Each alderman was conscious of the fact taht he was poising as a monument of patience and good nature last evening while listening to the petitions and protests that not, however, evenly divided. Three written protests Judge were filed, bearing the names of twelve a run for it. on the street. T. J. Evans sent in a protest of his own addressed to the mayor and the O'Rell at third. council, in which he said:

"Sometime ago I gave my verbal consent that a strip of paving eighteen or twenty feet wide in the center of the street in front of my property might be removed, provided the place from which the blocks were so removed, was filled to the top of the paving with dirt and cinders, and all to be done without expense to me. I now notify you that my removal is hereby withdrawn. vised from a report of your proceedings that you have authorized the removal of the entire payement. This action on your part is unauthorized by me, and I hereby protest against the same and notify that I will hold you responsible for any damages resulting from such action."

This remonstrance was ordered with the others to be received and placed on file. Then the council asked the citizens present to express their feelings freely. There was out more than a baker's dozen present, and out few of them had anything to say. Bland Rishton, who runs a grocery store near Streetsville, was positive that 90 per cent of the property owners along the street were in favor of the removal of the blocks from one end to the other. The only people found who were opposing it to any great extent were the drivers of the Omaha & council Bluffs Transfer company. their big freight wagons had worn out the pavement more than all others, and as the company had not contributed a cent toward building the street or maintaining it they should not have very much to say ctor on the Union Pacific, and leaves a bout the matter. F. H. Keys of Keys Bros.' carriage fac-tory strongly objected to the removal of all wife and one child. He was a resident of the blocks, and called attention to the fact that his company and the Plano Manufacturing company were perhaps the most constant users of the street. He believed that if the blocks were all removed that it would work irreparable injury to their business by making it impossible for their wagons to making it impossible for their wagons to reach the depots with large loads. He was in favor of the experiment being made tak-ing up one-half of the pavement for the benefit of those who demanded the original dirt road, and leaving the blocks on the other half for those who required a firmer road for heavy traffic.

E. F. Wagner of Omaha, who owns considerable property on the street, strongly favored the plan of removing all the blocks and using the sand and gravel underneath the paying for a top dressing for the center. M. F. Rohrer thought it was the most important thing the council had been called upon to consider during the year, and argued against hasty action. He thought the only feasible plan was to take up the strip in the center and make a good roadway of it by the use of gravel, earth and cinders. He thought the motor company and the county commissioners would be willing to bear part of the cost if this was done. Broadway, he said, was the old called upon with perfect propriety to as-sist in making it passable. He assured the council that endless litigation would follow if the whole street was uncovered. J. C. DeHaven thought the key note was to be found in the suggestion to improve a small portion of the street at a time, and that portion should be a driveway in the center. Rather than to have the entire street laid bare he would be willing to pay all the expense of filling the center strip in front of his property, which is a distance of 150 eet. The removal of the blocks would cause the destruction of the curbing, the eventual referred to the time before the street was paved when for twenty years the street meandered among the sunflowers all over the bottoms like Lousy creek. If the blocks were torn out it would be a step backward and in a short time the street would be in ts old condition of absolute impassability n bad weather.

City Engineer Tostevin was called for and gave a strong talk in favor of the center strip. That could be made at small ex-pense a suitable driveway for light vehicles and the heavy traffic in bad weather. He though the proposition was a compromise measure that the council could not afford to moval of all the blocks had their innings, and left the council pretty much in the same situation as at the start. sussion the fact was disclosed that the people who were most willing to see the blocks taken up believed that within two years the thoroughfare could be declared a boulevard and paved at the expense of the city, and that this work could be done before the exposition opened.

When the discussions were terminated the council decided to make a further investigation into the condition of the streets, and for the purpose agreed to adjourn until Monday morning at 9:30, when they would investigate as a committee of the whole and then meet again in a special session in the evening and take final action.

Blumenstein served out his time, but Newton took advantage of an opportunity to escape when there were still nine days of his term unexpired. He remained away from the city for some time, and upon his return the police overlooked the fact that he was a fugitive from justice. While the two young fellows were in jail Henry De Long started an investigation that disclosed the fact that both the men, although married, were living with a family named Parkhill on Avenue A. In the Parkhill family were eight daughters, the eldest under 20 and the youngest under 10. With the assistance of State Agent Sala of the Or-phans' home at Des Moines De Long suc-ceeded in inducing the mother to give up three of the younger girls, and they were sent to the state institution.

