

WHEELS

The wheeling fraternity of New York numbers among its members a hero and a heroine of two exciting adventures. One rescued a drowning man and the other took a three day trip over a road that was supposed to be impassable.

A rowing party consisting of three men moved swiftly up the Hudson river Tuesday afternoon of last week. When almost under the new man's dam bridge two of the men attempted to change seats and one of them fell overboard.

Along a portion of the eighty-five feet roadway in upper New York City is a well kept, high, from the back of which there is a sharp slope up to what is called the East drive. One day last week Park 19th Avenue bicyclist was riding along the top of this drive when he was struck by a car.

A correspondent in Forest and Stream offers the following good advice for the care of a bicycle. The chain is the most important part of a bicycle to have in good order, and after great deal of experience I have concluded that the best way to give the best results with the least labor is to use the following process.

When it is desired to use the machine on the rails a three-wheeled triangular frame was attached to the bicycle, which holds it securely in place.

rank of riders from November until after February. Of course they store away their machines. But how many of them really know how to do so properly?

To take a bicycle apart you should first turn the wheel upside down. By this means the wheels will rest on the saddle and handle bars, then take a screw and a nut and by fastening the nuts on the front wheel, then spring the forks and take the front wheel out.

meeting the president made—and it was a suggestion that a definite plan was entirely impracticable, and it was not again referred to in our conversation.

General Horace Porter's Story of the Meeting—Lincoln's Frank Confession of His Ignorance of Things Military.

General Horace Porter contributes to the November Century a paper of much interest relative to the civil war. He describes the first meeting of President Lincoln and General Grant as follows:

On the evening of March 3 the President and Mrs. Lincoln gave a public reception at the White House, which I attended. The president stood in the usual reception room, known as the blue room, with several cabinet officers near him, and about hands cordially with everybody.
