WHEELER WILL HOLD OVER

Judge Keysor Rules Against the Petition of Henry Osthoff.

CITES A SUPREME COURT DECISION

Court Holds that Council Has the Right to Fill the Vacancy Caused by the Death of Dubois.

Judge Keysor yesterday refused the application of Henry Ostboff for a writ of mandamus compelling the city clerk to put his name on the official ballot as the democratic candidate for the office of councilmanat-large to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Samuel Dubois. This decision will leave Daniel H. Wheeler in undisturbed possession of the office to which he was appointed by the city council until the first Tuesday in January, 1897, and the names of Henry Oathoff, the democratic nominee, Lee Yates, republican nominee, and Daniel O'Connell, populist nominee, will not appear on the official ballot at this election.

In passing upon the case Judge Keysor quoted the section of the charter providing for the election of councilmen-at-large and all city officers, except ward councilmen, in the odd-numbered years, to serve for two years. He also quoted the section giving the mayor and council power "to provide for filling such vacancies as may occur in the office of councilman or other elective offices of the city." The judge stated that where the mayor and council were given council had passed an ordinance providing how vacancies should be filled and had acted within their powers.

The city clerk has a fight on his hands it the Second ward, where August Schroeder was removed from the registration board by the city council. Mr. Higby called on him yesterday morning for the books, but he refused to give them up. He refused to admit the executive power of the council, and declared that when he was removed some one had to show cause. The city clerk re ferred the matter to the city attorney, and Schroeder is still holding down his job.

PLANNING FOR A GREAT PARADE.

Republican Demonstration the Night Before Election The idea of holding a monster demonstra tion on the night preceding election is arousing a remarkable amount of enthusiasm among the local republicans, and nearly every republican organization in the county will be in line. The general committee of arrangements consists of Frank E. Moores, C. L. Chaffee, E. Benedict, W. S. Askwith James Walsh, Charles A. Goss and John Lewis. The members are hard at work planning the details of the parade and expect to have the general plan ready for publication by Monday.

It is the intention to keep the parade confined to the business district. It is ex-pected that the demonstration will be even bigger than the previous one, and the clubs will march and countermarch through the center of the city in the most compact form possible. All the bands in this city and probably two or three from outside will be engaged, and a number of outside clubs will probably come in to join in the demonstra-

MONEY POSTED ON THE ELECTION.

Odds in Favor of the Republican If the opinions of the betting men are an Indication, McKinley is in a fair way to be elected. There are a dozen propositions on the bulletin board at the Paxton annex which are uniformly favorable to the repub lican candidate, and they seem to find no takers. One man has deposited $1,000 that he is willing to bet against $500 that Mc Kinley is elected. The same amount is offered at similar odds that he will carry Illinois, and no one wants the other enof cither of them. Other bets offered are $100 even that McKinley will carry Ohio by 40,000; $200 even that Tanner carries Illi-nois; $100 even that McKinley gots 35,000 votes in Colorado; $50 even that McKinley carries Indiana and $100 even that McKin

TAYLOR FILES HIS PETITION. Runs for the Council from the Eighth

Cadet Taylor has filed his petition as an independent candidate for the council in the Eighth ward, and If will now be a threecornered fight between Crocker, Davies and Taylor. The Taylor petition bore about fifty signatures, but very few of the names signed are familiar to the voters of the ward. The petition is signed by a number of salcon keepers, Dr. J. F. Hertzman and a number of the political roustabouts of the

Before the primaries T. E. Crocker, Cade Taylor, W. W. Mace, George P. Stebbins and Charles E. Bruner signed a written won out at the primaries and was nominated by the city convention. Since then Taylor has been canvassing the ward for signers to his petition, and finally secured the necessary number of names. W. W. Mace, who was another party to the agreement, signed Taylor's petition, but a number of Taylor's est active supporters at the primaries refused to assist him in his effort to defeat his successful competitor. It is noticeable that none of the more prominent republicans in the ward who were originally for Taylor have signed his petition.

The session of the grand lodge was the thirty-ninth of its history. It convened on a day. last Wednerday morning and adjourned for the year on Friday night. There were in gates to the body. Of the number 167 were new candidates for the grand lodge, and were duly initiated into the body. delegates represented 104 lodges in the state, which comprise a membership a little less than 9,000.

In the two days during which the grand odge was in session a considerable amount of business was transacted, but little it was of general interest or importance. The most in portant matter was up in the form of a resolution, which provided for a change in the system of representation from the subordinate lodges to the grand lodge, but it was defeated by a large ma-

The reports of the officers were not as flattering as they have been in past years. No alarm is felt at the condition, however, as the same prevails in all secret societies on account of the prevalent hard times. All the delegates were hopeful for the future because of the near prospect of more prosperous times.

The question of establishing an Odd Fellows' home in this, as in other states, came up again before the body in the shape of a number of offers of a location for the institution. The financial condition of the country, however, did not appear to the delegates to be sufficiently bright for any action to be taken.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: George W. Norris of Beaver City, G. M.; Charles A. Patterson of Omaha, D. G. M.; J. E. Arnold of Schuyler. G. W.; I. P. Page of Fremont, G. S.; Samuel McClay of Lincoln, G. T.; George L. Loomle of Fremont and George N. Beels of Norfolk, grand representatives to the supremolodge. The officers were installed by Past Master Evans of this city.

The grand encampment convened on Tucsday morning and adjourned on the evening of the same day. The session was attended by some seventy-five delegates who represented the forty-six encampments in the state. The membership of the body is at present in the neighborhood of 1300.

Like the grand lodge session the grand encampment was not flooded with important business. The chief matter that came up was over the reduction of fees. It was de-cided to allow subordinate lodges, if they so desired, to reduce the admission fee from $12 to $6. This reduction, however, is entirely optional and the subordinate bodies keep the fee at its present figure if they ficiary feature of the order entirely and re-ducing the admission fee to $3 and the duce to $1 a year was defeated. One of the features connected with the convention occurred on Wednesday night, when Dr. D. H. The address contained wholesome criticism which created some stir in temperance circles.
