During the remarks of Mr. Groot the crowd perceptibly thinned out. -ACCEPTS WITH GRATITUDE.

When Mr. Groot's long address was concluded, Mr. Bryan was immediately pre-sented and made a speech, accepting the nomination. His opening sentences were: "Mr. Groot, Chairman and Other Mem bers of the Notification Committee of the Silver Party: I beg to reply at this time without the formality of a letter. The platform adopted by the silver party contains but one plank and that plank, the plank upon the silver question, is identical in sub-stance with the silver plank of the Chicago platform. As I have already discussed that plank at length, it will not be necessary to enter into any extended discussion at this time. I beg to announce to the com-mittee that I accept the nomination tendered by them on behalf of the silver party in the spirit in which the nomination was presented. I can appreciate the feel-ings which animated those when assembled hesitation with which those assembled there turned their backs upon the party with which they had been associated. I know something of the strength of party ties and because I was in a position where I looked forward to a possibility of like action camp part I can appreciate the depth of the conviction that led them to place the interests of their country above the welfare of their party. More than a year ago, when we were engaged in a struggle to bring the democratic party to an endorsement of free colnage, the question was put to me, whether in case of failure, I would support the democratic nominee if he were a gold standard platform. I never believed that such action was probable in the democratic party, but when those who questioned me were not content with probabilities and asked again whether, in that event, I would support the nominee, I said, as you will remember, that under no circumstances would my vote be given to a man who would in the executive chair, use his influence to fasten the gold standard upon the American people. I stood where the members of that silver convention stood, and like them would rather have the approval of my conscience than in that convention. I can appreciate the hesitation with which those assembled there onvention stood, and like them would rather have the approval of my conscience than the approval of all the world. My convicconvictions. I may be in error-none of us can claim infallibility-but I believe that the gold standard is a conspiracy against the human race. I would no sconer join the ranks of those whose purpose it is to fasten that upon the American people than to enlist in an army that was marching to attack my home and destroy my family "I say, therefore, that I can appreciate the spirit which animated those who have tendered me this second nomination I pledge them that, if elected, they shall never have cause to accuse me of being false to that platform. My friends, when declared that I would not support a gold standard candidate I was standing upon record of the democratic party. I was de fending its principles, as well as the in terests of the country at large. And when the republicans who assembled in the silver convention at St. Louis refused to worship the gold image which their party had set up, they were defending the history of the republican party."

PHILOSOPHY OF BOLTING.

Mr. Bryan repeated a statement made by Mr. McKinley at Toledo in February denouncing Grover Cleveland for dis crediting silver and enhancing the price of gold, and followed this by recalling the bimetallic planks of the republican platform of 1892, with which he contrasted the St. Louis plank of 1896, adding: "Repub-licans, cannot be criticised for leaving the republican party. They have done better than our democratic advocates of the gold standard have done, because the repub they left the party, joined with those who had a chance to succeed while our democratic advocates of the gold standard sought to secure the election of republican candidates by nominating a democratic candidate."

He quoted John Sherman as an authority for the right to bolt the party, and then turning to the members of the silver party present, said: "We do not ask thos present this nomination to pledge their fu ture services to the democratic party. same intelligence which directs them today in the discharge of this duty will be with them four years from now to direct them in the discharge of the duties that will then arise. The same patriotism that leads them today in what they do will be them four years from now to guide and direct them. We trust them now; we shall trust them then. The democratic party has proven itself worthy of their confidence today and it receives their support. If four years from now it proves unworthy of their confidence it should not then have

The chairman of the notification committee has told you that we have to meet today a great money trust. He is right. We are confronted today by the most gigantic trust that has ever been formed among men. Talk about trusts in various articles which we produce. Friends of the Candidate Declare that He Has Aged Much Lately.

PLATTSMOUTH, Neb., Sept. 8 .- (Special.) -William Jennings Bryan, the popocratic candidate for president, passed through this city this morning, enroute home to Lincoln. He stopped off here to make a ten-minute speech, and about 1,000 people, half of whom were women and children, assembled to hear and to see him. Some of his old friends were greatly surprised at the change in his appearance, he having grown older, apparently, by fifteen years since the Chicago convention. There were over 300 shopmen present, who were given their time by the company to attend the recep-tion, and in his remarks Mr. Bryan made a very bad fling at the railroad corporations, which was received with chilling silence The enthusiasm was lacking, no one ap-pearing to be impressed in the least with his remarks, and at his final bow not more than a dozen persons applauded.

ASHLAND, Neb., Sept. 8.—(Special.)— About 200 people were at the depot this morning to meet Mr. Bryan, the majority of them being McKinley men, women and children, who went out of curiosity, like they did in the east.

Enthusiastic Meeting of the Nonpartisan Railway Employes Club.

MEMBERSHIP PASSES THE THOUSAND MARK

T. J. Mnhoney Delivers a Telling Address Reviews the Efforts of France to Maintain Free Coinage of Bath Metals.

The railway and express company employes are evincing a lively interest in the pending political campaign. A short time ago a movement was inaugurated to form a nonpartisan sound money league, and it now boasts a membership of fully 1,000. A meeting was held last evening in the large vacuat room in the Karbach block, for the purpose of completing the organization. There were at least 600 members of the club present and they all displayed a lively interest in the proceedings.

