

THE OMAHA DAILY BEE

Published every morning. Terms of subscription: Daily (without Sunday), One Year, $3.00; Six Months, $1.75; Three Months, $1.00; Single Copies, 5c.

Advertisement rates: One square, first week, 10c; second week, 8c; third week, 6c; fourth week, 5c; per line, 1c.

Subscription information: Single copies, 5c; per month, 15c; per quarter, 45c; per year, $3.00.

Business notices: All communications should be addressed to the publisher, The Omaha Daily Bee, Omaha, Neb.

Legal notices: The undersigned, J. H. ... hereby certify that the following is a true and correct copy of the ...

Public notices: Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed ...

Real estate notices: The undersigned has for sale a large tract of land ...

Professional notices: The undersigned is a practicing attorney ...

Business notices: The undersigned is a merchant ...

Legal notices: The undersigned is a ...

STOP THAT MASQUERADE.

The Omaha Bee takes for a text the remark of McKinley that "Party divisions should no longer divide or rack the public mind."

Stop the discussion—that is exactly what the gold power desires. In the absence of all public discussion, it is certain to be a sure sign of success.

Is it not about time for the silver bullionaire press to stop that masquerade? Do they imagine that they can keep on forever playing upon the credulity of the masses by ranting against corporate monopolies, trusts and plutocrats, while they are playing right into the hands of the silver trust?

Nebraskans have as good a right to indulge in the harmless amusement of cabinet-making as if their state had given a rousing majority for McKinley.

The Trans-Siberian railway should remember that every minute will count from now on, either for or against the expedition.

It now looks as if an extra session of congress may be convened. The silver republicans in the senate appear to have reached the conclusion that a loaf of tariff prosperity in 1897 is better than a rainbow chase after 16 to 1 in the year 1900.

City Attorney Council is confident that the outcome of the city's suit against the Burlington road in the matter of the maintenance of viaducts will be favorable to the city.

To hold two such great public festivals as the State fair and the Ak-Sar-Ben demonstration at different times in the same month would detract seriously from each.

General Miles wants the regular army organized on a per capita basis with one soldier for every 2,000 population, but although per capita has been a favorite populist basis for the volume of money, we doubt whether they will take kindly to the per capita basis in the volume of our standing army.

27, 1894. It is provided that the additional duties shall not in any case increase the rate of duty on any article beyond the rate imposed thereon by the act of 1890.

It was estimated that this bill would yield about $10,000,000 of revenue, but whether it would do this under the changed conditions since it passed the house is perhaps questionable.

Tom Watson will never be vice president of the United States, but he will go down into history as a man who dares to give utterance to his honest convictions.

Omaha pioneers are rapidly passing away. Within the past year several of the sturdy men who founded a great city on the banks of the Missouri have joined the ever-increasing majority.

Through a life of more than forty years in this community no man could boast of a larger number of friends and fewer enemies than George W. Armstrong.

The recent experience of the city government, which for weeks before the election carried itself on without the assistance of half the high-salaried officials, who were off working up their own private schemes, ought to convince voters and taxpayers that many of these officials are superfluous at all times.

Spain owes much to the friendly attitude and magnanimity of the United States. This country kept hands off during the last insurrection in Cuba as it has done during the present insurrection.

The campaign of education is just begun and we think we can promise Mr. Bryan before that campaign is ended to be in the United States as ignorant and as deluded as to send a free silver representative to the senate by a free silver advocate.

As shown by the report of the secretary of war, very gratifying progress has been made in providing for the defense of our coasts and if the policy is continued, as it undoubtedly will be, the country ought to have within the next four or five years a system of coast defenses that would make us secure against any possible foreign foe.

It is entirely safe to say that the work of coast defenses having been begun and carried so far, no congress will refuse the necessary appropriations to continue it until such defenses are made complete and adequate.

approval of a majority of the best people of the United States.

