TWO CHICAGO TEAMS ARE THE WINNERS

Brilliant Volleying and Smashing in Waldner-Carver Haskell-Young Contest Condee and Hardy in a Lobbing Match.

There was plenty of good tennia to be seen yesterday afternoon on the grounds of the Omaha Lawn Tennis club. Four matches in the interstate tourney were played, two doubles and two singles, and in them apeared the cracks of the tournament. The six Chicago men were all in the games and against three of them were arrayed about as good tennis material as Omaha can produce. Omaha talent went down in the contest, but it was only through hard playing that it was defeated.

The matches were witnessed by one of the best and biggest audiences that has ever surrounded the Harney street courts. The attendance included a considerable number of fair devotees who move in Omaha's higher social circles. That they as well as their male companions appreciated the excellent play that was presented before them was evidenced by the frequent applause that greeted brilliant plays. Unfortunately there were among the crowd some individuals unsportsmanlike enough to hoot when misplays were made by the visitors, especially when Waidner falled in his terrific smashes.

Interest was pretty evenly divided between the matches, but possibly the greatest atten-tion was paid to the doubles match between Haskell and Young and Carver and Waldner. The easy defeat of Austin and Cullingham, looked upon as Omaha's crack team, by the latter pair, tended to inspire the local devotees with a desire to see Omaha make a better showing. The wish was in a sense fulfilled, for the local pair certainly put up stronger game than the other couple that had met the Chicagoans,

As in the other game the visitors won largely through their team work. Each knew where the other was throughout the match and each was confident that the other would hold up his end properly. It was different with the local men. There were times in the match when both Young and Haskell allowed balls to pass which one expected the other to take and as a consequence the point was lost. This occurred with altogether too much frequency. There was another element that tended to defeat and that was brought out by the play of not only Carver and Waldner, but of the other Chicago players. The local men do not play enough of an aggressive game. A feature of all the Chicago men's play is their smashing, whenever oppor-tunity offers. Balls which local men would sent gently over the net the Chicagoans invariably drive with all their force and with success.

WAIDNER AT HIS BEST. Waldner put up the excellent game that his smashes. He drove the ball with a force that made a return almost impossible Moreover, his placing at all times was good. Moreover, his placing at all times was good. He sent fewer balls into the net and out of court than his partner, who, however, was also mest excellent in his placing. This individual play was rounded out by their team work and "head" work. They skillfully varied their returns, making them slow, or hard or swift, in a way that sur-prised their opponents frequently.

Individually, the local men were not far distanced by the visitors. Their volleys were good and their placing excellent. Lut they failed to use brains enough. The Cht-cagoans seemed to know where the ball was coming. Then, too, the Omaha pair lobbed from too near the net, and such balls were eaten up with gusto, especially by Waldner. Their lack of combination 's due to the fact that they have played little

All in all, however, the local pair put up | 3-6, 6-1, 6-0. All in all, however, the local pair put of a better game than Austin and Cullingham. They lost the first set easily, but for a time it appeared as if they would capture the second. The set was at one time 2-0 in their favor. Then the Chicagoans got a game, and then the Omaha pair one. From that point the visitors settled down to and won out in five straight games. The third set was also a rather close one. The score of the match is as follows: First set:

Waldner and Carver 0 3 1 7 3 4 4 4 4 6 36 Young and Haskell .. 4 5 4 5 5 2 1 1 1 4 32

Watdner and Carver ... 4 2 5 6 4 3 1 4 5-34 6 Young and Haskell ... 1 4 3 4 2 5 4 0 3-26 CONDEE AND HARDY LOB.

The other doubles match was between two for their older and more experienced op- fight to Ryan because he had taken the agments. That the score was as close as gressive was is ascribed to the fact that both crowd, Anderson and Condee played Hardy more than they did Bond, the latter being con-sidered the stronger man of the team. However that may be. Hardy certainly main-tained his end of the game throughout. The contest was replete with rallies of high lobbing, principally between Condee and Hardy. Bond was enabled to come in once in awhite and he responded with some of his fierce strckes. The team work of both teams was at times rather loose, and in this regard Condee and Anderson seemed to have the best of it. The match was replete with brilliant railies. Hardy and Bond finally won by a score of 1-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3. Both teams are members of the mighty Kenwood Country club of Chicago. Condce is but 17 year of age, and his partner is only a few years older. The lobbing game, with the aim of tiring out their op was probably the only chance the

