

THE SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES

Nebraska University Supplying Speakers for Farmers' Institutes.

THE WORK OF AGRICULTURAL COLLEGES

Military Drill in the Public Schools—What Do Women Do After Leaving College—Education in the Trades—Notes.

Announcement is made that the various state societies, acting in conjunction with the University of Nebraska, have perfected arrangements by which speakers will be supplied to at least fifty or sixty Farmers' Institutes throughout the state of Nebraska.

Among the topics which will be treated are: Beekeeping, poultry-raising, etc. It is likely that the number of all this year may be double the number that can be supplied, so that it is particularly important that immediate request be made for such assistance as is required from the central office.

MILITARY DRILL IN SCHOOLS

Its Advantages Not Sufficiently Appreciated. The subject of military drill for boys in the public schools, says the Minneapolis Tribune, has for a long time been the subject of earnest discussion in many of the cities of eastern states.

A medium of militarism is inseparable from the masculine character. It has a thousand uses. The boy who tries to go through life without it is going to be continually imposed upon.

There is another and perhaps deeper significance in the introduction of military drill in the schools. We are not a military nation. We cannot be too thankful that we do not have an army.

The University of California offers a course in the Chinese language and literature for the ensuing year. Prof. N. Newell Martin, who until recently has been the editor of the Berkeley University, has just died in England.

William Potter, ex-minister from the United States to Italy, has been elected president of Jefferson Medical college and hospital of Philadelphia.

Ferdinand Brunetiere, editor of the Revue des Deux Mondes of Paris, is to deliver the Turnbull course of lectures in Johns Hopkins University during March and April.

A compendium published by President Schurman of Cornell university shows that during the college year 1895-96 ninety-one officers of the university printed 450 books and magazines.

Emily L. Brown of Portland, Ore., a teacher in the public school, has sued one of the school trustees for $2,000 damages to her character by his asserting that she taught treason in her school.

Mayor Strong of New York City has issued orders for the removal of all children from the churches to public schools, to whom education is denied because of the parents' religious beliefs.

The courses of instruction for teachers, announced by the graduate department of Yale university last summer, has just opened, with an attendance of 100 students from various parts of Connecticut.

A school teacher of Minneapolis was called before the superintendent to explain why she forced a little boy to eat a cake of soap, and the superintendent, who was told that the boy mistook her for a piece of soap, said "hello" to her.

The Arkansas state superintendent of public instruction has filed his biennial report with the governor, showing the total enrollment of the state to be 456,736, as compared with 448,941 for 1895.

With every class of women graduates from college arrives material for reconstructing the answer to the persistent question: What do women do after leaving college? An inquiry into what matters during the young women graduated at Bryn Mawr college last June gives the data that follows:

MIXED PLEASURE AND DUTY

Omaha Policemen Do Not Always Look Solemn as Owls.

Some Wholes of the Old Timers, Many of Whom Are "Off the Force"—Effective Method of Swakening a Dog Catcher.

There are some people who believe that a policeman has no sense of humor. This impression exists largely among those upon whom he has to use his club.

In this connection the mind of many an old newspaper reporter who has worked on the local sheets during the past ten years will naturally revert to the faces of a number of Omaha's "finest."

Some Old-Time Faces. In the olden times when the city's wicked were locked up in the rambling old building which once occupied the site of the Fourteenth and Davenport streets, jail prisoners were mannaed by a jolly crew.

One of the favorite methods for whiling away the time between "pats" was by "gazing" at the prisoners. The women's quarters were located almost beneath the city's main street.

Eastern Capitalists and People Who Think of Coming West Seeking Information Concerning the City and State.

"That Omaha will have a large exposition in 1898 is now an assured fact, but few, perhaps, stop to realize the magnitude of the display that is to be made and the vast amount of people that will be attracted to Omaha in that year."

ABOUT MONEY

What's the use of earning money if you can't get the good of it, or do good with it? Money isn't especially pretty to look at, although one customer did say that "gold was good for sore eyes, he hadn't seen any in so long." You couldn't get a man to work all day for a couple of round pieces of silver if he couldn't spend the silver. Men wouldn't get out at six o'clock and hustle all day long for one or two thin slips of paper if the paper wouldn't buy some of the necessities, comforts or luxuries of life.
