STEAMSHIPS AND RAILROADS TO COMBINE

They Propose to Control the Entire Ocean Trade and that Without the Interference of the Outsiders.

Edward Davis, general manager of the Allan Freight, Passenger and Royal Mall lines; J. Francis Lee, district freight and passenger agent of the Canadian Pacific, and S. A. Bent, traveling passenger agent of the latter road, form a trio of railroaders who came into the city from Chicago yesterday morning. They are en route to Ogden on a regular trip, and will spend the next month along the Overland route.

In speaking of the steamship business to a Bee reporter, Mr. Davis said: "Steamships circles are enlivened these days by the campaign that we have just inaugurated against what are known as the middlemen. The middlemen whose trail we are on at present are the New York brokers who have grown wealthy from funds that properly belong to the railroad and the steamship companies. For years they have been buildozing both the railroads and the steamship lines, but I think their days are num-

"It seems almost incredible, but it is a fact that these middlemen have been able to secure better rates from the railroads than we could. They have gone from one steamship company to another, forcing them to meet reductions and kept the rates down to a point where there has been no money in them for anyone save the brokers. They have done the same thing with the railroads. For instance a broker would have a party of 200. He would come along and get con-trol of fifty more passengers who were coming into the country by one of our steamships. With control of these 350 he could go to the railroads and secure considerably lower rates than I could for the party of fifty. He has traded back and forth ng the ratiroads and the steamship lines until he has grown to be a powerful factor. The middlemen have all made money; many of them have put away fortunes in the past few years. Some of those in New York make over $10,000 a year, and I have four in mind now whose yearly income is nearer $20,000 each. There is one who owns and enjoys a most elegant castle in Holland.

"The middleman has long been a barnacle.
He has destroyed business for both the railroads and the steamship lines, and he has about driven out of business the regular steamship agents in cities throughout the United States. This he has accomplished by a well-organized corps of agents, generally saloon keepers and small grocers.

"Not only have they played havoc with regular rates, but they helped to bring in an undesirable class of immigrants," added Mr. Lee of the Canadian Pacific. "The brokers have been so crazy for business that they started over any and all kinds of people. It has never occurred to them to inquire whether the passengers they gathered on the other side would make good citizens for Canada and the United States. The railroads desire as heartly as do the steamship lines the weeding out of the middleman.

There was an important meeting on this matter in New York City Tuesday," con-tinued Mr. Davis. "We are going to have united Mr. Davis. We are going to have united action on the part of all the eastern trunk lines, all the Atlantic steamship lines, and the Southern Pacific and the Canadian Pacific railroads.—In steamship circles we have what is known as the North Attactic conference, and in it are repre-sented all steamship lines. This is the or-ganization that called Tuesday's meeting. Chairman Caldwell of the Western Passen-ger association, which includes all your western roads, went on to attend the meeting. The railroads are desirous of co-operat-ing in this matter. They want to deal di-rectly with us, and I am sure the steamship companies prefer to deal directly with them. There is no earthly reason why an outsider should be able to go to a railroad and secure a better rate for a party than can the steamship line which brings the ran the steamship line which brings the party into this country.

"The North Atlantic conference has drawn up a set of rules covering the case quite fully. They will become effective at once, and I feel positive that they will have the desired effect. In the steamship business, you must understand, there are three seasons. The first is the fall season for outward passengers, then in the early spring there is the prepaid season which brings in plenty of immigrants, and following this is the regular summer tourist business. Our design is to put the new rules that debar the middlemen from transactions between railroad and steamship companies into operation at once, so that they will have their effect on the eastbound business of the coming fall season.

CHEAP RATES TO THE STATE FAIR.

Union Pacific Suggests the Price from All Nebraska Points.

To help swell the attendance at the coming state fair the Union Pacific has suggested to the Western Passenger association that all railroads in Nebraska be permitted to make a $5 blanket rate from Nebraska be taken, and the decision as to the matter will soon be announced. It's a bet of two to one, or of United States against Mexican dollars, that the proposition will be turned dowr by the association and that the Union Pacific will then declare its inten-the Union Pacific will then declare its intention to put in the blanket rate of $5 anyway.

