J. H. Dumont is Elected President for the

COMMISSIONER UTT MAKES HIS REPORT

Work of the Club for the Past Year Highly Satisfactory to the Members, and the New Year Entered with Confidence.

The newly elected directors of the Commercial club held their first meeting last night, for the purpose of electing officers and an executive committee for the ensuing year. The meeting partook of a social nature, the members of the directory being scated about a supper table, which extended around three sides of the large dining room in the quarters of the club, on the top floor of the Board of Trade building. Thirtyseven of the sixty directors were present and a dainty and delicious supper was served. Those present were: Edgar Allen, J. E. Baum, E. E. Bruce, W. M. Glass, C. S. Hayward, John Steel, W. H. Roberson, Clement Chase, C. H. Picken, W. C. Bullard, G. H. Palmer, C. M. Wilhelm, M. C. Peters, A. T. Rector, C. F. Weller, J. S. Brady, W. R. Bennett, A. Hospe, jr., H. F. Cady, G. W. Limnger, W. Farnam Smith, A. H. Noyes, E. A. Benson, H. K. Burket, J. F. Carpenter, A. H. Comstock, T. P. Cartright, Gould Dietz, C. C. George, N. A. Kuhn, W. S. Poppleton, Samuel Rees, L. T. Sunderland, A. J. Vier-ling and W. S. Jardine. After the cigars the retiring president, Charles F. Weller, called the meeting to order and reminded the directors of the duty

Itt to present the report of the doings of the club for the past year.

The report of the commissioner was an xhaustive review of the work which had been accomplished by the club during the year just ended. A marked improvement in the equipment of the fire department and a corresponding reduction in the fire losses, with a slight reduction in insurance rates, was referred to as among the things which had been accomplished. The subject of railroad rates, and the imrovements in rates affecting Omaha ship ors, received very exhaustive treatment a he hands of the commissioner. The depo ituation was reviewed briefly and the pros ve outlet to the gulf via the Kansas Pittaburg & Gulf railway was mentioned as a means of opening to Omsha j bers and manufacturers a new market the south. The commissioner also predicted that it will be but a short time before the Illinois Central, Minneapolis & St. Louls, Chicago & Great Western and the Great Northern railways would reach Omaha with heir rails, as these roads are now known lines to Omaha at an early date. An interesting feature of the report was a review of the new business houses which have removed to Omaha during the past year, through the efforts of the Commercial These houses were given as follows: Hene & Co., eigar manufacturers, from Bur-lington, Ia.; the Marshall Paper company from Grand Island; Heney & Co., wholesale saddlery, from Hastings, Neb.; Sharpless & Co., manufacturers of creamery goods, from Council Bluffs; Omaha Butter Tub company, rom Frement; envelope and box factor; rom Denver; American Chicory company rom Fremont.

which had brought them together, after which he called upon Commissioner J. E.

The business outlook for Omaha was reriewed briefly and the subject of a factory or making sugar from beets was discussed, concluding with a strong recommendation to push the establishment of such a factory the immediate vicinity of Omaha. ort, making a favorable showing of the finances of the club. Both reports were closely listened to and vigorously applauded. closely listened to and yigorously applauded.

PRESIDENT WEILLER'S ADDRESS.
President Weller then read his annual address, which was as follows:
Gentlemen of the Commercial Club: I constratulate you upon the conditions surrounding you this creating. Never before in the history of this organization has the club been called lose there under more facility and the history of this organization has the post of the labors put forth by this organization. The business depression that has been resting upon us has vanished. Our state has been blessed with an abundant harvest, make been blessed with an abundant harvest, make been blessed with an abundant harvest, make been blessed with an abundant harvest, and prosperity along all lines. We believe, therefore that every business manacerty professional man; in fact, every clitzen of our clity should give this organization and contribute to its support. We have felt the strength that comes from united and harmonious action, and every business manacerty professional man; in fact, every clitzen of our clity should give this organization this estimated that comes from united and harmonious action, and every business manacerty professional man; in fact, every clitzen of our clity should give this organization this tentile to the strength that comes from united and harmonious action, and every business manacerty professional man; in fact, every clitzen of our clity should give this organization that have the formal and the strength that comes from united and harmonious action, and every business manacerty professional man; in fact, every clitzen of our clity should give this organization during the years to come, and I have not only the commercial to the work of the fortile of the consideration at any time that will suit their commercial interest to come, and I have not only the profession of the case of the club will be largely increased, and we must be prepared to take up mailtors of interest coming before the executive committee and invited to take part in the deliberations of PRESIDENT WELLER'S ADDRESS. President Weller then read his annual adfress, which was as follows:

which has at all times been extended to-ward me. Never in my life have I seen a body of men that worked in more complete harmony and for the best interest of the city in which they live than we have here in Omaha, You deserve to succeed, and you have my best wishes for your success.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS. At the conclusion of the reading of his address the president announced that the next thing in order was the election of officers for the ensuing year, and he called for nomina

