Some Facts Concerning the Men on the Republican Ticket,

MANY WALKS OF LIFE ARE REPRESENTED

Come from All Sections of the Country and Some Born in Foreign Lands Successful Business Men.

While the question whether William Mc Kinley or William Jennings Bryan will oc cupy the white house after it is vacated by the present incumbent is now uppermost in the minds of the bulk of the voters, the contest for local offices is not without elements of interest that command attention in Douglas county. The republican party has nominated a county attorney, two county commissioners, three state senators, nine members of the house, nine members of the house, nine members of the city council and six members of the Board of Education, and the candidates who have been successful in obtaining places on the ticket expect to share in the successes of the election. Several of the nominees are candidates for re-election, while others have never before been aspirants for office. The ticket is altogether more than usually

The republican candidate for county at-torney, Howard H. Baldrige, represents the ounger element of the Douglas county bar. He was born in Pennsylvania in 1864 and graduated from Bucknell university in that state. He afterward took a two years' course in the law department of the University of Pennsylvania and completed his legal studies in the office of Benjamin Harris Brewster of Philadelphia. During this time he also spent a year in reporterial work on the Philadelphia Times. Mr. Baidrige came to Omaha in 1887 and has since been en-gaged in the practice of law in this city. SENATORIAL CANDIDATES.

All three of the senatorial candidates are men of known business standing. John H. Evans is one of the leading business men of the city and has been identified with its growth for nearly twenty years. He was born in Wales and came to this country with his parents in 1865. They located at Racine, Wis., where for several years he was engaged with his father in the tanning business. After the Chicago fire they went to Kansus, but soon after, in 1878, Mr. Evans came to Omaha and engaged at once in the laundry business, which he afterwards built up to mammoth proportions. The firm name was originally Wilkins & this was th first steam laundr west of Chicago. Mr. Evans still retains the ownership of the laundry and is also president of the Bank of Commerce. He has never been a candidate for office before except last fall, when he was elected to fill out the unexpired legislative term of J

Of the nine legislative candidates only two are candidates for re-election. These are James Allan and Joseph Crow, who were both elected two years ago. The candidates represent nearly as many branches of professional and industrial life and most them are fairly well known to the voters

John H. Butler was born in Iowa fiftyfour years ago and has been a resident of Omaha for thirty years. He was one of the first to answer Lincoln's call for volunteers and served until after the end of the war in the Fifth lowa volunteers. He was several times wounded. Once his jaw was nearly shot away, but it still remains in fairly good working condition. He was for a long time employed as the special agent of the legal department of the city and it is said that the success of the city in many important cases was largely due to his thorough accumulation of evidence.

James Allan was born in Scotland and came to this country when he was 14 years His parents first settled in Perry City, He came to West Point in this state twenty three years ago and was a farmer and stockraiser until he came to Omaha in 1882. Here he worked at his trade as a carpenter and was afterwards timekeeper for the water works company. He was connected with the street department for eight years as foreman and side walk inspector and in 1891 was the special agent of the United States government for manufacturing statistics. He was elected for his first term in the legislature two years ago and last fall was elected councilman-at-large from the Eighth ward.

Joseph Crow was born in Greencastle, Ind. 1856, and completed his education at De Pauw university. He returned to Green-castle to practice law and was city attorney of that city for three terms. In 1886 he moved to Kansas, where he assisted in the organization of Cheyenne county and served a term as county attorney. He came to Omaha three years later and has since been engaged in the practice of law in this city was elected to the last legislature, when was chairman of the committee on ways

He attended school at Fremont and after graduating taught in different schools in Sarpy county for nearly five years. In the spring of 1889 Mr. Murdock moved to Omaha and com-menced the study of law in the office of Judge Siabaugh. He was admitted to the bar in 1891 and at once commenced the practice of his profession in South Omaha, and has continued a resident of that city since that time. Last April Mr. Murdock was elected a justice of the peace, but resigned the office after holding it a month FOR THE CITY COUNCIL.

> Of the nine councilmanic candidates George Mercer of the Ninth ward and Anton Kment of the Second are the only ones who are now members of that body. Mer-cer is one of the youngest men who have ever served in the council. He was born in Omaha twenty-five years ago and was educated at the public schools. He graduated from Yale college in the class of 1891, and then returned to Omaha and went into the manufacturing drug business with his father, Dr. S. D. Mercer. He is now the manager of the business. His first public office came to him with his election to the

BETTING ON ITHE ELECTION

Less Money Wagered Than at Any Time in Several Years.

FEW WANT THE BREAN END OF THE BET

Most of the Speculation is on the Results in Various States and on Majorities - Some Heavy Wagers in that Line.

Betting on the result of the presidential lection has simmered down to a question of odds on Major McKinley. The ratio is 3 to 1 at present, with very little sliver money in sight. There is less betting in the large cities on the general result this year than in any contest for twenty years, Sar-Ben, and also treasurer of the Young and what little money is being wagered is largely confined to pluralities in various states. There is comparatively little betting it

Omaha. The silver men who several weeks He, ago were clamoring for takers at even money on the state have relapsed into a state of suspicious quietude and would now rather talk on any other subject than betting. A man who would take the Bryan end of a proposition on the general result could get a lucrative job in a dime musee. During the furore of excitement that followed immediately upon the heels of Bryan's nomination there were several bets of considerable magnitude made upon the general resuit, but now the silver contingent wants two to one or even better, and they don't want much of that. Considering the inpaign there is less betting in Omaha than has signalized any election during the past ten years.

