IT'S LAST DAYS ON EARTH

Six O'Clock Monday Night the Golden Eagle | Saturday a Great Day for the New Store Shoe Store Closes for Keeps.

Tomorrow's Sensational Sacrifice of All that's Good in Shoes for Men, Women, Boys and Children Will Never Be Seen Agnin.

TOMORROW ABSOLUTELY THE LAST

Six o'clock Monday night the last hour. Tomorrow the very, very last minute of the sacrifice of the shoe stock of the BANKRUPT GOLDEN EAGLE SHOE STORE, between Boston store and Hayden's.

If there is anything in shoes that you want and it is in the Golden Eagle shoe store. it is yours at almost any price you choose Already the walls are being taken out. Half of the shelves are gone. $22,000.00 worth of shoes have been sold since the 3d day of the month, when the sale commenced. There are $4,000 worth left that must be closed out by 6 o'clock Mon-day night. There are men's shoes, women's boys' shoes, misses' shoes, children's shoes that must and positively shall be closed out, regardless of sacrifice, regardless of cost, regardless of anything and every-thing excepting that they must go. Don't stop to ask why; don't stop to think of anything excepting that you are bound to want shoes pretty soon, if you don't want them absolutely necessary for you to attend this assortment of all new and elegant patterns, last agony of the Golden Eagle Shoe Store this fall's make, such as had never been and lay in enough shoes to last you for seen in Omaha, drew like a magnet. Great years, or at least to buy as many as you can stacks of men's all wool sack suits, Clay scrape up the money for.

lieve that the extraordinary sacrifice price which we have marked on every remaining grand success in every way, and the man-pair of shoes in the Golden Eagle shoe store is so sensationally low and small that you will not have nerve enough to make us lower offer than our last closing agony

Remember that 6 o'clock Monday night is absolutely the last minute in the life of the Bankrupt Golden Eagle Shoe Store.

DELEGATES TAKE A SHORT TRIP

Visitors Given a Faint Idea of the Wealth of Nebraska Prairies. The excursion planned by the local com mittee for the entertainment of the visiting Christian union delegates Saturday afternoon was a decided success from every point of view. The train left the Webster street depot promptly at the time advertised, 1:30, and consisted of eight coaches, every seat being filled with a delegate. The train was in charge of Conductor C. H. Norton of the Northwestern and the entire friends of neighboring states, will make r big gathering. The churches of the Swedish run was made without a hitch of any kind. The first stop was made at Florence, where the passengers all inspected the pumping plant of the Omaha Water Works company, including the immense pumping engine, the settling basins and the commodious build-Thirty minutes were spent here and everybody saw everything there was to see. From Florence the train traveled to Irvington and thence south along the tracks of the Elkhorn road through the fertile valley of the Pappio, with its rolling meadows and

The train waited forty minutes at South Omaha and when the excursionists had seen the complete operation of a packing house the train pulled out for the Tenth street depot where the visitors were allowed to survey the place where strangers get their first impression of Omaha. No stop was made here, but the train passed immediately across the Missouri river, over the Union Pacific bridge, a most excellent view being afforded of the river valley for miles in either direction and the of the Industrials leasted along and of the light and the second of the light and the second of the river valley for miles in either direction. river valley for miles in either direction and also of the industries located along the river banks. The route carried the train through the western part of Council Bluffs, giving the visitors a very good idea of the Twin City and of the commanding bluffs from which it takes its name. The next point of in-terest was the new bridge of the Omaha Bridge and Terminal company, which the train passed over en route to East Omaha. Passing through the future manufacturing suburb of Omaha, the train proceeded to the Webster street depot and the trip was ended. The visitors was greatly pleased with their trip and many of them expressed their thanks to the local committee for providing such a pleasant outing, which gave them an opportunity of seeing so much in such a short time. By actual count there were 481 people on the train and a neat sum was realized by the local committee which will go toward reducing the shortage in the funds for the entertainment of the con-

To demonstrate that real estate forms one of the principal features in the business of this city, one needs only to make a tour day morning, September I, Mayor Broatch extending the customary welcome. The program, a work of typographical beauty, shows that the doctors will be kept very busy for three days. Tuesday afternoon President Runnels delivers his address, 'Some Obstructions to Medical Progress,' followed by discussions in the bureau of clinical medicine and discusses of children, comprising of the many offices where these transactions are negotiated. Under the reorganization of the exchange, on the pay basis, the membership has now increased to nearly fifty and the attendance is good; and in visiting the members the writer invariably found that each one was doing some business and had a cheerful word for the future. Many transactions are too small to attract attention, but the aggregate is good.

Three different dealers stated they had buyers for good residence lots and are unable to get them at reasonable prices. The contrast is great between prices for good, desirably located property, and that which is unfavorably situated, with undesirably surroundings. Without experience it is hard to realize how high the former is until you try to buy, or how cheap the latter is until you try to sell.

estate values, it is only necessary to refer to some of the things we have safely passed through in addition to the general depression throughout the country. First, during 1885 to 1887, hundreds of thousands of dollars poured into the city to buy property. People not only brought it in but sent it time was laviching money right and left borrowing on bonds, grading, paving, etc. at a rate that would be absolutely in-credible these times if it were not for the record and rate of taxation as a reminder Next came the building craze, which gave employment so generally and poured mone; into circulation in such quantities that all felt its influence, and which served to continue the pace already set, the volume of which was only subsequently exceeded a perfect avalanche of money loaned by eastern loan companies during a period when the liberality of capitalists in loaning money on Omaha property amounted to a contest as to who was the most reck-less in disposing of his money. Now in 1893 all these channels for getting money were practically closed, and added to the general hard times, this borrowed money has been sent out of the community as fast as collected. Add to this the loss of crops from drouth, which was the end of the two extremes, and which gave Omaha real estate a test that perhaps no other city has had.
