Cooler Weather Brings About a Better Demand for Fall Goods.

LOCAL RETAIL TRADE UNUSUALLY SMALL

Local Grain Men Credit Nebraska with the Largest Corn Crop in the History of the State_Reduced Bank Clearings.

The State fair at an end, the present week saw trade back in the old and well beaten path with nothing in particular to berger, fancy, per lb., 5%c; Roquefort, 1%-lb. break the monotony of the daily round, break the monotony of the daily round, lars, per doz., $1.00; Young Americas, $%c; twins, fancy, $%c. In a general way the week has been devoid of any very interesting features as regards the jobbing business of the city. The cooler weather, bringing with it a reminder of the near approach of fall and winter, has naturally enough brought about a little freer buying of cold weather merchandise of all kinds. The movement was not large, but Rinds. The movement was not large, but crop, delivered on track in country, choice green in some lines improvement was shown over previous weeks.

The general sentiment in the jobbing district would seem to point toward a continuance of present conditions, as there is every reason for believing that consumption be reduced to the very lowest mark possible owing to the searcity of money in the country. While occasional spuris are to be expected, as a change in the weather of the expected, as a change in the weather of the expected, as a change in the weather of the expected, as a change in the weather of the expected, as a change in the weather of the expected, as a change in the weather of the expected, as a change in the weather of the expected, as a change in the weather of the expected, as a change in the weather of the expected, as a change in the weather of the expected, as a change in the weather of the expected, as a change in the weather of the expected, as a change in the weather of the expected possible owing to the scarcity of money in the country. While occasional spurts are to be expected, as a change in the weather the country. While occasional spurts are to be expected, as a change in the weather or season may compel the buying of merchandise, no one appears to believe that business will be anything but duligfor some time to come. Money is scarce in the country, and with prices on farm products so low, there is no chance of its becoming more pientiful, not for some time, at least. The local retail trade is very quiet in every line and collections are poor. Strong efforts are being made in some branches of business to limit credits and thus guard against excessive losses from poor-paying customers. What measure of success is to result from these efforts remains to be seen. The actual condition of business is reflected to a considerable degree in the bank clearings, which for the past week show a falling off of 2½ per cent as compared with the corresponding week of previous year. While a report of clearings that shows a decrease can never be satisfactory, it is really regarded as a matter of congratulation that the decrease is no larger in view of the fact that the clearings for the whole country show a decrease of over 24 per cent. Business may be very quiet in Omaha, but it is evidently in much worse condition at a good many other points, especially so in the large eastern cities.

FIGURING ON THE CORN CROP.

Some of the local grain men are calling in question the last government report which gave the condition of the corn crop in Nebraska as 103 as against 108 a month ago. They claim that whatever change there may have been was on the side of improvement and that if 108 was a true report at least 112 or 113. The government report would indicate a crop for the state of 200,000,000 to 225,000,000 bushels of corn, but the more sanguine among local grain men say it will reach 275,000,000 to 300,000,000 to 155,000,000 to 300,000,000 to 155,000,000 to 300,000,000 to 155,000,000 to 300,000,000 to 155,000,000 to 300,000,000 to Some of the local grain men are calling in question the last government report which gave the condition of the corn crop in Nebraska as 103 as against 108 a month ago. During leisure moments operators on the Board of Trade have figured it out that corn at prevailing prices would make a cheaper fuel than coal. It makes a very hot fire, is easily kindled, and gives out a small proportion of ash and no gas. Some operators have calculated that the general use of corn for fuel on the part of farmers would materially reduce the quantity available for shipment to market, and consequently have some influence in bringing about an advance in values. Very few farmers, however, burn corn, as the rule is to shell it first and use the cobs only for fuel. In times past some corn has been burned in Kansas and the railroads tried it one season as a substitute, for coal on their locemotives.

Corn at the present time is bringing the farmer in Nebraska only 115/12 cents per at the present time is bringing the in Nebraska only 115/12 cents per packers claimed that their chill rooms were empty and that they wanted good killing cuttle and wanted them hadly hut they healtated about paying Chicago prices for the very common kind of cattle here. Really desirable beeves would, without doubt have sold nuckly at strong prices. One load of common 1,234-lb, natives brought $1.5 and a load of steers and heifers reached $2.90.

The offerings of butchers' stock were very meager. The market dld not show any material change, values being about steady with yesterday.

The feeder trade was inclined to be a little slow, as is not to be the case on a Saturday. The offerings were not overly large and desirable kinds did not show much change as regards values.

The cuttle market of the past week has been in fairly good condition so far avalues have been concerned. The character of the cattle received, however, has been far from satisfactory to the packers. It has been impossible for local packers to secure enough cattle on this market to keep their houses running, and they have been forced to ship in a good many bought on other markets. Not only have been steers been in light supply, but of those received, very few have been at all desirable. Only one small shipment of cood cettle was received, and it sold readily at $1.75. The grass westerns almost without exception have been such that they have sold well up to Chicago prices. Butchers' stock such as cows and helfers, has sold well all the week. The demand for that kind of cattle has been good, and all arrivals have met with ready sale, especially the better grades. Feeders sold well all the week, though the business was not as heavy as during the previous week. Representative sales:

Soon after relating the afets given Dearborn lapsed into uncon-sclousness without having given a descrip-

The United States Senate Chamber Remodeled and Improved.