A large amount of republican money going begging in New York for takers at three to one on McKinley. Among the bets made in New York this week were these: Five thousand dollars to $1,000 that Bryan would carry Nebraska, and $1,000 to $333 that he would carry his own ward. Harry Franklin of Deadwood took the Bryan end. One thousand even that Mc-Kinley would not carry New York state by 75,000; $500 each, even money, on Mc-Kinley carrying Kentucky and Illinois, and $1,000 to $250 that Altgeld would have a Akron, O., man in Chicago bet $300 that McKinley would carry Nebraska.

In Cincinnati a Bryan man put up $306 against $1,000 on Bryan's election. Most betting in the Queen City is on McKinley's plurality in Ohio and the result in Ken-tucky. The range is even money on 50,000 A Tenneious Clutch

BOSHOLM'S COMPANIONS LOCATED.

Deny Doing Anything Except Get Drunk with Him. The police succeeded in locating two more of the men who are accused of holding up Claus Besholm down under the Douglas street bridge Saturday night and they are now under arrest. Early Sunday morning Albert Reinhackle, one of the three men who were with Bosholm at different times during Saturday, was arrested and when taken to the station was positively identi-fied by Bosholm as one of his assailants. Reinhackle stated to the police that he was a mechanic living at Plattsmouth and had done nothing except to get drunk in com-pany with Besholm and two other men whom he had never met before.

A brother of Reinhackle, who also lives at Plattsmouth, saw an account of the holdup in The Hee and came to Omaha yesterday. He told the police he thought he terday. He told the police he thought he knew the other parties who were implicated in the robbery, and that they were friends of his brother who came to Omaha on a little apree. He went with the police to South Omaha, and after some little difficulty found the men, who gave the names of William Mayo and George Hall. Both were under the influence of ligner when larged under the influence of liquor when lodged at the station, but after they had sobered sufficiently admitted they were the men who had been with Bosholm Saturday night. They denied, however, that they robbed him, and stated they had walked with him down inder the bridge and that while there un made good their own escape, and did not go back again to see what had become

"You don't mean to tell me that the dog will set the frogs, do you?"

"I don't mean anything else."
"A few more questions and answers brought out the fact that the dog had seen his master hunting around in the grass for frogs and spearing them and had of his own accord taken up the task of locating the green beauties. He was a thoroughly trained hunter on birds and he soon became very expert in locating them, so his owner informed me, and my observations of his movements confirmed the man's state-

"You see," said the frog hunter, "I don't get quite so many frogs by hunting around in the grass near the pends, but what I do get are very much larger and the averag value of a day's catch is more than I could get around the shores of the ponds, and then I hunt that territory when they appear to be scarce in the grass."

Soner Gets the Worst of the Deal. E. I. Soper consumed a large quantity of lquor yesterday and then adjourned to the silver headquarters, mear Fifteenth and Dodge streets, where he engaged in a dispute with a couple of chance acquaintances. The argument waxed hot, and one of the men, so Soper alleges, knocked him down. In falling, his head struck the edge of the curb and a deep gash in his forehead was the result. Soper was taken o the station and a number of stitches claced in his head. He was then locked up on a charge of being drunk and dis-

Men who have kept their eye on this "political campaign of education" may have noticed that every once in a whi'e some noted character comes out from the great educational centers of the map and throws his eloquence over the situation to keep the excitement at fever heat and furnish the lesser educators with fresh backbone. These are the king-pins-the big gunsthe spellbinders of the parties-the fellows who are depended on to draw big crowds. This morning we open up some spellbinders ourselves, and unless we miss our guess they will prove to be the strongest arguments ever offered by either side as to the purchasing power of the poor man's dollar and the laws of supply and demand. Spellbinder No. 1 is a heavy double-breasted black Cheviot suit from New York, which we will sell at $5.00, and spellbinder No. 2 is a single-breasted Cheviot suit from Massachusetts, which we will allow to orate at the rate of $6.50 a suit. These two suits will furnish some of the strongest arguments that have been produced this year in favor of the Nebraska, where you can always get the most possible clothing for the least possible cash.

 A NEW SERIAL STORY.

THE OMAHA SUNDAY BEE. "The Puppet."

A Lively Tale of Adventure. By CLINTON ROSS.

Author of "The Countess Bettina," "The Colors of the Lawrence," "The Confession of Colonel Sylvester," Etc.

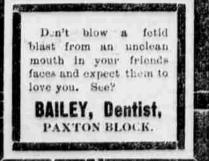

IT BEGAN OCTOBER 25 AND CONTINUES FOUR WEEKS.

66 THE PUPPET" is a tale of the Zenda order. It is a fairy story for grown folks of Dumas's and Mr. Hope's kind; but it is not in any sense an imitation. Robert Gerald, the son and heir of an Irish adventurer and a successful New York financier, meets on his door step a stranger, young and charming, who asks his protection. In granting this lady his roof, Gerald finds himself entangled in the most surprising chain of circumstances He is abducted on Wall street, drugged, and carried near Biarritz. Going to Paris, he chances to see his abductor, and he finds that the refugee he has entertained is a great lady of Dalmatia. There follows a plot which Gerald embraces for the establishment of Beatrice Ramaga as Princess of Dalmatia. In success and failure is the theme of the story.