It was estimated that this bill would yield about $10,000,000 of revenue, but whether it would do this under the changed conditions since it passed the house is perhaps questionable.

Tom Watson will never be vice president of the United States, but he will go down into history as a man who dares to give utterance to his honest convictions.

Omaha pioneers are rapidly passing away. Within the past year several of the sturdy men who founded a great city on the banks of the Missouri have joined the ever-increasing majority.

Through a life of more than forty years in this community no man could boast of a larger number of friends and fewer enemies than George W. Armstrong.

The recent experience of the city government, which for weeks before the election carried itself on without the assistance of half the high-salaried officials, who were off working up their own private schemes, ought to convince voters and taxpayers that many of these officials are superfluous at all times.

Spain owes much to the friendly attitude and magnanimity of the United States. This country kept hands off during the last insurrection in Cuba as it has done during the present insurrection.

The campaign of education is just begun and we think we can promise Mr. Bryan before that campaign is ended to be in the United States as ignorant and as deluded as to send a free silver representative to the senate by a free silver advocate.

As shown by the report of the secretary of war, very gratifying progress has been made in providing for the defense of our coasts and if the policy is continued, as it undoubtedly will be, the country ought to have within the next four or five years a system of coast defenses that would make us secure against any possible foreign foe.

It is entirely safe to say that the work of coast defenses having been begun and carried so far, no congress will refuse the necessary appropriations to continue it until such defenses are made complete and adequate.

CONSTITUTIONAL TRIBUNE.

It was estimated that this bill would yield about $10,000,000 of revenue, but whether it would do this under the changed conditions since it passed the house is perhaps questionable.

Tom Watson will never be vice president of the United States, but he will go down into history as a man who dares to give utterance to his honest convictions.

Omaha pioneers are rapidly passing away. Within the past year several of the sturdy men who founded a great city on the banks of the Missouri have joined the ever-increasing majority.

Through a life of more than forty years in this community no man could boast of a larger number of friends and fewer enemies than George W. Armstrong.

The recent experience of the city government, which for weeks before the election carried itself on without the assistance of half the high-salaried officials, who were off working up their own private schemes, ought to convince voters and taxpayers that many of these officials are superfluous at all times.

Spain owes much to the friendly attitude and magnanimity of the United States. This country kept hands off during the last insurrection in Cuba as it has done during the present insurrection.

The campaign of education is just begun and we think we can promise Mr. Bryan before that campaign is ended to be in the United States as ignorant and as deluded as to send a free silver representative to the senate by a free silver advocate.

As shown by the report of the secretary of war, very gratifying progress has been made in providing for the defense of our coasts and if the policy is continued, as it undoubtedly will be, the country ought to have within the next four or five years a system of coast defenses that would make us secure against any possible foreign foe.

It is entirely safe to say that the work of coast defenses having been begun and carried so far, no congress will refuse the necessary appropriations to continue it until such defenses are made complete and adequate.

THE CABINET MAKERS.

It was estimated that this bill would yield about $10,000,000 of revenue, but whether it would do this under the changed conditions since it passed the house is perhaps questionable.

Tom Watson will never be vice president of the United States, but he will go down into history as a man who dares to give utterance to his honest convictions.

Omaha pioneers are rapidly passing away. Within the past year several of the sturdy men who founded a great city on the banks of the Missouri have joined the ever-increasing majority.

Through a life of more than forty years in this community no man could boast of a larger number of friends and fewer enemies than George W. Armstrong.

The recent experience of the city government, which for weeks before the election carried itself on without the assistance of half the high-salaried officials, who were off working up their own private schemes, ought to convince voters and taxpayers that many of these officials are superfluous at all times.

Spain owes much to the friendly attitude and magnanimity of the United States. This country kept hands off during the last insurrection in Cuba as it has done during the present insurrection.

The campaign of education is just begun and we think we can promise Mr. Bryan before that campaign is ended to be in the United States as ignorant and as deluded as to send a free silver representative to the senate by a free silver advocate.

