BRITISH LABOR CONGRESS

American Delegates Are Accorded an Enthusiastic Reception.

IMPORTANT RESOLUTIONS ARE ADOPTED Municipal and Government Ownership of Public Franchises Favored by Trades Unionists—Payment for Members of Parliament.

EDINBURG, Sept. 9.—The British Trades union congress resumed its session this morning and adopted resolutions favoring the payment of members of Parliament, co-operation and trade unionism and amendments to the truck act.

Messrs. Sullivan and Strasser, the delegates of the American Federation of Labor, were present today and met with an enthusiastic reception. Mr. Sullivan made a speech in the course of which he said he had brought to the British delegates greetings from the workers in the United States, adding that the latter regarded the British trades unionists as the old guard in the labor movement, and he cordially invited the congress to send delegates to the coming American Trades union congress.

Continuing, Mr. Sullivan gave an account of the progress recently made by organized labor in America, saying that all the non-unionists in the United States are "social" (epithet) and that the wages of the workers have increased at least $4,000,000 annually.

J. H. Wilson, M. P., of the National Society, in a speech of great interest, called attention to the government's refusal to carry out the fair wages resolution passed by the House of Commons February 17, 1895, and for forcing contracts for laboring non-union workmen. The motion was adopted.

It was then moved to rescind the resolution of the British Trades union congress, passed September 5, 1894, on the motion of Mr. Kier Hardie, declaring for the nationalization of land and the whole of the means of production and distribution and exchange. This was ruled out of order and the congress adopted the following, a supplementary declaration: "That in the opinion of this congress it is essential to the maintenance of British industries to nationalize the land, mines, minerals, railways, rents, and railroads, and municipalize all water, art, and other public utilities, and to place within their several authorities, and that the parliamentary committee be instructed to promote and support legislation with the above objects in view."

Councillor D. Holmes, M. P., of the Amalgamated Association of Weavers moved: "That it is of extreme importance to trade unionists that all the land possible should be brought under cultivation and that we should have a more equitable basis of urban property taxation."

In order to obtain these objects the taxation of land values and ground rents should be made a top question at the next general election. The motion was adopted.

After several resolutions had been adopted the Amalgamated Stevedores Labor Protection League presented a resolution which read: "That the congress request that the president of the Board of Trade, while admitting that British workmen have a serious grievance against the owners of foreign ships received through such ship owners' or their agents, and that it is the duty of the government to introduce legislation to remedy the same, and pledges the congress to aid as far as possible in the introduction of a bill for this purpose, which will be introduced by H. J. Wilson, M. P., at the next session of Parliament."

After some discussion the measure was adopted.

Upon the motion of the Amalgamated Society of Steel and Iron Workers a resolution instructing the parliamentary committee to bring up a bill extending the checkweighman's clauses of the mines regulations and all steel and iron works was adopted.

The Miners' Federation of Great Britain then moved a resolution approving a bill introduced in the House of Commons by Sir Charles Dilke, better known as the "miners' resolution," which was adopted and the congress adjourned for the day.
