchyard, London." From inquiry made by a representative of the World it seems that the naval doctor last summer was in Switzerland, where he became friendly with a Swiss family and paid marked attention to one of the daughters of the house, a young, very handsome girl. Her parents did not approve of the attentions, though the doctor seemed to have plenty of money, because he was rather mysterious about his antecedents He left Switzerland and shortly afterward prevailed upon the young lady to come over to Brighton, which she did with a woman companion. After a time he induced her to marry him and for six months they ley's nomination on a gold platform was relived very happily there. He disappeared some weeks ago and it seems that a short time before he did so his money was ex-

IT WAS AN INSULT. Despite all excuses of sporting papers and despite the denials of the fairer-minded sportsmen of this country, there is no get-Yacht Racing association in visiting Howard Gould's yacht was as gress an insult as was ever offered a stranger within the English gates. It emphasizes what I have often said in this correspondence, that no foreigner, and especially no American, can expect decent treatment in sporting matters here. If the contest at Henley next month does not end in some unpleasant complication the Americans living in London will be agreeably surprised. I tried to make clear in a recent letter to the World the causes of this continual unfair treatment of foreigners. It is proper to say that the mass of the English people have no sympathy for this incivility and denounce it. It seems confined to a small class, but a class that virtually controls amateur sport here. In the case of Lord Dunraven's disproved charges against Defender almost every English daily newspaper, William Waldorf Astor's Pall Mail Gazette being the chief exception, denounced case the daily press has for some reason ing press has been practically unanimous criticising the impropriety and injustice of the Yacht Racing association's action.

FURTHER SCANDAL EXPECTED.

It will be a pleasant novelty if Yale's struggle at Henley does not end with a scandal. It is hoped, for the sake of our self-respect, the contest will be the last of its kind for many years. It must not be forgotten Lord Dunraven was elected vice president of the Royal association almost immediately following his charge against our sporting integrity.

As to Yale's chances, there is quite a change in tone of comments in the sporting olumns of the English press. With every SPORTING SPLEEN BREAKS OUT AGAIN fresh practice, the tone of depreciation has been modified, and now at the end of a week it is generally admitted the visitors will be very formidable opponents. The Trinity Hall men are practically the same that beat Cornell last year. BALLARD SMITH.