Yesterday the police learned that Newton had returned to the city and was staying at the Parkhill place, 2015 Avenue A. The patrol wagon was sent after him and he was brought in to serve out the remaining part of his sentence.

A little investigation after Newton's ar-rest yesterday showed that the Parkhill family is about as depraved as it is pos-sible to imagine. The woman is the widow of a Union Pacific engineer who lost his life in the discharge of his duty, and she has been receiving $40 a month from the company since the case was settled. For a year or more Newton and Blumenstein have been "boarding" with the family. At the present time there are several illegitimate children in the house. One daughter of 17 has been lying at the point of death for some time as the result of childbirth, and another daughter between 12 and 13 is soon to be come a mother. Victory for the Older Club.

STRONG TEAM TO VISIT CHICAGO

Thirteen Players Leave Tonight and Tomorrow to take part in the Tournament in the Windy City -Yesterday's Scores.

For the third time this senson the Omaha Cricket club yesterday defeated the Gate City aggregation, this time on the first innings by forty-nine runs. The wicket was essentially a bowler's

one. The ground was in fine condition, but owing to the recent rains was a trifle soft, and toward the end of the game got cousiderably cut up. Captain Neale of the Gate Citys won the toss and sent his opponents to the bat, a questionable proceeding, in the face of such a wicket, and deeldedly in favor of the Omahas. Harry New and Will Vaughan were on the defensive, and Bowers and Neale set the ball rolling. Harry, after scoring 12 for a merry innings, was clean bowled by Neale, and then Taylor and his partner made things very lively, putting together no less than 36 runs before they were separated, Taylor playing a careful 14. George Vaughan did not stay long enough to see the ball, but Richelieu joined Will Vaughan, and again the score increased steadily until Will, after making a fine hard hit of 18, was dismissed by Robb. Richelieu played in his old form and gave the fielders lots of work for his careful 18. The balance of the team did not make any great stand, the innings closing for 93, of which 18 were extras.

The bowling was good, but the general cam work was not up to the usual standard of the Gate Citys' who were somewhat handicapped by the absence of two of their regular players.

Bowers and J. Stribling started the batting for their side, while the Vaughan brothers trundled the leather. Neale and Will Stribling were the only two to make any kind of a stand, scoring 11 and 7. Several players, in their anxiety to steal runs, sacrificed either their own or partner's wicket. Will and George Vaughan bowled well, and with good backing up in the field did not require any assistance from other bowlers, but between them took seven wickets With forty minutes to play till time, the Omahas again took the bat to the same bowling as before. Five wickets were disposed of for 13 runs, owing to the rather bumpy state of the ground and the good powling, but when Captain Lawrie and George Vaughan got together they played careful game and carried out the o the call of time for 8 and 12, with the otal of 37 for 5 wickets.

Thus have the Omahas taken three straight games from their opponents this season, the last one the mose decisive of all. Umpires Hill and Lawrence rendered decisions that were eminently fair and impartial and gave general satisfaction. OMAHA, FIRST INNINGS.

BOWLING ANALYSIS. Omaha, first innings: Overs, Mdns. Runs. Wkts. Overs. Mdns. Runs, Witts. Overs, Mdns. Runs. Wkts.

The team which vesterday beat the Gate Citys will take part during this week in the cricket tournament at Chicago, and Charles thill and T. D. Stewart will accompany them, thus allowing two reserve men in case of emergencies. Captain Lawric, Harry New and J. Douglas leave for Chicago this evening, and the others will follow tomorrow evening. The first game will be played on Tuesday. The teams to be met during the tourna-ment are St. Paul, Winnipeg and All Chi-cago. The Omaha boys are not doing much crowing as yet, but they do not expect to come out at the bottom of the list. They have almost the best team the Omaha club, by itself, can produce, and they think they can do some winning.

Weeping Water, Coglizer, Barry and Stoner.
The same teams will meet at Weeping Water Friday.
