TRAITOR FIRES ON THE FLAG

Unknown Bryanite Empties a Shotgun Into Old Glory.

NARROWLY ESCAPES WITH HIS LIFE

Veteran John Berlew Chases the Coward and Fires a Dozen Shots, Killing the Shotgun.

Wounding the Man.

The most exciting incident of the entire Bryan campaign occurred at 7 o'clock on Sunday evening. It had all of the elements of a tragedy.

John Berlew, an old soldier, who has a war record of which he is justly proud, and whose patriotism will brook no insult to the flag under which he lives and for which he fought, made a determined but unsuccessful attempt to kill an enthusiastic Bryanite.

On Saturday (flag day) there was no residence in that portion of the city that had a more conspicuous or prouder flag floating over it than the specimen of Old Glory that Berlew raised above his home.

It was attached to the tallest flag pole he could find, and that pole was raised on the highest gable of his house. Every window in the house was adorned with pictures of McKinley and Hobart, but there was nothing about the place that was a badge of the heart of the old soldier as the magnificent banner that floated from the house-top.

On Sunday evening the greatest possible light was offered to that flag. It was fired upon and killed with shot.

The treasonable act was committed just before dark. Berlew was sitting in his front window looking upon the street.

The window was immediately beneath the flag pole, and the old soldier could see the silken folds of the flag as it rose and fell on the breeze. A man came along the street mounted upon a horse and carrying a rifle.

The fellow who fired on the flag scented the danger and was urging his horse out of the neighborhood at the top of his speed. Berlew took deliberate aim and began sending the bullets after the fleeing horseman.

The horseman was not without effect, when one struck the horse and bowled him over. The rider tumbled into the dust. He was nearly two blocks away, and as he scrambled to his feet he saw a soldier rushing toward him with a smoking revolver in each hand.

Berlew fired his last shots at the fellow as he was taking to his heels. He put his hand with a spasmodic action to his ear as if an angry hornet was buzzing around that member. Again he stumbled and almost lost his life.

The fellow recovered, though, and never quit running until he was out of sight. He was found to have had one of his hind leg broken and was lying on the ground where it had fallen several rods away.

The shooting created intense excitement in the neighborhood, and a large number of people gathered. The wounded horse received much sympathy, and there were many expressions of regret that the traitor who fired on the flag had not received the bullet intended for him.

John Berlew, on Seventeenth street and Twenty-eighth street. There was little prospect of saving the animal, and he was killed by the Butte Furrier Co.

REPUBLICANS CONTINUE TO BE QUITE CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS.

Everything points to the largest vote in the history of Council Bluffs today. Up to last night the work of getting voters in shape was continued, and arrangements have been made for carrying out any naturalizations that may come up today.

Several hundred new voters have been placed on the poll books in this way. The much-talked-of "silent" voter is what is giving the managers of both parties considerable concern.

The republicans expect to carry the city by a margin of at least 600 majority, and some good-sized bets have been made in that direction. The claims of the republicans are the Ninth district one conservatively placed at 2,900, at least the betting against Genung in favor of Hager is mostly at that figure.

The chairman of the state central committee, J. H. Wilson of Casey, is claiming the district at 2,900. I. M. Treynor, secretary of the state central committee, has come home to vote, and doesn't go half way in the matter of claiming the state. Iowa, he thinks, will go to at least 50,000 for McKinley, these figures being conservative polls.

He said yesterday that the chairman of the county committee was inclined to make a poorer showing than really existed, for the purpose of getting help from the state committee, and this estimate was based on returns without any allowance for this feature.

The free silver men have come out with a scare about an alleged plan to work a fraud by means of a marked ballot. It is the same old story of getting an official ballot and marking it, and then changing it for the new one as the voter goes to the polls.

George W. Turner, chairman of the republican city central committee, said that he would give a reward of $100 for the conviction of any one causing to be issued any such plan as mentioned by the free silver men. He further added that every official ballot that could be found to be illegal would be rewarded with the same reward.

The polls open this morning at 8 o'clock and close at 6 o'clock. The polling places are: First Precinct, First Ward—Ch. Sorenson building, 114 East Broadway. Second Precinct, First Ward—W. W. Longfellow building, 123 East Broadway.

Third Precinct, First Ward—George Schindler building, 17 North Main street. Fourth Precinct, Second Ward—L. P. Service building, 734 West Broadway. Fifth Precinct, Third Ward—C. H. Sheafe building, 23 S. 10th Main street.

Sixth Precinct, Third Ward—A. J. Stevenson building, 823 South Main street. Seventh Precinct, Fourth Ward—D. C. Bloomer building, 502 Pearl street. Eighth Precinct, Fourth Ward—H. McArthur building, between Sixth and Seventh streets, 412 South 10th street.

Ninth Precinct, Fifth Ward—County building, 1120 Fifth avenue. Tenth Precinct, Sixth Ward—County building, 1211 South 10th street. Eleventh Precinct, Sixth Ward—Midway building, 202 West Broadway.