The singles matches did not attract as much attention, possibly, as the doubles. In these also cracks were arrayed against cracks. Cullingham and Hopkins, two of the best local men, were up against Bond and Carver, who are looked upon as being topnotchers in Chicago. It must be confessed that the showing the Omaha men made was something disappointing. Carver played most excellent tennis, it is

ne, and his game was particularly marked his nice placing, but for all that it seemed as if Hopkins should have reached some of the balls. He made no effort frequently where there was a good chance for a return Altogether his play was far more careless than he had shown before in the tourna-ment. In the second set he seemed to take a brace and played with more vim. It was his opportunity, for Carver was evidently becoming fatigued and his balls began to drop into the net and go outside. The score was once 3-all; but Carver again played with force and Hopkins again seemed to become discouraged. In fact the latter's play throughout appeared to be that of a man who did not expect to win. The score of the match was as follows:

Second set:

CULLINGHAM OUTCLASSED. Cullingham also failed to put up as goo game as was expected against Houd to latter played a game that was evidently a surprise to the local men. He had been in the habit of running up against whom he did not need to lob against.

a consequence he had gained custom of staying by the because he felt confident of venting passes on account of the slow-ness of his usual opponents. Blond, how-ever, would not drop into such a style of ever, would not drop into such a style of play. He was fierce, quick and hard in his strokes. Thus it was that whon Cullingham was forced to the back of his court he lobbed short and such halls Bond at up. When Cullingham tried his luck at the net Bond was so quick and fast in his volleying that his passes were frequent. This style evidently made Cullingham nervous throughout. A feature of the match vous throughout. A feature of the match was the fierce nature of Bond's service. He made a number of points on his service ball

In the first set he made 28 points to Cull-

Ingham's 20, and in the second 25 to Cull-ingham's 10. But two matches in the singles were played in the morning and neither was of especial interest. Farnsworth, the Grand Island lad, ran up against Con Young, and was easily defeated in two straight love sets. Farnsworth played a very good game, as he has been doing all along, but Young's hard drives, which he put in with exceptional force, rather disconcerted the little fellow, who was more badly handicapped by fellow, who was more badly handicapped by a nasty blister on his hand.

The Haverstick-Condee match resulted in favor of the latter by a score of 6-1, 7-5. Haverstick was once more handicapped by his sore hand, and yet he played as hard as he could. Condee showed what he could do in the first set and then let up a trifle in the second. In this the score was at one time 5-3 in Haverstick's favor, but from that time the Chicago boy pulled himself. that time the Chicago boy pulled himself together again and won out. It was intended to play the Carver-Hopkins match in the morning. Hopkins was on the courts, but his opponent failed to put in an appearance, and consequently the game was postponed until the afternoon.

MATCHES FOR TODAY. Wynne Carver and L. H. Waldner will meet in singles this morning. Without doubt this will be the finest exhibition of the singles game during the week. It will begin at 10:30, and will be the best of three sets. In Chicago the two men are ranked about equal, with Carver probably slightly in the lead. His game is more sure than Waidner's, but Waidner's is the more bril-liant. Each of them is at his best in the doubles game, and when they meet in sin-gles all the western tennis world will watch the result. It will be a contest between the Chicago Tennis club and its young and powerful rival, the Kenwood

Country club, with its 400 members, W. D. Bond should have no difficulty in defeating R. H. Spencer. The winners of these two contests will play in the semifinals tomorrow morning. Carver or Waidner with Condee, and Bond or Spencer with

This afternoon the final round of the oubles between Carver and Waidner on the one side and Bond and Hardy on the other should draw out the largest crowd of the tournament. Each of the teams showed yesterday what they were capable of, but Bond and Hardy will be seen to greater advantage today, for the reason that the persistent lobbing to which they were sub-lected yesterday gave them little scope for brilliant returns. This match will be called promptly at 4 o'clock. It will be the best of five sets.

At 3:30 this afternoon, immediately preceding the final of the doubles, Roy Austin and Millard Hopkins will play off the final round of the state tournament, the winner to challenge Cullingham for the championship of Nebraska. Hopkins has probably shown the finest tennis of any of the Omaha men during the week, and the match will certainly not be one-sided. Tomorrow afternoon the final round of the interstate singles for the Parmelee cup will be played.

Richard Stevens' match with C. R. he has shown since his coming. His net work was of a brilliant order, particularly Stevens proved too strong for Budlong and won. TOMMY RYAN BEATS DICK MOORE

Twenty Rounds of Hot Work Before a BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 20 .- Before the Empire Athletic club Tommy Ryan and Dick Moore fought twenty rounds tonight. Moore seemed to have too much stomach, was heavy on his feet and appeared to be shoulder-bound. Ryan on the contrary was trained to fine condition. Up to the tenth round Ryan rained blows on Moore's neck and wind until he had tired him out. After that Moore's guard improved and he led occasionally and showed some confidence. In the fifteenth round Moore seemed to limber into agility by the dressing down he had received. From that time until the close Chicago pairs, Condee and Anderson and strength. LOOKING TO THE COMFORT OF VISITORS

Improvements Being Made at the Grounds Are of a Most Substantial | Kind - New Buildings Erected.

