> Democratic Doctrines Put in Force Have a Deadly Effect on the Material Prosperity of the Forest City.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 12 .- (Special Correspondence of The Bee.)-A century ago the site now occupied by Cleveland could boast of a population of exactly four persons. Today we have a city of 350,000. The foundation of its progress and prosperity lies in its location on Lake Erie, and in the fact that it is the most economical location for the manufacture of iron and steel. In the past twenty-five years the city has almost quadrupled in population. The periods of Cleveland's growth are to be compared as follows:

Growth of Cleveland in 74 years to 1870.

Growth of Cleveland in 25 years, 1870-1895.

Pop. of Cleveland 1895, on same scale, It will be noted that the greatest growth in population, wealth, and industry has been during the last twenty-nve years. The progress of Cleveland between 1889 and 1899, according to the eleventh census, was most satisfactory. In an address before the satisfactory. In an address before the Chamber of Commerce in 1891, the writer thus summed up the growth of the city: "In ten years you have doubled the num ber and the value of the products of your establishments. You have nearly trebled the capital invested in manufactures, multiplied the total number employed two and a half times, and you are paying out an-nually in wages more than three times as much as you did in 1880. We have carefully filed away in Washington a shedule sworn to by the special agent as a true and faithful statement of the condition of every one of the 2,300 manufacturing establish-ments of this city. These statements are cold clear official statements of facts and ot warmly colored, exaggerated offerings to the altar of local pride. They show what you have done in the last ten years, and it affords me great pleasure to congratulate you on the tremendous showing, for such it is. It places Cleveland in the front rank as one of the great manufacturing cities of the union. I hope it will encourage your enterprising merchants and manufacturers financiers to renewed efforts for the decade you have already entered upon with such great prestige.

It should be born in mind that the decade ended in 1890 brought out the remarkable fact that the most stupendous growth of population, commerce, manufactures and wealth was to be found in the cities which cluster around these great inland water-ways. The eleventh census clearly demoncenters of industry.

called conservatism and the stability of its business and industrial enterprises. greater percentage of the workingmen resid-ing here own their homes than in any other city in America, and such a thing as a bank failure is unknown in the history of the city. Under such conditions it was natural that Cleveland business interests should be affected less quickly than those in some other cities by the depression which followed the accession to power of the tariff raiders in 1893.

Who now handles this freight must buy. McKinley's idea is to increase the demand for the product; to open the mills; to une more iron ore and employ more men in handling it and in working the product into iron and steel.

I had a long talk the other day with M. Bradley, one of the best-known vessel tariff raiders in 1893. "On the other hand, it is unquestionably true that it will take this city longer to recover from the disastrous effects. Since the unfortunate election four years ago there have been only momentary periods of business improvement. The general trend has constantly been downward. Orders have diminished in size and number, wages have been cut, and in many cases artisans have been thrown out of work by the clos-

And this condition of affairs will continue And this condition of affairs will continue unless McKinley and Hobart are elected in November. The ship yards, for instance, are an industrial barometer. Few people realize that in 1890 the tonnage built at Cleveland was greater than that turned out either in Bath or Philadelphia. Look at

The call issued by the Associated Cycl.ng Cliubs by its secretary, W. C. Bouk, continuous the United States, and in fact in amount of new tonnage turned out each year is ex-ceeded by only one district in the world—the famous Clyde. Her shipbuilding plants have of the meeting:

We do not ask or expect to receive any special favors as a special class, but what interests us most should be of especial interests us most should be of especial interests to every citizen of Omaha and vicinity. Good roads, clean streets and general public improvements along this line are essential to the health and prosperity of any city or community, and in these matters men who are seeking to be placed in official positions whereby they might be able to see that such steps are taken should be only too willing to fall in their power to assist us.

In order that we may have a representative gathering of the wheelmen of Omaha's you are earnestly requested to be present and extend this notice to all your wheelmen friends and others who might be interested in such a movement. Omaha's yoters represented by riders of the wheelmow number several thousand, and if we expect to accomplish anything we must make our wants known. As a rule the majority of the officeholders fayor these movements and will be only too glad to assist us, if we bring our wants before them in proper shape.

Speeches will be made by a number of wheelmen and plans 'add out for organizing in every ward in the city.

can see nothing to indicate a betterment before the election of McKinley. One of the largest shipbuilders here frankly told me that he was about to dispense with the services of the greater portion of the men remaining in his employ, explaining that capitalists had absolutely refused to make any further investments until they could secure some assurance that their interests were to receive reasonable consideration.

It is the purpose of this letter to treat of those branches of industry which come to Cieveland by reason of its location on the lake, and in a subsequent letter show the havoe which free trade has played with its manufacturing industries. Look at the lumber traffic in this city, which, indeed, ranks third among the lake cities as a wholesale market, being surpassed only by Chicago and Tonawanda, N. Y. Many of the directors of the industry here are interested in timber lands in Canada, and in the states bordering on Lakes Michigan, Huron and Superior, as well as in the military of the great Saginaw Valley, and the seventeen firms engaged in the manufacture of lumber have an aggregate capital exceeding 53,000,000.

In 1895 the receipts of lumber at the port of Cleveland aggregated only 238.134.000 feet, as against 673.965,000 feet in 1892, about half as much. The receipts of shingles footed up orly 45.599,000 in 1898, as against 182.733.000 in 1892, or a decrease of more than two-thirds. The receipts of lath show a similar decrease. The statistics for 1892 chronicle the receipt of over 18.000,000 feet of logs, and several hundred thousand feet of mill stuff commodities the receipts of which in 1895, according to the customhouse reports, amounted to absolutely nething.