The committee appointed at the preliminary meeting held several days ago reported a constitution and by-laws, which was unanimously adopted. The club is to be known as the Nonpartisan Railway and Express Employes' Sound Money club, and has in its membership a large number of democrats as well as republicans. The following officers were elected: President, W. J. Baker of the Union Pacific; vice presidents, H. F. Munchoff of the Missouri Pacific; J. F. Red-dington of the Elkharn; W. B. Fordyce of the Omaha; W. J. Robinson of the B. & M., L. A. Garner of the express companies, and L. A. Houck of the Union Pacific; secretary, D. B. Allen of the Union Pacific, treasurer, E. Whitehorn of the B. & M. The executive committee is composed of the president, vice presidents, secretary and treasurer.

After the formal business of the meeting had been concluded, T. J. Mahoney was introduced and addressed the club. His remarks were listened to with the closest at-tention and liberal applause greeted the many telling points made. Mr. Mahoney started out by saying that as most of them well knew he had always been a democrat and still considered himself as a democrat, but that there were times when a conscientious man who believed his party had temperarily departed from principles which were for the best interests of the whole should sink his partizanship and east his lot for the common weal. time had come with him. The adoption of the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to I was in his opinion raught with danger to the country.

He reviewed the monetary history of the country and quoted Jefferson and others of the founders of the government to show that from the inception of the coinage laws he commercial value of the two metals had always been the guide to the ratio for

Mr. Mahoney also quoted statistics to show that when this country had a depreciated currency as one of the exigencies of the it had required fifteen years for to adjust itself so that the product of labor would buy as much as before the currency fell below par. Labor was the first to suffer and the last to recover from its effects. "No great number of the people of this or any other country can prosper unless the mass of the people are prosperous. The cap italist makes money when business is good and when business is good labor is employed. Once restore confidence and this country with its magnificent resources, will be the home of a prosperous and contented people." FIFTH WARDERS ARE INTERESTED.

Large Audience Turns Out to the Mc Kinley Club Meeting. The room of the Fifth Ward McKinley and Hobart club was filled to the doors last night by voters, who had gathered to hear E. J. Cornish discuss the money question. Mr. Cornish entertained his audience for an hour and a half with a lucid exposition of the main issue of the campaign, reviewing the history of money in laying a groundwork for his subsequent remarks and following the history down to the present time. iscussed the main arguments advanced by the advocates of the free silver fallacy and analyzed these arguments, showing the absurdity of some of the statements made by the apostles of free silver. The relative nerits of gold and silver as a circulating medium were discussed and the arguments in favor of the single gold standard, until international bemetallism can be secured. were set forth in a clear manner. The uestion of ratio was also taken up by Mr. Cornish, and he showed the absurdity of the theory that a single nation could maintain the parity of gold and silver at a ratio which fixed the value of silver at double its market value.

The audience which listened to Mr. Cornish's remarks was an intelligent gathering and his argument was followed closely, the points brought out being applauded in a namer which showed that his hearers were fully in sympathy with him.

Wistoner and The Control of the Cont The reception given to a number of the candidates on the republican state ticket at the tent on Twenty-fourth street near N last night was extended by a large crowd. Long before the speaker commenced all of the regular seats in the tent were occupied and several decemphairs were brought in and placed in from of the platform. At the rear of the platform mas draped a large American flag and on easies at each end were placed life size pictures of McKinley and Hobart. Hon. J. H. MacColl, republican candidate for governor, was to have been present, but was unavoidably detained, much to the disapstatment of the large growd in attendance. Those who occupied seats upon the platform were. George Stryker, president of the South Omaha Republican club, under whose duspices the reception was given; Attorney General A. S. Churchill, Secretary of State J. A. Piper, Orlando Tefft, republican candidate for lleuteinant governor; W. G. Whitmore of Valley, candidate for regent of the State university: P. O. Hedlund, candidate for state auditor, and Judge Breckenridge of Omaha.

After a few selections by Pivonka's band the meeting was called to order by President Stryker, who introduced as the first speaker Judge Breckenridge. The judge said that as American citizens we were all proud of the fact that our government was a govern-ment of the people and by the people and that all questions concerning the weal or the woe of the people were open to the fullest discussion, and arguments for or against the vital issues would be heard on all sides from now until the election in November At the ballot box the people would ex press their opinion and render their verdic and until that verdict was reversed by the same means no loyal person would attempt to oppose it. The judge said that he had been a republican all his life and in 1853 had cast his first presidential ballot for that greatest and grandest of all men, Abraham Lincoln, and since that time he had voted for every republican candidate for the presidency and intended to vote for Major Mc-Kinley. The montion of McKinley's name caused a round of hearty cheers.

