NEY'S EXECUTION.

Absurd Attempts to Prove that Marshul Ney Escaped to America.
"A Family Record of Ney's Execution," written by Mme. Campan, is contributed to the July Century by a relative of this lady, George Clinton Genet of Greenbush, N. Y.
Mr. Genet, in a preparatory note, says: An absurd attempt has been made recently to prove in a published volume that Ney was not shot in 1815, but escaped to America and became a schoolmaster in North Carolina, where he lately died. An alleged facsimile of his writings of the old French

There was a certainty that a break would follow to some candidate, and the Byers men were hopeful. The chairman of the Montgomery delegation asked permission to with draw for a conference. He said the action | Carolina is inconceivable. Ney was offered an opportunity to escape, but refused. He asked the soldiers to fire at his heart, and they did. Moreover, at the time when it is claimed that Ney was concealing himself in North Carolina, Joseph Bonaparte was living at Bordentown, and his house and his fortune would have been at Ney's disposal. Moreover, after the fall of the Bourbons there would have been no reason why Ney should not have returned to France. Bending Every Energy to Reach the Three Score Entombed Miners, WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 1.-The situation at the Twin shaft tonight remains un changed. The drilling which has been going on from the Clearspring colliery the foot of the Twin shaft was completed this afternoon and a large body of gas was found. The officials have abandoned the idea of tunneling, as the men would have to travel 2,500 feet to reach the point where the victims are thought to have been when the cave-in occurred and this route s much further than the one the rescuers are now working on. No event of the century has affected humanity so widely and so intimately as that crowning triumph of medical science which Sir Benjamin Richardson calls the "mastery of pain." The been of anaesthe sia, says the Boston Herald, extends far beyond the demain of steam engine telegraph, and touches the individual mo losely than anything in the world, when his hour of suffering comes, as it may n the popular view, anaesthesia mean of the superior merits of other substances People know that dentists use "gas," and some may have heard of other, or even of dehloride of methylene; but the household word is chloroform. Fifty years of usage has given it an unassailable position, an if a new anaesthetic were to displace ! tomorrow the old name would probat Vice President Stevenson arrived in the city today. if a new amaesthetic were to displace it tomorrow the old name would probably remain. Yet chloroform was not the first annesthetic discovered, nor is it so much used in the present day as its less famous predecessors. The early history of this great discovery, as of many others, is debatable ground, but certain facts have been clearly established.

The first chemical agent found to possess the property of producing insensibility by inhalation, and used for that purpose, was nitrous oxide, more familiarly known as "laughing" gas, or simply "gas," It is still considered the safest, and is administered every day to thousands of patients, not only for dental purposes but, in conjunction with ether, for geleral surgery. To Priestley belongs the honor of identifying it chemically, to Sir Humphrey Davy that of expounding its anaesthetic properties. He found them out by experimenting on himself, and suggested their practical application in these words; "As nitrous oxide, in its extensive operation, appears capable of destroying physical pain, it may probably be used with advantage during surgical operations in which no great effusion of blood takes place." If any one deserves to be called the father of amaesthesia it is Sir Humphrey Davy. But-the surgeons of the day, whether from blindness, timidity or prejudice, appear to have missed the significance of his announcement altogether, for, though the words just quoted were published in the year 1800, no practical use of the gas was attempted until 1844, and then the initiative can for a marginal pain of the properties. In that year a Connecticut dentist

"He is opposed to strikes," said Mr. Sov-ereign, as we are all when they can be avoided, and advises the labor people to adjust their grievances by exerting their influence at the polls. We do not object to In that year a Connecticut dentist named Horace Wells submitted himself to the ordeal, and had a tooth extracted under the influence of nitrous oxide. The next step was the introduction of other, and the credit of this also belongs to America. It lies between two Boston gentlemen, named Morton and Jackson; but some attempt was made to keep the discovery a secret for commercial reasons, the only result of which was to bury the facts in obscurity and to Ceptive the real discoverer of the honor that more straightforward conduct would have secured to him. The secret was immediately detected by Dr. Rigelow and sent over to England, where the leading surgeons of the day-Liston, Lawrence and Fergusson—took it up at once in their hospital practice. Sir Benjamin Richardson has described in the most graphic manner how the good news came to Glasgow, where he was studying at the time, and how great was the excitement in the profession. Ether, the second anaesthetic in priority, is still the second also in point of safety and in the favor of the anaesthetists at the present time. ECKELS HOPES TO STEM THE TIDE. Gladness Comes With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper ef-forts-gentle efforts-pleasant effortsrightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of siekness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condi-tion of the system, which the pleasant family laxative. Syrup of Figs. promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine arti-ele, which is manufactured by the Califormia Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxutives of other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely assdand gives most general satisfaction.