J. H. Dumont was nominated. He de-dined to serve and placed George W. Linin-ger in nomination, John Steele nominated C. F. Weller for re-election, but Mr. Weller declined the honor. W. M. Glass then nom-inated E. E. Bruce, but he also declined to accept, Mr. Dument then moved the elec-tion of Mr. Lininger by acciamation, but Mr. Lininger positively refused to accept the proffered honor and insisted that the old rule of electing the chairman of the executive tion to elect J. H. Dumont by acclamation was carried without opposition.

Mr. Dumont accepted the honor with short talk, in which he reviewed the work for which the club was organized, and dwelt upon the importance of united action.
Alfred Millard was re-elected treasurer and the club then proceeded to elect an executive

The size of the committee formed the subject of a lengthy discussion, motions being made to provide for a committee of the full board of directors, for a committee eighteen members, and for one of twenty-five members. The last motion finally prevalled and the president appointed J. S. Brady as judge and Edgar Allen, N. A. Kuhn and W. S. Poppleton as tellers, after which the vote was taken. The ballot resulted in the election of the following executive committee: Alfred Millard, Edgar Allen, J. E. Baum, E. E. Bruce, W. M. Glass, C. S. Hayward, John Steel, W. H. Glass, C. S. Hayward, John Steel, W. H. Roberson, Clement Chase, C. H. Picken, C. M. Wilhelm, A. T. Rector, C. F. Weller, A. Hospe, Jr., H. F. Cady, G. W. Lininger Thomas Fry, W. Farnam Smith, A. H. Noyes, Charles Metz, J. F. Carpenter, C. C. George, W. S. Poppleton and A. J. Vierling A motion by Mr. Lininger that the full board of directors meet with the executive committee for consultation at noon on the first Tuesday of each month formed the sub ject of another lengthy discussion, which finally ended in the adoption of an amendment suggested by Mr. Steel, that a meet ing be held at 6 p. m. the first Tuesday o each month, and that every member of the dub be invited to attend at that time ake supper and participate in a discussion matters of interest to the club.
This concluded the business of the meet ng and the board adjourned. The executive committee will meet at noonnext Tuesday for the purpose of electing of hairman and taking up the regular work of the committee.

RETAIL GROCERS WILL BANQUET.

South Omaha Brethren to Be Invited to Join the Festivities. The directors of the Retail Grocers' asso ciation met last evening and perfected arrangements for an informal lunch, or banto be making preparations to extend their quet, to be held at the Commercial Club cafe, next Thursday evening. Preceding the lunch there will be an open meeting, to which all retail grocers of Omaha and South Omaha whether members or not, will be invited. The subject for discussion at the meeting will be the question whether it would be advisable for the grocers at the present time to adopt the cash system of elling goods.

The association membership numbers 135, and it is expected that the invited guests will swell the number to fully 200, and covers ill be laid for that many at least. The association is in a most flourishing condition, and the object of the proposes banquet is to make the grocers of the cit who are not members an opportunity to earn more of the workings of the organiza

Fountain of Perpetual Youth Vainly Sought Discovered Easily.

MME. YALE TELLS HOW TO BE LOVELY

Simple Directions for Attaining and Retaining Physical Charms Are Given Hundreds of Women at Her Free Lecture.

The fountain of perpetual youth and never-fading beauty, in fruitless quest of which Pence de Leon left his bones in the unexplored ferests of a new world, is defined by Mme. M. Yale as being simply a pall of hydrant water, cold as it comes from the pipes, in which a teacupful of salt has been dissolved; this thrown over the unclad body from a tumbler.

