ENGINEER DEAD AT HIS POST

Starting Situation for a Train Load of Passengers.

THEIR PILOT KILLED WHILE ON DUTY

Drifting Fast Mail Runs Across the Mississippi River Bridge with the Thrust in a Dead Man's Hand.

BURLINGTON, Ia., June 20.—(Special Telegram.)—When the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy fast mail thundered across the Little Rock bottom from Biggsview to this city this morning a dead man was in the engineer's seat at the head of a corpse that was at the throttle. The train was moving fifty miles an hour when it reached the Mississippi river bridge. Instead of stopping to signal the draw, as the rules require, the engine dashed right on the bridge. It had been closed but a moment, a steamer having just gone through. Fireman Sam Main, frightened, jumped around the end of the long boiler that was raked from him from behind the engineer, and found Engineer V. H. Giddings had just died. A horrible crash in his forehead. Nothing is known about how he was killed, but it is supposed a missile was thrown into the cab. Had the train been two minutes sooner it would have gone through the draw. The fireman stopped the train in time to prevent a collision in the Burlington yards.

Charles Irregularities at the Jail. There will be a little matinee at Judge Smith's court on Wednesday morning, at which an investigation will be made into some sensational charges made against the management of the county attorney in the trial of the case of the State of Iowa against Frank Jackson, charged with the killing of "Texas" Baker.

Yesterday morning, in the course of his argument for the defense, Attorney Smith crossed the county attorney's witness stand, the charge direct and emphatic that John Webster, who had been brought from the penitentiary to testify for the state, had been allowed to have been and whiskey in his cell and had been visited by women, who had been allowed to spend the night with him. Mr. Simms was very emphatic in his statement that Mr. Saunders, the county attorney, and challenged him to an investigation. Mr. Saunders had nothing to say at the time, and the charge created a sensation. After Mr. Simms had completed his talk County Attorney Saunders asked the court to order an investigation of the charges, and Judge Smith on Wednesday morning for the investigation.

All of the employees of the sheriff's office deny any knowledge of the charges made by Mr. Simms, and they have all signed a vindicate themselves when the hearing is held.

Arranging a Ratification. A large number of working republicans responded to the call to meet last evening in the office of Sims & Bainbridge for the purpose of arranging a ratification meeting to endorse the nomination of McKinley and organize a ticket for the coming election. The meeting was held at 7 o'clock, and was presided over by J. P. Flinn, who was in the chair. After some discussion it was decided to have one of Council Bluffs' big ratification meetings on the evening of July 3. The character of the demonstration will be determined by committees that were appointed for the purpose. The following gentlemen were named for the various committees:

Executive Committee—W. E. Bainbridge, I. M. Treynor, C. G. Saunders, L. B. Cousin, William Shepley and W. T. Phillips.

Marching Club Committee—Thomas Clark, Frank Compton, Dr. Treynor, T. L. Moore, Ernest Cook.

Committee on Organization McKinley club—A. S. Hazelton, W. F. Sapp, C. S. Hubbard, George S. Wright, J. W. Forrier.

Chairman Thomas Clark has called a meeting of the marching club for Monday evening at the sheriff's office in the county court house. All wishing to join the club are requested to be present.

When the young woman left Council Bluffs after the sensational disclosures made public through the press it was with the avowed intention that she was not to return until she had cleared up the charges that had been made against her. The following letter from St. Paul, Minn., who has taken a deep interest in the case, explains why she returned, and will increase the sympathy created by her pitiable condition when she reached the home of her husband's father. Immediately after the receipt of the letter Mr. Pryor telegraphed his wife to return at once. The letter was directed to Mr. Pryor at St. Paul, Minn., and read as follows:

"Dear Sir: I am in receipt of your esteemed favor of the 12th inst. and have carefully read the same. Yes, I am familiar with all of the charges made against Helen by this fellow, and believe them all to be the wild imaginings of an insane man. You can see that I do not write you to keep me away from her, holding himself out as a guardian. You speak of receiving a letter from him; have you not received one from him? I have not. There was one made in the presence of Mr. Gardner and Mr. Crane as notary public, and I was told that Mr. Gardner would send the same to you. I have not received it. The matter placed before the grand jury of Hennepin county, and I have no doubt but that you can be indicted for this. I am a dog does his master. I would not take his word, but he knows if he makes a false affidavit that he will be held in contempt of court. I have no doubt but that you will be held in contempt of court. I am in a situation to be able to do so with advantage, as I am the state manager of the Probate and Escheat department, and I have been in every state and principal city. I have been corresponding with the clerk of the surrogate court in Syracuse, where I am a good friend of mine, and I expect to find out in a few days past 4, and I am obliged to go to Minneapolis on this matter, and cannot write more now; will write in a few days and tell you all I know. I want to find out who is behind this matter, and if you will accompany me, I expect her in the office momentarily.

POINTS FOR A HUSBAND. "Now, you must indulge me. I make some observations on a third party, and in a way disinterested. I can look at the situation just as the world would. You loved Helen, and she made her yards. If that love was true, you should not believe her guilty until she was proven so. You, who loved her, ought to lead with her. It is not my business to have a friend's interest. But, look at it for a moment. You have been more severe than even the law. The law believes a man innocent until he is proven guilty. You have believed Helen guilty and asked her to prove her innocence. Is it fair? Could you not do as much as the law? I am not a lawyer, but I am a man of sense, and I believe by competent evidence? I, who am as a brother, believe her innocent, and I shall continue to believe her innocent until she is proven guilty. Will you feel when she is acquitted? Will you feel that you have done the right thing to have turned your wife over to the world, which she has almost proved to be a man who set no price upon virtue and honor? A young wife, almost a relative, has been taken from you, and you have believed her guilty and asked her to prove her innocence. Is it fair? Could you not do as much as the law? I am not a lawyer, but I am a man of sense, and I believe by competent evidence? I, who am as a brother, believe her innocent, and I shall continue to believe her innocent until she is proven guilty. Will you feel when she is acquitted? Will you feel that you have done the right thing to have turned your wife over to the world, which she has almost proved to be a man who set no price upon virtue and honor? A young wife, almost a relative, has been taken from you, and you have believed her guilty and asked her to prove her innocence. Is it fair? Could you not do as much as the law? I am not a lawyer, but I am a man of sense, and I believe by competent evidence? I, who am as a brother, believe her innocent, and I shall continue to believe her innocent until she is proven guilty.