Ing. LESSON FOR ARTISANS. Will the mechanics and artisans of the United States pause for a moment over these statistics, and see if they contain a lesson? I mean the bricklayers, and stonemasons, and plasterers, and carpenters, and plumbers and painters, and all persons engaged in the building and allied trades?

Nearly all building has stopped.

That is what the above figures mean. And when nearly all building is suspended there are many idle mechanics, many im-poverished homes. Enterprise has simply been crushed in Cleveland, because our financial system is threatened. Remove that threat, restore confidence, and at once enterprise will be resumed, and new build-ing will be projected, and employment given to the mechanic. Mechanics abould study these facts, and vote for work and wages, not for free trade and more experiments and object lessons.

Look at the coal trade of this city and see how it has been disastrously affected by the advent of the democratic party. Cleveland also ranks first in importance as a coal shipping port. The greater part of the states of Michigan and Wisconsin and in fact, almost the entire northwestern country tributary to Duluth, Superior, Minneapolis and St. Paul affords one of the chief markets for the high-grade steam coal of Ohio and the Pittsburg district of Pennsylvania, and this city is made the headquarters by almost all producers and sale agents who have acquired large terminal interests in and about the city. There must also be taken into consideration an amount of fuel, proportionately large supplied to the steam vessels engaged in the lake trade. In both classes of the commodity there has been a steady falling off since 1892. In 1895 there was a slight revival, but even then the coal cargoes shipped from the port of Cleve-land aggregated only $33,968 tons, as against cargoes which totaled 1,154,058 tons in 1892. The amount of fuel handled at this port also showed a decrease from 437,941 tons in alse showed a decrease from 437,941 tons in 1892 to 291,656 tons in 1895.

The direct effect of free trade may be seen here. In connection with this decrease of native tonnage, it is interesting to note the corresponding increase in the aggregate number of foreign articles received at this port from Canadian cities. Cleveland had not had the reputation of having an evceptionally extensive Canadian trade, and in 1892 the imports aggregated only 697 cars and 108,867 packages. Yet in the short space of three years the traffic had more than doubled itself, the aggregate in 1895 being 1,377 cars and 206,004 packages. Thus we suffer at home, our labor suffers, while the importation of foreign goods doubles. VESSEL OWNERS INTERESTED.

But the portion of the population inter-ested either directly or indirectly in the various branches of maritime industry have suffered from other causes than the mere falling off of the amount of shipments, for ways. The eleventh census clearly demonstrates that these waterways are in reality the backbone of the nation. Any decline therefore, in passperity of the take cities shows beyond doust that the country itself was in a deplorable condition. Until 1892 the prosperity herein described continued. The advent of the democratic party caused the first break in the recent caused other point on the great lakes. There are the first break in the recent caused other point on the great lakes. There are the first break in the progress of these cities. For some time Cleveland stood the gating upward of half a million gross tons, storm bravely, giving no signs of the hard and which even at the very conservative times which closed factories and threw thousands out of employment in less favored at almost $25,000,000. Naturally a general slump in freight tariffs is decidedly serious. The reduction in freight charges during BROKEN DOWN BY FREE TRADE.

The effect of free trade and the attempt to break down the financial system under which we achieved the noonday sun of our prosperity may now be plainly seen in goahead, prosperous Cleveland. Manufacturers are discouraged, merchants are worn out with this long depression, and the once busy and well-paid wage carners standidly in the public square.

Talking to one of the leading business men of this city. I called his attention to men of this city, I called his attention to the fact that Cleveland was one of the last cities smitten, that it held out until some of us thought it would tide over without a serious drawback. This gentleman said:

"This city is famous for what might be obtainable in 1895 as against $1.25, which obtainable in 1895, as against $1.25, which was freely paid in 1892.

And Mr. Bryan's only remedy is to in-crease the cost of the food which the man who now handles this freight must buy.

1 had a long talk the other day with M.
A. Bradley, one of the best-known vessel men on the great lakes, and whose ficet of freight carriers is probably larger than that owned by any other single operator. In the course of the conversation Mr. Bradley said "Things have been growing gradually worse since 1892, until we have now reached a condition which is absolutely without a parallel in the history of navigation on the great lakes. Not only are freight charges in the most discouraging possible condition but the closing down of the iron manufachave been thrown out of work by the clos-ing of shops whose proprietors stated frankly their inability to continue the opera-tion of their manufactories except at a freight commodity, and thus our vessels have practically nothing to carry. Dozens of vessels have been laid up early, and I can tell you from experience that hardly a large freight carrier has been continued in commission except it be operated at a loss, and that oftlimes a pretty heavy one, too. Our only hope is in the election of McKinley and Hobart. There seems no possibility that anything but a republican administration will induce a return of prosperity in our Changed Her Mind About Dying. Martha Holmes, an old woman living near Sixth and Pine streets, was brought to the police station last night while supposed to be suffering from the effects of some hardanum which she was said to have taken with suicidal intentions. The Holmes woman has been living for several months, so it is said, with a colored man, and yesterday, growing tired of life, told some neighbors she intended to end it. When taken to the station, however, it was found that alcohol was the only poison Mrs. Holmes had imbibed, and she was accordingly locked in the woman's quarters until she should become sober.