As shown by the report of the secretary of war, very gratifying progress has been made in providing for the defense of our coasts and if the policy is continued, as it undoubtedly will be, the country ought to have within the next four or five years a system of coast defenses that would make us secure against any possible foreign foe.

It is entirely safe to say that the work of coast defenses having been begun and carried so far, no congress will refuse the necessary appropriations to continue it until such defenses are made complete and adequate.

THE SOUTH HAS HAD ENOUGH.

It was estimated that this bill would yield about $10,000,000 of revenue, but whether it would do this under the changed conditions since it passed the house is perhaps questionable.

Tom Watson will never be vice president of the United States, but he will go down into history as a man who dares to give utterance to his honest convictions.

Omaha pioneers are rapidly passing away. Within the past year several of the sturdy men who founded a great city on the banks of the Missouri have joined the ever-increasing majority.

Through a life of more than forty years in this community no man could boast of a larger number of friends and fewer enemies than George W. Armstrong.

The recent experience of the city government, which for weeks before the election carried itself on without the assistance of half the high-salaried officials, who were off working up their own private schemes, ought to convince voters and taxpayers that many of these officials are superfluous at all times.

Spain owes much to the friendly attitude and magnanimity of the United States. This country kept hands off during the last insurrection in Cuba as it has done during the present insurrection.

The campaign of education is just begun and we think we can promise Mr. Bryan before that campaign is ended to be in the United States as ignorant and as deluded as to send a free silver representative to the senate by a free silver advocate.

As shown by the report of the secretary of war, very gratifying progress has been made in providing for the defense of our coasts and if the policy is continued, as it undoubtedly will be, the country ought to have within the next four or five years a system of coast defenses that would make us secure against any possible foreign foe.

It is entirely safe to say that the work of coast defenses having been begun and carried so far, no congress will refuse the necessary appropriations to continue it until such defenses are made complete and adequate.

THE SOUTH HAS HAD ENOUGH.

It was estimated that this bill would yield about $10,000,000 of revenue, but whether it would do this under the changed conditions since it passed the house is perhaps questionable.

Tom Watson will never be vice president of the United States, but he will go down into history as a man who dares to give utterance to his honest convictions.

Omaha pioneers are rapidly passing away. Within the past year several of the sturdy men who founded a great city on the banks of the Missouri have joined the ever-increasing majority.

Through a life of more than forty years in this community no man could boast of a larger number of friends and fewer enemies than George W. Armstrong.

The recent experience of the city government, which for weeks before the election carried itself on without the assistance of half the high-salaried officials, who were off working up their own private schemes, ought to convince voters and taxpayers that many of these officials are superfluous at all times.

Spain owes much to the friendly attitude and magnanimity of the United States. This country kept hands off during the last insurrection in Cuba as it has done during the present insurrection.

The campaign of education is just begun and we think we can promise Mr. Bryan before that campaign is ended to be in the United States as ignorant and as deluded as to send a free silver representative to the senate by a free silver advocate.

As shown by the report of the secretary of war, very gratifying progress has been made in providing for the defense of our coasts and if the policy is continued, as it undoubtedly will be, the country ought to have within the next four or five years a system of coast defenses that would make us secure against any possible foreign foe.

It is entirely safe to say that the work of coast defenses having been begun and carried so far, no congress will refuse the necessary appropriations to continue it until such defenses are made complete and adequate.

Bear in Mind advertisement for B&K clothing. Text: 'Bearing in mind the fact that the weather is getting colder, it is well to get your wardrobe in order now. We have heavy coats in the most desirable and if you please, the most exclusive fabrics, such as chinchillas, meltons and chevrons, lined as you like, simply or expensively. For boys we have overcoats that we make up like their fathers' coats, and just as good. But suits or furnishings— we have whatever you want at the prices you ought to be willing to pay for good goods.'