The speaker said that he could see how a free silver democrat or a populist could vote for Bryan and the Chicago platform, but he could not see how a republican could stultify his whole past political life by supporting Bryan and he Chicago platform. ing Bryan and the Chicago platform. He thought that Senator Wolcott of Colorado was right when he said that what the people of Colorado needed was less hysterics and more common sense. That, in his opinion, more common sense. That, in his opinion, was what was needed in a great many other places. Judge Breckenridge then asked the free silver republicans if they were willing to be classed with Altgeld, Coxey, Mary Ellen Lease, Tillman and other dominant spirits of the free silverites.

Two questions only need be discussed i this campaign, the tariff and money questions. This country had prospered most under a protective tariff and least under low tariff.
"It is not free milver or free trade we want" said the speaker in conclusion, "it is a condition of affairs that will revive the business of the country and open the mills, not the mints."

Hon. Orlando Tefft was next introduced and at once placed the audience in a good humor by inviting any enthusiastic Bryan man who might be crowding about the door to come to the front and occupy a few of the vacant seats and take their medicine. Quite a number of well known democrats commercial value of the metals had always came in at this invitation and listened at-regulated the coinage value and that in the endeavor to keep the commercial and coinage values the same the ratio had been changed to support the party that had supported the country and made it the most prosperby altering the amount of metal in either the gold or silver coins no less than 300 times during those 700 years. In spite of those continual changes there was never any considerable time in which they both circulated at the same time, one or the other being continually undervalued and the cheaper coin driving out the dearer.

"All history," said Mr. Mahoney, "has demonstrated that the only way the two metals can be circulated concurrently is to make one the standard. By pledging the faith of the government to the redemption.

"All of the gold, silver and paper in the country was dumped into the ocean. Money, the asserted, is simply a convenience discovered for convenience discovered for convenience and coined for convenience for convenience and coined for convenience was never any considerable time in which they both circulated concurrently is to make one the standard. moments. He said that in every part of the state the people were gathering togather to discuss the financial and tariff questions, this latter question the democrats carnestly hoped would not be brought up. The free coinage of silver, he said, had never been a success as tar as being bimetallic. The republican party was built upon a solid foundation of gold, while the balance of the structure was finished with silver and paper.

Hon. J. A. Piper said that he did not intend to make a speech, but came down here on purpose to get acquainted with the people of this busy city. For the past twenty-three years we had had the same standard and for that standard the republican party stands pledged. During that time the country had seen great prosperity and it seemed strange why some people were afraid of the gold standard and acted a if it was something new and untried. Mr Piper then made excuses for Hon. J. H. MacColl and Land Commissioner Russell both of whom had expected to be present but had been detained elsewhere. In con-cluding his remarks Mr. Piper said that he had served the people the best he knew for the past two years and he hoped to be able to serve them two years more G. W. Whitmore spoke of his own candi-dacy for regent of the State university and told of the duties of the regents. He urged the voters to stand by the republican ticket in November and prosperity was sure to follow the election of Major McKinley. Attorney General Churchill was then called upon state politics. He mentioned his own candidacy and others on the republican ticke and predicted victory at the polls in No-

Labor Parliament of Great Eritain Organtzes and Adopts Important Resplutions, Including One for an Eight-Hour Day.

EDINBURGH, Sept. 8 .- The congress of the British trades unions today discussed the report of the parliamentary committee which opposes further participation in in ternational congresses. Finally, the delegates adopted Ben Tillett's motion to the effect that all future international congresses should be constituted for representatives of bona fide labor organizations, and that the delegates should be determined on the line of those attending the British trades union congress. After discussing the motion of the paper mill workers that no representative of the press be allowed to report the proceedings of the congress unless he can prove that the newspaper he represents is "printed by trade union labor and on paper manufactured in the United Kingdom," the delegates voted to exclude the reporters of all nonunion papers. The order will exclude representatives of all newspapers of Edinburgh. Counsellor W. Thorne, a member of the parliamentary committee, and Adel of the Gas Workers union, moved and the congress adopted a resolution declaring for the limition of the working day to eight hours all trades and occupations. E. Harford, a delegate of the Amalgamated ociaty of Railway Servants, moved a resolution calling for an amendment of the emoyers' liability act, particularly in regard the responsibility of subcontractors for the extension of the period of notice and the emoval of the maximum limit of compensa-ion. The motion was adopted. The congress also adopted a motion favring bills to amend the law of conspiracy and the law regarding breaches of peace, He and then adjourned for the day.

Mc-Pherson was early in his investigation when He chose her as a guide through the district. He made a very extensive tour and felt repaid for his efforts. When he returned to his hotel, however, he decided otherwise. He discovered then that his roll was gone. The matter was reported to the police, and upon McPherson's information a couple of detectives went to the residence of Carrie Smith. They found her and also her lover, Arthur Smith. They also discovered a roll of $80 beneath a bed.

The money tallied with that which Mc-Pherson had lost. Both the Smiths were therefore arrested and charged with grand larceny.

The recent gift of $1,000 from Miss Caroine Bruce of New York, also the later gift of a handsome sum from Mrs. W. W. Low of the same city, are both to be devoted to the conclusion of certain astronomical work at the Lick observatory.
