Results of an Investigation Conducted by College Educators. AVERAGE ABOUT FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS.

Facts Showing What Economical Students Have Done in the Way of Securing an Education at a Slight Expense.

The fact that education is coming to be more valued in this country has been clearly demonstrated by the growth of our colleges and universities during the three years of business depression since the panic of 1893.

One reason for this anomalous condition of things, says the New York Evening Post, is the fact that the necessary cost of a course at one of our leading institutions has been found to be smaller than was generally supposed.

An interesting and valuable little pamphlet, entitled "The Cost of an Education at Princeton," has recently been published.

The student of moderate means is pronounced "the prevailing type at Princeton," and the type is this: "He maintains a creditable standing in his class and finds time to play base ball, three or four times a week."

He takes college honors of some sort, and is not a member of any of the fraternities or other branches of college athletics.

He is a member of the Phi Kappa Phi society, and writes for the college press; or, he is a member of the Phi Kappa Phi society, and writes for the college press.

FLAG WHICH HAS A HISTORY

American Emblem Which Floated from the Eiffel Tower. PRESENT AT THREE GREAT EXPOSITIONS

Atlanta, Paris and the World's Fair. Visited in Its Pilgrimage—Now the Property of Jules Lumbarde of Omaha.

Saturday, from the office of Jules Lumbarde, a flag was displayed which has a history. In 1890 at the Piedmont exposition at Atlanta, Ga., Colonel D. H. Elliott gave a reception to President and Mrs. Cleveland, and the late Henry W. Grady of the Atlanta Constitution.

At the next meeting of the National Elliott association following these events Colonel Elliott was made a life member and the flag was accepted as its banner.

MEMORIAL TO DEAN GARDNER

Which bears an impression on the Generation of 1860. The services at the Trinity cathedral yesterday were memorial of the late Dean Gardner.

The principal one was at 11 o'clock, when Rev. Craspey of Rochester preached a memorial sermon. At that service every eye in the big interior of the cathedral was fixed with friendly interest on the speaker.

Rev. Craspey found his message in the present language, in referring to the late Dean Gardner. He analyzed the life and the functions of the leaves, finding in them counterparts of the life and functions of man.

Death, the preacher argued, was twofold—real and apparent. The latter was dissolution, the condition when the body ceases to exist with its material environment.

Purchasing Power

The political agitators have done a good thing. They have turned the people's attention to the purchasing power of a dollar and they have shown that people can get more for a dollar today than at any time heretofore.

If you doubt this, so far as clothing is concerned, look in our Douglas street window when you go by.

There you will see a suit of clothes marked $5 that a year ago would have cost you $6.00 here and $7.50 anywhere else.

There you can see suits at $4.00, $5.50, $10.00, $12.00, $13.00 that a year ago would have cost you from $20.00 more per suit at 'The Nebraska' and at the present moment would cost you from $1 to $5 more per suit anywhere else.

If anybody should tell you that the purchasing power of your dollar has not increased so far as clothing is concerned, tell him to look in this window of ours.

If he should tell you it is on account of overproduction tell him "nit."