She herself has bathed in this fountain or some other possessed of the properties ascribed to the spring so ardently sought by the Spanish adventurer. She stood yesterday upon the stage of Boyd's theater and looked out over an audience of women who crowded every available inch of space They were young women, old women, women stout and women slender, women with complexions and women with traces of what had been, and all, of whatever condition and degree, anxious beneath ar airy and somewhat contemptuous exterior to learn the secret of keeping or regaining They, in their turn, beheld across the footlight glare, a vision of phys ical loveliness, garbed in various costumes and crowned with a wealth of golden hair, in which blazed a diamond tiara. Their estimates of the quality of their entertainer's beauty varied according to their individual turn of mind. Many, it is safe to say, came to seeff, and seefling went away. "Oh, mercy! Paint an inch deep!" said, in passing out, one who was not herself entirely free from facial decoration. But most of th audience appreciated the lecture and exhibition at its very considerable value, and took away from the theater not a few excellent hints for hygicale living, which, duly and systematically carried out, cannot fall to make healthier and more attractive women. And among the unre-served admirers of Mme, Yale must be in-cluded—as she graciously included them in her first words of welcome-the few shrinkng men who hid themselves as effectually as might be in the darkest corners of that otherwise Adamless Eden. Some time was consumed in getting th normous audience scated. It is safe to ay the Boyd ushers never worked harder in their lives. The entire crowd was women, and women who had come to a free entertainment. What more need be said on that point?

HERE BEGINNETH THE SERMON. When the curtain was finally rung up, after some music by the orchestra, a sylvan scene was disclosed, with a back drop painted to represent the flames of burning Troy. On a little platform placed near the center of the stage stood Mme. Yale, he fair Helen of this not otherwise very realistic tableau. She was habited in flow-ing Grecian robes of diaphanous texture. beautiful neck and arms were bare and she made a very pretty picture with out the aid of drops and burning towns There were three poses to this part of the ntertainment, each, if possible, more grace-ul than the others.

The serious part of the afternoon's work gan after a brief intermission, when Mme. Yale, wearing an Empire gown which the nasculine mind can only admire ittempting to describe it, delivered the first and more general installment of her lec-ture on "The Religion of Beauty" and A sor "The Sin of Ugliness." She was seen to be a plump blonde woman of medium J. W height, with tapering and symmetrical arms fair neck and snowy shoulders, and a omplexion on which a somewhat near view ided by a good glass failed to reveal more paint than is called for by the ordinary stage makeup. Not even a skin such as Mme. Yale is said to possess in reality could stand the blaze of the footlights without some aid of this kind. The full measure of her physical charms, however, was more appeared, to quote the bill of the enter-tainment, "In the costume of the goddess Diana"-which permitted a great deal of her to be seen, much after the style of a horus girl in a modern burlesque. Few chorus girls, however, have Mme, Yale's figure, or carriage, or walk, or superb yet omanly development. Her lecture is not new, being in most re pects the same as it was when she last poke in Omaha. She delivers it extemporaneously, without special fluency, and in voice and with an intonation not bes adapted to public speaking. "Beauty," she said in substance, "is what all women desire, what comparatively few ossess, and what any can attain by going roperly about it. When women begin to se their personal loveliness their ambition nd their self-respect begin in a measure o go with it. Some characters are so beau ful that they shine out through a reellant exterior as the sun breaks through bscuring clouds; but consider how nore attractive such a character would be n connection with a lovely outside than n spite of physical disadvantages. Science has made great advances in all direction during the present century, but in nonmore remarkably than in the application of the laws of nature to the prolonging of human life and the acquiring and retaining of all the essentials of physical beauty. No woman, even at 60, need be wrinkled withered, bent and gray. With proper care and the employment of a hygienic diet a and the employment of a hygienic met a rational dress, regular habits of bathing and sleep, a system of simple exercises designed to develop and strengthen the body and the judicious use of such chemical preparations as are calculated to feed the waste tissues, she may keep the bloom and he vigor of youth until long past the age hen, as a grandmother, she might other wise retire altogether from participation in the activities of life." TEA. COFFEE AND CORSETS. Mme. Yale advises total abstinence from tea and coffee, and is an unrelenting foe to the corset, "These beverages," said she are altogether harmful. They are stimulants, not nourishing foods. The They play without the healthy working of which n woman can be beautiful. And as for the corset, it is my belief that it is responsible for a greater part of the ills of woman-kind than any other cause-I had almost said than all the other causes put to gether. Then followed practical illustrations of the exercises prescribed, shown by Mme, Yale first in the Diana costume referred o, and afterwards in a modern ball dress. None of the exercises are complicated in their nature and none call for special ap-paratus. They are all such as have been long used by teachers of physical culture, and are well adapted to the purposes for which they are intended. Mme. Yale also gave careful directions for bathing and for the use of her own various preparations, indicating where they would be placed on sale in Omaha.

After the lecture 1,400 women visited the drug department of the floston store to obtain the samples of the preparation for which coupons were given at the door.

Supposed to Be an Omaha Girl.

The authorities at Blair reported by tele phone to the local police last night that there was a 15-year-old girl stopping with a farmer near the town who is supposed to have run away from this city. A description of the girl was given, and the Omaha police requested to ascertain if any young girl of this city had been missed by her parents. The girl has been living at Blair for about a week.