The granting of a blanket rate of $5 means that everyone in the state of Nebraska can on Tuesday and Wednesday of state fair week come into Omaha and return home for $5, or less. Where the regular one-fare rate to Omaha is less than $5 the former will be good for the round trip. That Strike at Laramie. The Laramie papers are filled with accounts of a strike among the Union Pacific bollermakers at that place. According to the report, all the boilermakers have walked out because one of their fellows had been asked to work at nights on an arrangement that was unsatisfactory. As there are exactly four boilermakers employed at the Laramic shops no great concern over the matter is felt at local headquarters, though for a divorce was filed yesterday morning. Gunder and his Mary were united in the holy bonds of wedlock in the beautiful month of May, 1896. The dearest wish of Gunder's heart, according to his petition, was that his home might be made a place of sweet repose from the trials and troubles of the busy world, but his fondest hopes were wrecked within a few days after the wedding ceremony had been performed. He informs the court that immediately after the wedding his beloved wife exhibited a cross, spiteful and morose disposition which previous acquaintance had not indicated. She took advantage of every opportunity, so he alleges, to abuse, vilify and maltreat him, and went so far as to strike him in the face with her fist. Instead of being a haven of rest, he says his home was a place to be shunned.

LEARNS MUCH AFTER MARRIAGE Gunder Gunderson Discovers His Wife

All of these actions, Gunder alleges, were entirely without provocation on his part, as he had made every effort to gratify the slightest wish, expressed or implied, of his bride, and had dutifully poured into her lap on every pay day the wages received for his daily toil, besides paying debts contracted by his wife before their marriage. In return for his devotion he says she charged him with being untrue to her and accused him of associating with women of the lowest class, all of which he denies.

The petitioner informs the court that patience ceased to be a virtue on August 11, this year, when his wife viciously assaulted him with a large glass bowl, which she hurled at his head. He dodged the heavy missile, but was struck on the hand, the bowl wounding that member and cutting a wrested it from her grasp, and she then picked up a chisel and made an assault out of some weeds in Gove county, Kansas, and wandered on the railroad track. A train came along and killed the child. That's the reason Mr. Ure will get the $3,000.

Judge Cornish also recommended the payment of $400 to Edward H. Scott, the judgment being the result of one of the Deager. the husband was explaining the situation, the wife appeared at the door and heaved a brick at him. He dodged the missile and purchased.

In the case of Philip D. Dunn, who wanted $300 from the receivers of the Union Pacific on account of another Denver Pacific refund case, the master decided against Dunn. He recommended that the judgment be not paid, as such payment would be inconsistent with a recent decision of the court of appeals covering the legal intricacies of the matter.

SCOTT KNOCKED COMPLETELY OUT.

Lou Goldsmith Hit Him on the Head Robert Scott, a fisherman living in Council Bluffs, who peddles his goods on this side of the river occasionally, went into Gold-smith's saloon, Ninth and Capitol avenue, last evening and engaged in a game of pool Gunder Gunderson of South Omaha has with a chance acquaintance. Scott had been drinking during the afternoon and was in applied to the courts to protect him from a fit rumor to stir up trouble. His newhis better half, Mary. His petition asking found friend, who was a sickly individual. beat him the first game, and then Scott pro-posed to thrash him in order to get even. Words ensued and the proprietor of the lace ordered him out. Scott did not comply, but kept up his threats, and at length attempted to assault the man.

Lou Goldsmith, son of the proprietor, interfered at this point and escorted Scott to the door. A fight ensued, in which Scott was badly worsted by being knocked sense-less with a club in the hands of Goldsmith. Both parties were placed under arrest and upon arrival at the jail it was found that Scott was more seriously injured than at first suspected. Half an hour's work brought him to consciousness, but he seemed dazed as the result of a number of hard blows administered on the head with the club. Later in the evening Scott had intervals of complete consciousness, in which he gave portions of his side of the affair. He admitted he had been in the wrong, but main-tained he had been brutally handled. Goldsmith was locked up on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder.

JAMES DAVISON INVITED TO CALL. Small Fortune in England is Being Held for Him.