Everybody having any connection with last year. The most important is the erection of 120 new pens for the hog department. The accommodations in this tine were inadequate to the demands made upon them last season, but the additions will, it is thought, do away with any difficulty this fall. The roofs of the sheep pens have been lowered and the alleyways have been roofed over. Some minor changes are being made in a number of the buildings. The most important are in the administration building, by means of which it is hoped to facilitate the transaction of business. An office is also being constructed for the superintendent of the agricultural machinery department, which will be a great convenience to exhibitors. Another improve ment which will be greatly appreciated by the parties who will use it is a stand for the reporters who are assigned to the races This is to be alongside of the judges' stand and will give them ample facilities for get and will give them ample tacilities for get-ting correct reports of the races without bothering the judges. The ventilation of the art building will be improved. Last year the air in that building was stilling when a crowd gathered, but the changes will make it one of the most pleasant or the grounds,
Parties who have leased privileges propose to be ready for the crowds this year as soon as they commence to gather. On all parts of the ground allotted to them gangs of men are already at work putting up stands, and from present indications there will be no dearth of refreshments on the

PLENTY OF WATER. Another improvement that will be appre clated by all who visit the grounds is the improvement in the water supply. The scarcity of water was one of the greatest annoyances last year. What was supposed to be ample provisions had been made, but they proved to be entirely inadequate. This year there will be no difficulty on that score, as additional wells have been put down and the water service otherwise improved to meet all possible contingencies.

The greatest improvement that will be noticed by visitors who attended the fair last year has been made in the grounds themselves. Last year the grounds were new and in all directions was to be seen bare ground, where the graders had just finished putting things in shape to render it possible to hold a fair. This last spring the grounds were all seeded down and now the only spots of bare ground to be seen are on the track and in the driveways and walks. This not only makes the grounds much more attractive, but in case the wind blows very much, more comfortable. Such clouds of dust would be an impossibility this year, even if the weather conditions had not rendered it highly improbable that any discomfort would arise from that source.

Trees have also been planted everywhere, and, while it will be several seasons before they will provide any shade, they serve to relieve the monotony of the surroundings and to deprive the grounds of that new look which is always oppressive. Instead of a plot of ground which, save for the buildings, was a barren waste last season, the State fair grounds have in one year as-sumed the appearance of a beauty spot which will continue to grow more beautiful

The track has been kept constantly in con dition for racing ever since early in the spring and now is one of the finest in the United States. Not a day goes by that some work is not done on it and it is difficult to see how it could be improved upon. With the high class of horses which will be present ome sensational racing is confidently ex-

With the fine buildings with which the rounds were furnished last year and the improvements in the grounds themselves nade this year those who attend the Ne State fair will not only see an exhibit that will not be surpassed anywhere but they will be able to enjoy themselves as well, as there is not an objectionable feature which the experience of last year suggested which has not been remedied.

The Union Veteran's Republican club will neet at Patterson's hall, corner of 17th and Farnam streets, Saturday evening, August 22. A full attendance is requested. Good speakers, etc. J. S. Miller, president.

An urgent meeting of the Woman's Christian association will be held this afternoon of the funeral at the Home at 3 o'clock.

"A Bowery Girl," Harry Williams' scenlmelodrama of life in the great metropolis, will be the play at Boyd's theater for three nights, commencing Sunday evening.
"A Bowery Girl" seored last season a deserved success, playing many profitable engagements in New York City, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and the other large cities. It is a well written play of New York life, handsomely mounted scenically, and presented with a far better and more expensive company than is usually seen in a melodrama, and there are also some clever mechanical contrivances. During the action of the play some really high-class specialties will be introduced. The title role this season is played by the well known comedienne, i Florrie West, who has not been seen in this country for the past two seasons, having been in England and the continent, where she scored a most pronounced success. "In regard to our cribbing corn, the chances are that we will not be in the market to crib corn this year, at least not until after election. The Board of Managers has a large force the state fair proposes to be ready when the gall to ask to borrow money without giving a gold note. We would not care to do this. The fact of it is we believe the nomination of Bryan for president on the Chicago platform has cost the country several millions of men at work putting the grounds and buildings in readiness to receive the exhibits. There are a large number of changes being made, dictated by the experience of business on. We think it will cost them a good many more during the next two months. "While nobody believes that Bryan will be elected, that is, no sensible man, still the uncertainty of everything until after election is going to keep things in a bad shape. If McKinley is elected by a rousing majority we think there will be plenty of money for cribbing corn, but we are afraid we will not get to buy as low as last year's prices. But we will probably go in and fill up our empty cribs and crib more if we can get it at the market price. Are the sensible con-servative democrats of Nebraska going to vote for Bryan? They are not going to do it in this tists he are recognitions. in this state by any means."