Sentilating Chairs for Statesmen and Spectators Electric Lights Illumine the Famous. Forum.

What was a few weeks ago one of the most primitive and antiquated legislative chambers in the civilized world, says the Washington Star, will be changed into perhaps the most modern one, equipped with a multitude of devices and convenlences that are not only fully abreast of the day, but considerably in advance of it. Aged and white-haired senators, like the venerable Morrill of Vermont, who has occupied a seat in the chamber for thirty years, may be led to won-ler somewhat when they first see its newly acquired splendors. And the younger and more festive senators, whose eyes so often tevert to the galleries to catch the smiles and glances of their fair occupants, will see the spectators, not crowded in old painted wooden benches as of yore, but seated luxuriously in rising tiers of opera chairs, richly cushioned and upholstored in dark red leather and constructed after a unique design.

They will see the walls renewed and fresh, and at night the chamber will be illuminated brilliantly with beautiful clusters of incandescent electric lights above the tinted glass ceilings, and not only to the galleries, but on the senate floor, every-body will be more comfortable by reason of the many novel improvements reconstruction, heating and ventilation of the restored chamber. As stated hereto-fore the temperature in summer will be kept cool and equable by means of a cold-storage system, and at all times and seasons the personal comfort and welfare of the senators will be promoted by the best modern agencies that money can buy. And thus greater inducements and incentives than ever will be present prompt aspiring statesmen to attempt to "break into" the United States senate. THE CHAMBER DISMANTLED.

Just now the old chamber, that has not been materially changed for forty years, is completely gutted, and the interior is filled with a confused litter of mingled dust. The entire floor and all the brick walls and piers beneath it have been taken out, to be replaced by a new iron floor, topped by a wooden one of cherry. The homely, old-fashioned galleries have been utterly demolished, and will be superseded by up-to-date theaters. The scating capacity of the old galleries accommodated 1,500 always resulted in jamming and disorderly crowding on great field days. There will be only 700 chairs in the new galleries, but each one will be a sort of reserved seat, and when they have all been filled the limit of capacity cannot be stretched, and thus overcrowding will be avoided. These gallery chairs will be remarkable from the fact that they are to be supplied with an original ventilating device. Each chair will have two mahogany legs or sup-ports, and under these, forming a part of the legs, will be an apparatus for diffusing an equable current of fresh air of the right mperature in and around the clothing and body of the occupant. This air will be supplied continuously from shafts underneath the floor, and will be sifted evenly from apertures in the supports, so that there will be no drafts. The cost of these ventilated chairs will be $3,600, or $5.14 piece. The senators' mahogany deska lown on the senate floor will also be fitted with similar ventilators. PLAN FOR VENTILATION. The ventilation scheme is elaborate and ingenious. It is now being carried out under the direction of the architect of the capitol, Mr. Edward Clark, in accordance with scientific plans prepared by Prof. S.

Woodbridge, professor the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, at Boston. At 9 o'clock Dearhorn regained consciousness long enough to relate the manner of the attack. It appears that he was assaulted at 11 o'clock last night as he was returning home alone by a man who jumped out from a dark alley and struck him in the forchead with a blunt instrument. The blow sent him to the ground, when the assailant, drawing a dagger, stabbed the assailant, drawing a dagger, stabbed the forchead with a blunt instrument. WHERE THEY GET AIR.

The pure outside air supplied to the steam heating coils will be brought from the stone tower at the northwest section of the capitol grounds, and, after being properly warmed, will be diffused through the heating shafts. The temperature will be regulated by a special automatic device. be regulated by a special automatic device If the temperature in the senate should change one degree either too warm or too cool, the device will shut off the hot air supply in a measure, if too warm, and allow the cold air to mix with it until the desired temperature is restored. If too cool, the supply of cold air will be restricted in a similar way.

The air supply, whether heated for winter or artificially cooled for summer, will be forced from the various plants with an even pressure through the air shafts under tion of street car mail service throughout the country has resulted in an order just leries, through the deak and chair legs and made by Acting Postmaster General Jones through the diffusing boxes. The pressure will be controlled by regulators under each chair, desk and box. The foul or consumed air will escape through especially designed apertures in the cellings, and will be drawn these to the outside by a special fan placed on the roof of the connecting corridor, joining the senate wing to the old central building.

The paneling of the gallery walls will be renewed and painted in lighter and more renewed and painted in lighter and more modern designs, and the lower walls of the chamber will be restored and colored in light pearl, with gold damask panels. The press gallery will likewise be restored in an improved form, and ventilating chairs will supplant those of the abandoned pattern. INCANDESCENT LIGHTS.

In former times, unless excefully watched, the gas lights at the ceiling would raise the temperature of the chamber as much as ton degrees in the course of half an hour, and oftentimes the sudden heat would shatter the glass and endanger the devoted lives of senators below. Finally, 150 are lights will be distributed and creeted throughout the capital grounds, and the use of gas will be discontinued in the grounds as well as in the capitol itself.
All these improvements will be furnished before the 1st of November.