Twelfth Precinct, Sixth Ward—Anton Berlew, Cut-off island, Thirteenth street and Avenue R. Kane Township, Outside—R. Green's building.

BRITISH EAST SPEECH MADE

His Wild Flight Across Nebraska Ends an Exciting Stumping Tour.

OMAHA HEARS HIM IN SIX PLACES

Curious Crowds Jam Halls to See the Boy Orator and His Men Watch the Great McKinley Parade.

In comparison with the grand and unrivaled McKinley demonstration that kept the city in a blaze of light and a roar of enthusiasm from the early evening hours until dawn, the speech made by the boy orator to Candidate William J. Bryan was a literal and unadorned treat.

It was an interesting scene presented when he undertook to alight. Among the throng of people, however, were hundreds and hundreds who will today cast their ballots in favor of some money and the nation's honor, as was attested by the myriads of yellow badges which, depending from coat lapel or streaming from hat bands, resembled the mazes of a maple woods in the golden autumn time, and the grand diapason of shouts and cheers which swelled upon the crisp air, as Nebraska's illustrious son emerged from the car, were attuned equally to the musical name of McKinley and that of Mr. Bryan.

Curiosity was the chief motive for the dullness that pervaded the atmosphere by the lack of hurrah and warmth which awaited the boy orator's appearance, and when the four black horses and the open carriage, with their drivers and attendants, colored did appear up the steep boarded incline, another burst of cheers followed, and then to the inspiring strains of the Twenty-second Regiment band, the line of march was taken up for Boyd's theater, via Tenth and Farnam streets, thence across Seventh street to the theater.

The mounted marshals and the constable of honor in which were Mr. Bryan, Judge Doane, Dr. Mercer, Dr. Link, and Mr. Dahman, followed by the carriage containing the state officers and the various reception committees; the alleged Old Veteran Bryan club, and a long heterogeneous and straggling procession of men and women, and children, and the old vets who are driving themselves into the night sweats over their own political careers, were all present.

Boyd's stage reached, and it looked as if there were few left franks in the city. The palatial structure was packed from pit to dome, and the street in front for a distance of a hundred yards either way a seething sea of struggling and shouting humanity. Police men and constables, for a time it looked as if Mr. Bryan's carriage would be picked up bodily and carried away, and it was not until the mad rush to see him, by the greatest exertion entrance to the theater was obtained for the candidate and immediate relatives that they were all.

A thunderous wave vibrated through the hall, and Governor Holcomb strode forward on the stage and introduced Mr. Bryan, and it was several moments before a sufficient subsidence of the uproar was reached to allow the speaker to be heard. In the bright glare of the electric light Mr. Bryan looked badly. His handsome and classical face was pale and beset with wrinkles, and his eyes were red to lustiness, and he looked generally so as if he had passed through a hard winter.

REV. MCKENDREE DE MOTTE

METHODIST PREACHER AND VETERAN OF THE WAR

After Testing in His Own Case the Merits of a Well Known Medical System, He Commends the Same to the Public.

The merit of Dr. Copeland & Shepard's professional work is daily proven by the best of evidence. Today Rev. McKendree De Motte, member of the Nebraska conference and pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Talmage and Brock, tells his testimony.

For five years these physicians have held the leading place in the treatment of chronic diseases. They have patients in every county in the state and possess every modern method of treatment. They have cured many cases, either at their office or through the mails. Read Rev. De Motte's testimony. He was treated by mail at his own home. If you want additional facts write him enclosing stamp. He writes Dr. Shepard as follows:

"Since coming out of the army in 1864, I had been greatly afflicted with enlargement and displacement of the heart with accompanying weakness of that organ. In later years I have always greatly suffered from chronic catarrh. Last winter a very severe sickness led me in an extremely feeble condition and wholly unable to do any work. After a course by mail with Dr. Shepard, it affords me great pleasure to state that I have found much relief and substantial benefit from his treatment. My case was handled with excellent judgment and skill and I most heartily commend Dr. Shepard and his associates as courteous, honorable gentlemen, thoroughly qualified as specialists in their chosen profession."

GRAND ISLAND, Nov. 2.—This was the extreme western point of the day's tour, as it is the most western place visited by Mr. Bryan during the campaign. There was a big meeting at this place. The attendance was large and the Bryan sentiment was judging from the vociferous applause and the absence of gold badges. Mr. Bryan referred to the importance of individual effort at the polls tomorrow and saying that the result of the election might turn on the casting of one vote. He urged upon the agricultural element to declare for the double standard as the most certain means of securing the best of all things, which was impossible under existing circumstances. The applause at this place was frequent and at times deafening, the volume of sound being greatly augmented by the sounding of a large steam thrasher which had been rigged up for the occasion. The return trip was begun at 11:30.

St. Mr. Bryan spoke here for a short time. He told the people of his impressions of his eastern trip. Stormy Weather in South Dakota. YANKTON, S.