James Davison, formerly of Hartlepool Durham county, England, and later in the employ of the Union Pacific railway, should hustle to the front, establish his identity sign a few documents and secure several hundred dollars that are awaiting him. Philip E. Burrough, British vice consul at Kansas City, says the money is waiting for Davison in England and that the holders of it are getting tired of waiting for the proper wner of it to declare himself.
The vice consul says that Davison was living in Omaha only a few months ago and was employed by the Union Pacific, but a search through the headquarters and the shops for the man proved fruitless. A num-ber of men were found who declared their willingness to adopt the name of James Davison for the sake of getting the money in question, but the vice consul is of the opinion that this wouldn't be according to the rules of the game. John E. Davidson, a clerk in the office of the auditor of disbursements, Union Pacific, had palpitation of the heart when he heard of the re-semblance between his own name and that of the man wanted, but he got over it and gave up the dream when he learned that Davison came from England. He says that he wouldn't change his nationality folittle thing like a few hundred dollars.

TROUBLE FOR JA SON-IN-LAW.

Marriage Does Note End the Trinls of Richard Bevency. Mrs. Margaret Tierney is a mother-in-law, not of her own free will and consent, but despite her protests. What all this means Richard Deveney is about to find out. Mrs. Tierney has undertaken to give ONCE | Deveney a pointer or stwo on the subject and has taken a legal method of procedure to make the instruction effective. She appeared in police court yesterday morning and swore out an information against her son-in-law, charging him with the crime of perjury.

Last spring, at Mrs. Tierney's home in Council Bluffs, Mrs. Tierney's daughter, Agnes, and Deveney were often seen in each other's company. The tongues of the neighbor: began to wag and it was remarked that a cousin of Tierney's already had captured the heart of one of Mrs. Tierney's captured the heart of one of Mrs. Tierney's daughters. Mrs. Tierney also observed conduct which did not please her, and forbade Deveney the right to use her front porch. Agnes was still in that period of life known as "sweet sixteen" and contrived to see Deveney more or less, and this in spite of the fact that a woman named Nora Warren had started a replevin action in fustice court to recover divers rings and started. justice court to recover divers rings and amulets which Deveney had obtained from her. The ardent love of this young miss would not permit her to throw overboard the choice of her affections, although in the course of the replevin suit she was forced to yield up to the custody of the law the rings which her lover had placed upon her fingers, and the brooch which he swore should be hers. The Warren woman re-covered these articles, but the happy pair stole over to Ommha and called on Judge Baxter of the county court for a permit to enter the bonds of wedlack. It became necessary to make the customary cath as to age, which Deveney did, and the two were married on the spot, hurrying away to South Omaha to spend a short honeymoon at the former home of the Deve-ncys. In a few days Deveney and his bride moved to Missouri Valley, where he began to settle down and view the serious side of life and try his luck as a painter. Mrs. Tierney got track of the runaway couple and tried to open up a correspondence. She sent money to her daughter and tried to induce her to confide her woes to her mother. for from what she had seen of Deveney she was sure that there were woes innumerable in the neighborhood of the young couple. She even made a visit to the home of her son-in-law, where she states that her ception was as cold as an Arctic breeze. She also became convinced that her daughter and Mrs. Tierney says she could not find that her son-in-law was inclined to toil, as rates from Omaha August 24th, good for that her son-in-law was inclined to toil, as return passage until and including August painters are supposed to do. This settled matters, and on returning home she had Assistant County Attorney Winters file a complaint for perjury, averring that Deve ney knew when he obtained a license or May 6 last that his affianced was six days short of being 17 years old. She says there will be trouble on Deveney's hands as soon as an officer can reach him.

TRIPS TO OMAHA ARE EXPENSIVE. St. Louis Man Who Pays Dearly for His Fan.

Charles Beerman, a tailor from St. Louis, arrived in Omaha yesterday afternoon and proceeded to enjoy himself after his own fashion. He had about $800 on his person $600 in checks and valuable papers and $200 in cash. Beerman visited a number of resorts where liquids pare dispensed and made many new friends. The last he re-members distinctly of his doings was of riding on the North Twentieth street motor line with a suave person whose name he is unable to recall. He next awoke in a down town hotel without a cent in his pocket. The pocketbook, containing a portion of the valuable papers, were picked up under a mail box near Tenth and Dodge streets last night, but the money is a minus quantity. Boerman visited this city a few months ago in quest of a good time. He uncarthed colored man on that occasion whom he es-corted to a roof garden and proclaimed him "beer king." The festivities were a pro-"freight" he found he had paid $80 for the fun, the greater portion of the cash disappearing with the "king." He says he will give Omaha a wide berth hereafter.
